Off Screen Feats/Past/Generally:

After he left his brothers to drown in an overflow tunnel, when his mother asks him where his siblings are since she let them leave the house, Oz is able to come up with a lie on the fly about how they stayed outside to watch a movie, and that he was the first one to get home because he wanted to be with her instead, this part is made even more believable since Oz is the child that most wants Francis' attention and approval, he was then able to come up with a film when Francis asks which one did his brothers go see. While Francis was eventually able to figure out what actually happened, this is still a demonstration of how skilled of a deceptor Oz is, even at a young age. (Deception, Fabrication, Social Intuition)

He is fluently bilingual, knowing how to understand and speak both English and Spanish. (General Knowledge, Verbal Comprehension, Linguistic Intelligence)

Lied about his mother being dead to the Falcone crime family, in order to prevent her from being used as leverage against him if there ever came a time where the family comes after him. (Deception, Anticipation)

He reveals to Vic that he was able to learn how to drive in only 2 days, when a mobster offered him to be his driver. This shows that despite Oz not having the proper skills to do the job, he was able to learn quickly and make a living off of it after spending most of his life impoverished. (Perseverance, Environmental Adaptability)

When Sofia insults him by saying that no one cares what he thinks because of his position as a driver, Oz took the opportunity to advance his weak position, he saw how Sofia was seeing a reporter who suspected that her father Carmine was a serial killer of many women, Oz knew he could benefit from this and told Carmine, he knew that he could benefit because he knows who Carmine is as a person, a man that is obsessed with keeping himself out of jail and maintaining his public image, with the heartlessness to penalize his own daughter Sofia over this, while providing Oz with profits for giving him the information in the first place, because it helped Carmine save his own skin since the info he had now obtained from Oz prevented the reporter from ever releasing the truth on who he truly is. This provided Oz with his own crew, a drops operation, and it basically led to his rise into becoming Carmine's right hand man in return for this information. (Strategic Opportunism, Planning Intricacies, Strategy Foresight, Strategy Effectiveness, Observation, Information Gathering Insight, Connecting the Dots, Psychoanalysis)

The Batman Feats:

When Batman starts chasing him with his vehicle across the city, Oz is able to give him a difficult match using his driving skills, almost making him crash into trains and trucks by using strategic turns and stops. While he still does get captured by the batman, it was still a really good attempt since it nearly destroyed his car and almost caused him to be engulfed in flames. (Knowledge Application, Field Navigation, Tactical Potency, Tactical Responsiveness)

After this, the Batman and Lieutenant Gordon confront Oz about the Riddler's secret message that was written in Spanish that they think says "El Rata Alada" they say that it's a slang term for stool pigeons, which they connect to the penguin. Oz corrects them on this using his knowledge of Spanish, stating that it's actually "La Rata Alada" "El" would be a grammatical error since there is an a at the end of the word, so he figures out that the word actually means rat with wings, connecting it back to the Batman. This helps Batman find a secret website using these three words, and gets him closer to figuring out what the Riddler is getting at. Also it later on helps Batman realize that the Riddler could have also meant a falcon to be the rat, helping him realize that it was Carmine Falcone himself who ratted Salvatore Maroni out, not anyone else in the organization. (Knowledge Application, Linguistic Intelligence)

The Penguin Feats:

Episode 1:

In the Falcone household he steals multiple valuables using a hammer, including jewelry and blackmail documents showcasing items such as Johnny Viti sleeping with Luca Falcone's wife Tina. Oz is able to pocket these before Alberto catches him, he is able to convince him that he was just recovering jewels that were meant for him, he then sleazily tells him that he believes Alberto is worthy for the position of Boss of the family, being able to recognize that he has an inferiority complex. (Espionage, Concealment, Information Gathering, Deception, Acting Skills, Social Skills, Psychoanalysis, Psychological Profiling,)

After impulsively murdering Alberto, he was at least able to turn this into an advantage by using Alberto's phone where he found out about the location of a drug shipment, which Oz remembered him referring to it as a new drug that is going to redefine the game. (Adaptability, Information Gathering, Connecting the Dots)

To fully see if Vic is worthy enough to become his protege, Oz first starts off by being friendly with him after he forced Vic to drive for him, being able to relate to living in the east side of Gotham and drinking the delicious slushies that were sold there. After they both dispose of Alberto's body, Oz wants to see how useful Vic could be to him, he says that he now has no use for him now that he helped him get rid of the body, and that all he has to do now is kill Vic to tie up loose ends. This was a tactic Oz used to make Vic prove himself to him, which he did by saying that he can help him with whatever he needs and that he has ambition within him, after hearing this, Oz decides to spare him, due to him being able to see that Vic is worthy and strong enough for this lifestyle. (Social Skills, Social Intuition, Emotional Intelligence, Emotional Perception, Direct Manipulation, Emotional Manipulation, Cold Reading, Psychological Insight,)

When Viti forces Oz to shut down his drug operation due to the Falcone family moving all of their operations to Robbinsville, in order to avoid less heat from police. Wanting to keep his operation going, plus elevate his position, and since there's less of an opportunity to get cash in Robbinsville, Oz uses Alberto's plan and passes it off as his own to convince them to keep his operation going in the same location. (Strategy Complexity, Strategic Opportunism, Deception, Fabrication, Information Control)

Hearing Oz use the same plot of "revolutionizing the drug business" towards Viti, Sofia suspects that Oz had an involvement in her brother Alberto's disappearance, so she invites him to dinner to figure out if he was at fault for him going missing, but Oz is able to come up with a decent lie pretty quickly by saying that Alberto also put him in the plan of selling this new drug, but that he never knew that Sofia was involved, stating that he is keeping both of them in the dark, he also used the information that he got from Alberto's phone about the date of the shipment to make it even more convincing, since that's basically confirmation that he is involved in what Sofia's brother is doing. And for Alberto suddenly going missing, Oz explains to Sofia that he's probably on a bender, which he states isn't totally impossible considering his many addictions. Sofia remains suspicious but Oz's deception didn't give her any proof to retaliate. (Scenario Analysis, Fabrication, Acting Skill, Misdirection, Concealment, Logical Manipulation)

When Vic starts showing self doubt over his involvement in Oz's plan, Oz is able to convince him to keep going, saying that petty crime is very small for a man who got out of crown point from the massive flood, giving him a sense of purpose. Also Oz makes him remember how the falcones live and makes him imagine living in that type of lifestyle. (Social Skills, Psychological Insight, Social Intuition, Emotional Inducement, Identity Based Persuasion, Identity Manipulation)

In order to take over the Gotham underworld, he plans to turn the 2 biggest crime families against each other, the Maronis and the Falcones. First he goes to Sal Maroni, proposing to become a double agent in his organization in order to destroy the falcones from the inside as revenge for his imprisonment over Carmine ratting him out, by first letting him ambush the drug stations that the Falcones plan to shut down and move which were filled with the drug Drops, stating that whoever controls drops, controls the underworld in Gotham. Despite all of this Sal doesn't trust or respect Oz and rejects these offers, but Oz returns Sal his ring, saying that the Falcones have been using it as a trophy ever since he got arrested, when Sal asks him how he got it, Oz tells him that maybe he's more than what he thinks, this makes Sal rethink Oz's offers. (Strategy Complexity, Strategy Foresight, Negotiation, Planning, Emotional Perception, Psychological Profiling)

The next step of this plan is to frame the Maronis for Alberto's murder, he makes Victor secretly do this, which is making a car crash into the Falcone's estate, then making them see Alberto's body, Oz had Victor cut his corpses pinky finger off, and write payback on the car, the pinky being a nod to Sal wearing his iconic ring on that finger, making it clear to the Falcone's that the Maronis were responsible for this rather than Oz. Though Oz's original plan was even smarter since he wanted his whole head off plus the finger to make it actually look like a revenge gang attack, but regardless it laid off suspicion off himself. (Tactics, Tactical Potency, Planning Coverage, Strategy Complexity, Strategy Shielding, Deception-Fabrication, Misdirection, Concealment)

Episode 2:

His scheming last episode all basically went according to plan, the Maronis and the Falcones are now in a gang war, and the Maroni's were able to successfully ambush the Falcone's truckload of Drops and steal the stash for themselves thanks to Oz's information, successfully starting his plan to tear the family from the inside out. Also when Sal showed anger at Oz over framing him for Alberto, Oz is able to calm him down by convincing him that he had to in order to get him back in the game and revive his name on the streets. (Persuasion, Emotional Manipulation, Logical Manipulation, Strategy, Planning, Emotional Understanding, Psychoanalysis)

He attempts to sow more chaos in the Falcone organization by putting the idea in Sofia's head that she should be the one to have control over the family rather than her uncle, who Oz describes as a pussy, telling her that she has every reason to take over due to every member of the family viewing her as crazy and lesser, he tells her that she could use Alberto's shipment of the modern drug that he was working on dealing as enough reason to commit a coup, stating that it's what Alberto would've wanted. (Planning Intricacies, Strategy Foresight, , Psychoanalysis x2, Psychological Profiling, Emotional Intelligence, Abusing Insecurities Emotional Inducement)

Knowing that Sofia thinks there is a double agent in the organization, Oz plans to frame someone else as the agent to both lay suspicion off of himself, and to get with Sofia on the new drug that she was making with Alberto. The person who he chooses to frame is Johnny Viti, by using Luca Falcone's wife's jewelry to expose their affair, he makes Vic do this while he was at the Falcone estate post Al's funeral. (Perception, Information Gathering, Fabrication, Concealment, Misdirection, Planning Intricacies, Strategy Shielding)

In order to derail Sofia interrogating the newly captured Maroni enforcer Ervad to get the information of who the double agent is, Oz casually informs Viti and Milos about Sofia capturing him on her own instead of informing them beforehand, giving Oz the time to talk to Ervad to order him to incriminate Viti for giving the details of the stash to the Maronis and killing Alberto, Ervad agrees, but Oz's plan had to quickly change due to Vic's incompetence leading him to be unable to put the jewels on Viti's car, so Oz kills Ervad since him framing Viti won't have enough proof anymore, proving to the Falcone higher ups that there is a secret agent working for the Maronis, since killing him made it look like the double agent didn't want his secret identity revealed. (Planning, Deception, Adaptability, Ruthlessness)

Oz then provokes a fight with Viti in order for the bodyguards to break it up, while that happens Oz planted the blade that he used to kill Ervad onto one of the bodyguards, whose name is Castillo on his coat, leading Luca to shoot Castillo dead. And to further prove that Castillo was indeed the secret agent, Oz planted the jewels Alberto went to get the night he died in his apartment. This even made Sofia listen to what Oz told her before about taking over the family, with Sofia even making him part of the new drug that she was making with Alberto. So despite the many hiccups, Oz basically got what he wanted. (Social Skills, Improvising, Tactical Responsiveness, Planning Versatility, Fabrication, Concealment, Misdirection, Cunningness)

When the triads show doubt at Sofia and Oz's partnership, telling them that they would only consider selling their new drug Bliss on their territories, only if permission from underboss Johnny Viti is given. In order to make the triads align themselves with him and Sofia, Oz makes Luca Falcone's wife Tina have sex with Viti, then Sofia and Oz catch him in the act and they blackmail him into allowing this new drug to be sold by threatening to reveal what they just saw to Luca. With Oz's strategies, combined with Sofia convincing the leader of the triads, Zhao, with a charismatic speech, the both of them are successful in redefining the drug game. (Planning Coverage, Tactical Potency, Blackmail, Strategy Efficiency)

When Vic tells Oz that he is planning on leaving Gotham and the criminal game to escape with his girlfriend, Oz tells him that staying in the criminal lifestyle is the only chance he has at obtaining something greater for himself, being better than just an average nobody like his father, and that he has the chance to be recognized or have a legacy, with leaving he will never be remembered or respected. Oz knows Vic has a lot of ambition and uses that to his advantage in this conversation, he knows that being a nobody is something does not really want for himself, Oz then lets him leave, giving him the illusion of a choice, but what he said to Vic stuck with him and he ultimately decides to stay in Gotham. And while he got saved by Vic from the Maronis due to luck, this was also because his manipulation on Vic was something that led to him being able to go through with saving him. Though, the Maronis ambushing Oz in front of Sofia does reveal to her that he has been the double agent this entire time, they did this because Oz didn't think to cut them in the Bliss operation, thinking of this as a betrayal since they saw Oz as a dog that they could simply use as a tool. (Psychological Profiling, Psychological Insight, Emotional Perception, Social Intuition, Individual Manipulation, Emotional Manipulation, Persuasion, Identity Manipulation)

Episode 4:

This is a complete Sofia centered episode, so Oz doesn't have any feats here.

Episode 5:

He gets his men pumped up for his gang war against the Maronis and Gigantes, after they keep giving their attention on the recent news that Sofia murdered her entire family, he tells his men that this is a good thing because the family never cared or valued them, and that with them gone, they now have the opportunity to take over their seat of power. (Charisma, Leadership,)

With Sofia basically making his job easier by taking out the Falcone family by a gas leak, Oz is now centered on taking out the Maronis, but first he wants the stash of Bliss that they took from him when he got ambushed, in order to start with his own Bliss drug lab. His first step to achieve this was exploiting the stupidity of Taj Maroni, the son of Salvatore, Taj repeatedly showcased his location and criminal activity on his TikTok account, so Oz was easily able to kidnap him when he was able to identify the location. He then used him as a hostage to force Salvatore into giving him back his product. Oz knows that Sal is a ruthless criminal, but he also knows that he wouldn't sacrifice his family over pride or risk adversity, in contrast to a criminal like Carmine. He then tells Sal that he will keep his word of giving him his son back, even though his true intentions is to have Taj and his mother Nadia killed immediately after he got what he wanted, the Maronis ultimately agree to Oz's ultimatum. During this same time period, he ordered one of his men, Mikey, who was impersonating a prison guard, to kill Sal in the bathroom while he was vulnerable. Oz is able to get his Bliss stash back from Nadia, and despite her trying to kill him via an ambush, Oz was able to kill her men pretty easily using his expert gunmanship, then as planned he kills Taj and Nadia by burning them alive. (Strategy Foresight, Planning Coverage, Hostage Strategy, Tactical Synergy Psychological Profiling, Deception, Ruthlessness)

Though not everything went according to plan since Mikey failed his hit on Salvatore, leading to Oz being persecuted now by both the Falcones (now the Gigantes), and the Maronis. This forces Oz to go into hiding towards Crown Point.

But not all is lost, Oz's adaptability is really good, from just seeing a trolley token from a collection of coins, he remembers an old abandoned underground trolley station that he and his brothers used to play in, telling Vic that they would now use this location to rebuild their drug empire. Oz also states that the station has a lot of moisture, knowing that its humidity would be great for making mushrooms, and creating bliss afterwards. (Environmental Adaptability, Cognitive Adaptability, Memory, Naturalistic Intelligence)

Episode 6:

Oz is able to restart his empire rapidly, he uses this new underground location as his new base to create Bliss, he is then able to convince multiple gangs to distribute his product throughout Gotham. When he pays his distributors, he orders them to say that they got their money from construction, just in case the police ask where they got the money from. (Leadership, Influence Building, Resource Management, Strategy Efficiency, Anticipation)

When Sofia attempts to intimidate the gangs into staying away from Oz by killing several of their men, Oz responds by ordering his crew to distribute Bliss across Gotham for free. This deliberate flooding of drugs across the streets creates an overwhelming demand for the drug, leaving these gangs with no viable alternative but to work with Oz. Since Oz is the sole producer of Bliss, the gangs cannot profit without his cooperation, effectively forcing them back under his control, meaning that they have to put their lives at risk for Oz whether they like it or not. (Tactical Synergy, Strategy Efficiency, Strategy Effectiveness, Strategy Counter Difficulty, Planning Versatility)

Oz sees that his mother Francis is saddened over there being no electrical power in Crown Point, so he locates Councilman Sebastian Hady, after he finishes talking with fellow politicians and goes alone to the parking lot, Oz forces him to get the power back on in crown point, intimidating him by putting lineman pliers between his nose, he also threatens to reveal to the public that he paid gambling debt using the city's funds if he doesn't turn the electricity back on. Later on in the episode, this works and crown point is seen more vibrant than ever. (Espionage, Blackmail, Intimidation)

When Vic is filled with feelings of guilt after killing Squid, a person that became a threat to Oz's operation, Oz is able to see that Vic killed him by simply looking at his facial expression and his inability to look at him in the eye, and since he also told him before about how there was a small time gangster that could potentially pose a problem to his operation. In order to assuage his guilt he hugs him, but tells him that he needs to stay strong, He then tells Vic that he had to do this in order protect the ones he cares about, and that it gets easier with the more deaths he sees and commits over the course of his time in the game. (Observation, Cold Reading, Seeing Through People, Memory, Emotional Perception, Emotional Understanding, Emotional Management, Emotional Manipulation, Moral Reframing)

Oz calls the major gangs of Gotham for a meeting, which include the Sullvians, LoBoys, Burnley, Odessa, and the Triads. The meeting's purpose is to eliminate the doubt that they are feeling for working with him and ultimately be able to convince all of them to distribute his product once the speech is over. In this speech he gives them cans of beer and pure charisma, acknowledging and understanding why they are reluctant to work for him due to Sofia targeting them directly because associating with him would immediately carry a death sentence, but he then explains that this argument becomes null because if all of them came together with their manpower alongside the control that they now hold over the popular drug in town- bliss, they could easily overpower the Maronis, Gigantes, and the wealthy elite of Gotham. He also knows that a lot of these crime bosses despise him, but he uses the fact that despite all of their contributions to the mob, those two crime families don't know or respect them, stating that it's better to work alongside the people you hate than work beneath the ones that don't even know your name. And lastly Oz uses honesty when Zhao, the leader of the triads notes his lack of loyalty and pathological lying, in order to ease this doubt, he honestly states that he did kill Alberto Falcone and steal Sofia's product for himself, but then explains that at the end of the day, he's just a poor kid from Gotham who hustles, like each of them do, lastly stating that it doesn't matter what they think of him, since uniting will make them the rulers of the city. The gang leaders open their beer cans and agree to unite themselves, distribute for Oz, and go against Sofia and Salvatore after listening to this speech. Oz is able to convince them by appealing to their need for respect, authority and security. (Social Skills-Charisma, Leadership, Coalition Strategy, Psychoanalysis, Social Awareness, Relationship Management, Persuasion)

Episode 7:

When Salvatore captures him and attempts to take control of his Bliss operation, Oz attempts to get out of the situation by first starting to steer inner conflict between him and Sofia's men, by joking about how Sofia has Sal under a leash since he can't murder him after one of Sofia's men try to prevent Sal from going too far in assaulting Oz. Oz is then able to provoke Salvatore into trying to kill him in spite of Sofia wanting him alive, by repeatedly taunting him about the death of his wife Nadia, giving grim details like how her burning hair smelled, Oz then allows his goons to turn the lights off and they all use the unexpected darkness to their advantage to kill Sal's men, while Oz defeats Sal himself in a hand to hand fight. (Emotional Perception, Abusing Insecurities, Psychological Insight, Emotional Inducement, Tactical Potency)

After this, Oz calls Sofia telling her to give him back Francis in his hideout, in exchange he would give her his entire Bliss operation alongside all of his connections. This is a trap orchestrated by Oz however as he plans to ambush and kill Sofia alongside her men the minute she gives him back his mother. This plan doesn't work though since Sofia knows Oz too well, and instead bombs his location and the city block in crown point where it was located, killing most of his men. Oz is able to get out fast enough however by using a tunnel to escape the blast radius. (Setting Traps, Planning Intricacies, Strategy Foresight, Concealment, Fabrication)

Episode 8:

In this last episode, Sofia captures him and his mother, ultimately culminating in Francis stabbing Oz in the stomach out of all the years of built up hatred that she has had for her son, after this Francis suffers a stroke, Oz is then able to escape being tied to a chair through sheer force, he then kills one of Sofia's bodyguards and uses him as a human shield to protect himself from the other bodyguards at the scene, who he is able to kill with ease as well. After this he takes Francis to the hospital to get her medical attention, in this clinic, he is able to commit self surgery on his stab wound with relative ease by using alcohol, stitches and a large band-aid. (Tactical Responsiveness, Knowledge Application, Bodily Kinesthetic Intelligence, Stress Tolerance, Mental Fortitude)

Oz then goes to meet with Councilman Sebastian Hady, Oz uses all of his lying and schemes to make Hady do what he wants. First he blames almost every crime committed in this show on Sofia, going back to one of his first lies about how Salvatore Maroni killed Alberto Falcone, then stating that Sofia went on a rampage to avenge his death where she burnt Nadia and Taj to death, and lastly he lies about how the location that Sofia bombed was Salvatore's drug lab, instead of his own, using the fact that Salvatore died in that drug lab to make it even more believable, he then reframes it even further by saying that Sofia achieved her vengeance right there. When Sebastian asks for evidence, Oz tells him that in that underground lab, the police are going to be able to find pieces of Sofia's truck after it got detonated, he knows that with that, the story could easily stick and be believable. Oz then tells Sebastian that with helping him capture Sofia, the public now has someone they could now hate and someone they could love, and that with this and the fact that he turned the lights back on in Crown Point, he has the opportunity to rise to the top of Gotham's government he just needs to follow Oz's plans. Oz knows that Sebastian would care more for his political power than the truth of the situation. In exchange for this, Oz demands political connections, support and favors. Sebastian agrees to this deal pretty easily. (Planning Intricacies, Strategy Shielding, Mass Public Deception, Scapegoating, Smearing, Information Control, Logical Prediction, Strategic Opportunism, Emotional Intelligence, Psychoanalysis)

This is mostly Vic and Link's planning but Oz is involved as well. When the gangs decide to go against Oz after his entire bliss stash was destroyed by Sofia, they decide to meet with her, in this meeting she states that she is leaving Gotham, and that whichever gang captures Oz first gets to be the top dog in Gotham's underworld. Link knows that if Zhao or any other gang finds Oz first, he will never get the chance of being the leader of the triads, plus he's tired of being passed over by Zhao, so he uses this information and calls Victor, who he knows is with Oz, here he gets Oz in with the plan of "capturing" him for Sofia so that when she comes to reclaim him, they would ambush her men and kidnap her themselves. Here Oz tells Link that working with him, he would have both more power and respect than he ever got with Zhao. Link then tells Zhao that he captured Oz, Zhao then calls Sofia, she comes to the location, Oz is now in the triads hands with Sofia thinking that she could finally take revenge on Oz for everything he put her through, but she falls for the trap and Link kills his boss Zhao, and Oz, Vic and the rest of the triads kill the rest of Sofia's men. After this, Oz forces Sofia to go on a drive with him. (Planning Coverage, Planning Intricacies, Setting Traps, Strategy Alignment, Psychological Profiling, Persuasion, Deception)

In this drive Oz makes it look like he's going to kill her, when in fact he's going to give her a worse punishment than that, he gets to a remote location where he pulls out a gun, making Sofia think that she's going to die, but before this Oz contacted Sebastian Hady and gave him the location for Sofia's whereabouts, the police capture her and send her back to Arkham Asylum. While this was happening, under Oz's encouragement, the lieutenants of the bosses of the Sullvians, LoBoys, Burnley, and Odessa mob decide to do the same thing Link did and decide to overthrow their bosses by personally killing them, they then take their position and decide to work for Oz. This was caused by Oz cleverly giving them the same story he gave Link about how they would have more power and respect if they take over their organizations and work alongside him, which was something all of these lieutenants wanted after wanting the power of their bosses and feeling passed over for years. (Deception, Fabrication, Misdirection, Emotional Intelligence, Planning Intricacies, Strategy, Mass Manipulation, Persuasion, Psychological Insight, Influence Building)

After eliminating all of his enemies, Oz realizes that his emotional attachment for Victor is going to be a major liability for him, since his care for his mother nearly brought him and his criminal empire to shreds, so in order to become untouchable he decides to murder Victor by strangling him to death. And with that, that is how Oswald Cobb, The Penguin, became the ruler of Gotham city's criminal underworld. (Intuitive Prediction, Anticipation, Decision Making, Risk Calculation, Ruthlessness)

Anti Feats:

- Now while Oz is very smart, he isn't perfect with his intelligence, so I think it's important for me to showcase his anti feats, this is basically for the people that want to know where he lands, whether it's low tier, mid, high, etc.
- Has clear mommy issues, being pretty obsessed with having his mothers approval and affection, which his enemies could easily exploit since Oz still decided to keep Francis alive despite her turning into a vegetable. Sofia almost won by using this.
- He has a very insecure ego, anytime someone insults him he flies into a murderous rage, as shown with Carmine, Alberto and Johnny, while none of these instances caused him any issues, with Alberto's murder even starting his campaign to take control of Gotham, it is still something of note since if we start comparing him to other SCD characters, that insecurity could surely be used against him.
- He drives a very vibrant and flashy purple vehicle, and if any of y'all watched Better Call Saul, you would know that having these cars are a huge liability if you don't want to be arrested. This leads to Sofia being able to find Oz when she was first going after him, stating that the downside of driving a car like that is that it's very hard to forget.

- He is insanely sadistic and bloodthirsty, this caused him a major problem since him burning Taj and Nadia alive instead of just giving them a quick death, led to nearly all of his product turning dead and useless save for two small buckets, due to the fire activating fire extinguishing sprays. At least Oz's adaptability made up for this since he was able to make up for this stash pretty quickly.
- Despite attempting to make his hiding location a total secret, he made the mistake of trusting Eve, the leader of the strippers that work at Oz's club with knowing his location, even though he should have known that Sofia could have found her and got the information out of her someway or another, which is exactly what happened.
- Either way, these anti feats aren't the end all be all for Oz's intelligence and for the most part he's a really good tactician, and a lot of the time he is able to adapt to these mistakes or even use them to his advantage.

This is the End, thanks for reading!
