Dittophobia (WIP)

Note- This doc takes a more complex interpretation than the one you have seen in the Afton doc while it will also give more explanations regardless of more feats. Feel free to contact me on discord if you want explanations regardless the interpretation

The story of Dittophobia takes place in the main games timeline as the series of books it's inside(Tales From the Pizzaplex), was stated to be in the same universe FNAF games takes place which also implicate the events of the novel that happened in the games universe.
The story actually starts many years before the actual story begins or better say 10 years before it began. Around 1985 when Afton was conducting experiments over the manifestation of the substance name remnant which is known to be the manifestation of human emotions and can appear in multiple states as known thanks to the story of Fazbear Frights. When this happened Rory was still a 7 years old kid who had just escaped home because of a troubled life where he couldn't feel properly cared about.
After escaping home, Afton kidnapped Rory and brought him to the facility of CBEAR where he already created the fake house of Rory where he would have tested the manifestation of Rory emotions if stimulated with nightmares every night. It's important to know how before kidnapping him, Afton had been already studying Rory when he was living in the real world. In fact, he already predicted Rory would have escaped home which was predicted thanks to an accurate observation over Rory's reactions and his life; perceiving Rory emotions in the different situations he was in, at home, at school and with his friend Wade. It was done through espionage which wasn't explained but it's understandable how Afton was in an outside position while monitoring Rory which means that perceiving his emotions would even be harder as he would be distant from him multiple meters while spying on him. While Afton like I said before, anticipated Rory would have escaped home and this is a generalization of the possible reasoning he used in order to predict Rory would have escaped home before the event even happened: (Generalization)

1P: "Based on my analysis, I know Rory's parents are rarely home, which implies that they didn't spend much time with their son.
->

2P: Rory also has problems at school, particularly with girls, and his only comfort is his friend Wade, who has similar issues with girls.
->
3P: Wade and Rory also created a space where girls are not allowed, where only Wade and Rory can talk alone.
->
1C: Creating a space where girls aren't allowed to enter further suggests that Rory really feels alone and that Wade is his only source of comfort.
->
4P: In addition to having problems with girls, Rory also struggles in school subjects and academics, especially in mathematics, where his only help comes from his friend Wade.
->
C2: Therefore, this leads me to believe that his parents' absence could probably have created a psychological trauma within Rory, as he was unable to confide his feelings to anyone other than Wade.
->
C3: This also leads me to believe that because Rory can't talk with his parents, his grades progressively are getting worse due to the lack of support from parental figures, further exacerbating his psychological situation.
->
5P: Rory's age makes this psychological situation even more difficult, as children around his age are still developing the logical thinking necessary to protect their mental and emotional well-being.
->
FINAL CONCLUSION PREDICTION
This means that Rory will escape home because of the mental trauma of not being able to properly understand his own psychology which will lead him to escape from home because of his not feeling properly understood by normal persons and he only has Wade as his emotional anchor."

(Info Gathering + Overall Foresight + Deductive Reasoning + Inductive Reasoning + Abstract Reasoning + Psychoanalysis + Analysis + Observation + Indirect Manipulation + Emotional Understanding + Emotional Perception + Critical Thinking + Analogical Thinking + Convergent Thinking)

While Afton not only predicted Rory would have escaped home he also, in order to make his future plan work perfectly, created a perfect replica of the house Rory had when he was still with his parents. This was obviously part of the plan Afton wanted to activate to perfectly experiment on Rory emotions and on the remnant(This wasn't stated but assumed he wanted to experiment on the strongest type of remnant called Agony).

Explanation Regardless William VSI here

The house presented by Rory in the story is perfectly the same as Rory's house when he was still a kid. While this means that Afton not only created a perfect replica of the house, he also recreated the structure even though they are in an underground facility.
While Afton didn't only create the complex of the house, he also created multiple different things for it which will then work for his future plan.
The House in fact present:

An electrical generator which would have given electricity to the house.

A gas generator which was used to pump gas into Rory's house to manipulate him and make him have nightmares.

Mannequins which were moved thanks to rails connected to a trap door. Those mannequins would have worked under the hallucination of the gas as nightmares to experiments on Rory fear.

A food dispenser which would have given nutrients to Rory while he would have thought it was his mother the one that was everyday buying food for him.

After having listed what Afton had done in order to then execute his plan, it is now time to state the plan he had in mind since the beginning of when he was observing Rory.
Important to also note how the reasoning Afton used when predicting Rory would have felt home will also be correlated with his reasoning to anticipate his thoughts in the contingency.
First off, while still analyzing Rory in the preparation process, Afton was creating the hallucinogenic gas. This hallucinogenic gas would have made Rory believe when he wasn't experimenting with the nightmare that he was living a normal life, going to school ecc. This life different from the one Rory was living was much better than the life he previously had. The gas also had the ability to make Rory forget past events which in future would have been used for Afton contingency in order to cover possibilities of Rory escaping from the fake reality.

Afton covering the preparation process which was in a more refined way this one:

- Analysis on Rory in order to accurately choose the victim of the experiment.

- Replication and creation of a fake house where the experiment would have been conducted+everything needed in it.

- Creation of the hallucinogenic gas which would have been a fundamental part to accomplish the plan.

- Preparation of the contingency in case of problems(I'll be explaining this later)

Now it's more time to define the actual plan Afton had already in mind.

Afton's plan was to bring up Rory in a fake reality where the gas created by him would have made him think he was living a perfect life while he wasn't experimenting so that Rory could have never doubted that he was actually captured in a fake reality. This was done by not only using the gas that would have made Rory see things that other people don't see, do things that he wasn't actually doing, talking with people that he wasn't talking with ecc, but also thanks to multiple misdirection placed by Afton in order to accomplish this misdirection as the gas alone wouldn't have been enough in order to misdirect Rory of the events happening around him, so obviously Afton adopted a serie of sensorial misdirection in the house other than obviously remaking the house in perfect details. There were present multiple misdirections to accomplish the fabrication itself which were correlated with gas which also was somehow programmed to show what Afton wanted to show to Rory. Those are all the fabrications implemented to make the plan work:

Hallucinogenic Gas:

Academic Success: In real life, Rory only knew how it felt to have poor grades. In Afton's fabricated reality, however, Rory experienced academic success. As in fact, this reality should have been perfect in Rory's eyes so he programmed him to see what he always wanted to see through the gas.

Girls as Friends: Afton altered Rory's perception of the girls which didn't like Rory, making them appear neutral or friendly, thus de-escalating his school problems. With this, Afton had fabricated "friends" other than Wade.

Parental Presence: Afton took several steps of fabrication to create the illusion that Rory's parents were present and caring as he always wanted:

1. Fabricated shower sounds to mimic his mother's routine, leveraging his knowledge of her habits to mislead Rory. In fact it was common for his mother to usually shower before going to work. Afton created a tape which created the sound of a shower running.

2. An automated food dispenser kept the fridge stocked, accompanied by generator sounds to enhance the illusion of a functional household. Thus, camouflaging the fridge via fabricated sounds, while further misdirecting Rory to believe his parents were present. In fact, to cover the sound of the electrical generator, Afton placed it close to the fridge in order to make the fridge look like it was running normally while also covering the generator which worked as perfect concealing.

3. Afton also created fake sounds of Rory parents which would have responded to Rory even though this was part of the contingency in case the gas would have started to not work properly. (This fact can be understood because in the first few pages, Rory hears a "shhh" coming from the shower as he was calling his mother. I'll be talking later in the contingency how Afton predicted Rory's thoughts in particular situations)

These fabrications effectively misled Rory into believing he was living his ideal life, free from academic struggles and bullying, with attentive parents. Afton's detailed psychological analysis allowed him to create a reality that aligned perfectly with Rory's deepest desires. While also, thanks to the gas effect planned by Afton, he couldn't even remember his real life as the gas effect is also the one to make you forget the past.

This is what happened while Rory was awake in the fake reality and not going against the nightmares. As after night would have come and Afton would have started testing the experiments, trap doors that weren't present before would have started to appear, with also rails which transported mannequins. On Rory's, because of the gas, he couldn't see either the trap doors and the mannequins as he was able to only see the monsters/the nightmare animatronics created by the hallucination.

It's important to note how Afton should have been placing cameras in order to see what was happening inside the house as he was in another room while that was happening. In that room using the cameras, he analyzed Rory's reactions and scaled his fear based on a scale between 0 and 10. Rory from the analysis Afton had every night perceiving his fear, reached 9 on the scale. That being said, every night Afton using the cameras without even seeing the actual nightmares was able to perceive in the deepest Rory fear to the point of escalating it. It is important to also note how creating a scale of fear requires a decent level of EU in order to be done.
Not to mention how much fear Afton was able to induce in Rory using the nightmares illusion as from what we can see in the start of the story, Rory has incredible fear for the nightmares which were programmed by Afton.
After multiple experiments, Afton for unknown reasons leaves the experiments and leaves the entire experiment running on his own. This was done because of the possibility Rory could have escaped the facility and gone to the outside world, giving Afton Robotics multiple troubles if he lawsuited them. So Afton let the experiment go on.
Rory then lived in this fabricated reality for over ten years without suspecting anything amiss until the gas pump malfunctioned, revealing parts of the house previously concealed by perceptual deception. Despite discovering the truth, Rory chose to continue living in his fake home, demonstrating the powerful impact of Afton's fabrication.

Generally what happened here seen in an holistic way would be like this:

- Preparation process explained before in order to make sure the plan will execute.

- Kidnap Rory and transport him to the facility.

- Make him inject the gas so that he will forget his past and also start hallucinating in his new fake reality.

- Start the experiment.

(Info Gathering + Info Control + Misdirection + Fabrication + Concealment + Indirect Manipulation + Emotional Manipulation + Observation + Associative Thinking + Lateral Thinking + Divergent Thinking + Application Thinking + VSI + VCI + Crystallized Intel + Emotional Understanding + Emotional Perception + Emotional Facilitation + Social Awareness + Hot Reading + Overall Planning + Overall Foresight)

Now, it's time for the story of Dittophobia to actually happen. The story happens 10 years later when Afton left the experiment. Afton, already predicted all of the events in the story which were covered by his contingency created in the preparation process I already stated before. The contingency would have been not an exact contingency for that exact moment or better say 10 years in the future but rather a contingency plan in case Rory could have possibly tried to escape on an unknown date.
This contingency presents multiple steps in itself in order to be accomplished but first it's important to state the AIM of the contingency in order to understand this better.
His plan was to make Rory progressively remember his past when he was living his real life outside the fake reality as the gas, like Afton knew, made him forget everything about his past. This means that making him remember his traumas which Afton was aware of would have made him think that maybe the reality given to him by Afton was better than the actual reality he had before. Making him remember the facts that Rory hated about his life other than also when he escaped, was exactly what Afton wanted in his plan. William knew that in such a particular occasion he could have not interfered or either know about when the gas generator would have started to not work properly so he opted for the easiest way which was to manipulate Rory and make him remember the events in his life that he wanted most. Other than making him remember, Afton wanted to point out how the life he gave to Rory was much better than the one he was going to attend if he actually went into the real world. This process of manipulation was meant to happen every time Rory would have tried to escape or garnered too far from escaping the facility with the gas stopping. Afton was sure that the process would have always worked because of the gas that every time would have made Rory forget the previous time he tried to escape. To execute this long term contingency, Afton obviously created a series of tactics that I'll now explain.

Note if you are interested-
Dittophobia word meaning itself is the fear of repetition which is why at the end of the story its stated that the tapes were ready once again as Afton planned this to perfectly always happen, every time the generator would have broke and because of the gas, Rory would have forget the last time he tried to escape making this a perfect loop. This gets also argued by again the line at the end of the story.

The first step- The gas would have progressively stopped working normally because obviously the generator broke. Rory would have progressively started to realize that the fake house he was living inside was actually old years, his parents were never actually there, and many of the rooms didn't even exist. At first obviously Rory won't realize it was because of the gas which leads him to the second step.

The second step- In order to get out of the fake house, Rory should have gone past the secret passage inside the fridge that was conducted to the room where Afton signed every day the results of the experiments with the gas generator. This was the only passage that could have conducted Rory to the facility itself. This is pretty obvious to anticipate as it was the only passage there was to possibly exit the house which is why Afton designed it like that or better say, to conduct Rory where he wanted, applying an indirect manipulation.

The third step- Rory would have found out about the entire situation he was through all those years. Here Afton left, other than a toolbox, which will be part of the final step to make Rory go to the fake reality again; the clipboard pages which would have made Rory understand the entire situation about him living inside the fake house/fake reality for 10 years other than also the results about the tests. Here in order to progress in the manipulation over Rory, Afton on purpose didn't state the function of the gas in making people forget their past/memories. This was done as Afton already anticipated the possibility of Rory in case though about the fact that the gas would have made him forget that he tried escaping, he could have possibly not go back in the fake reality but rather go out of the facility which would have made the plan fail. What I'm saying here is the final step of the plan where Rory would have been emotionally manipulated by the tapes of Afton to go into the fake reality again and if he knew about the gas, he could have destroyed the entire plan.

The fourth step- Rory would try to escape the place where he's inside to see his real family outside of the facility. Here Rory still doesn't remember his past as anticipated by Afton and it will be the key for his manipulation later. After anticipating Rory movements around the facility or better say predicting, Rory arrives in the control room. Here Afton placed in the metal drawers a partially fabricated blueprint of the entire facility (created by himself and remember that he's also the owner of Afton Robotics) that only showed a part of the facility with the only exit being the elevator we use as Michael in Sister Location. This was done in order to lead Rory into the next step while also Afton predicted Rory would have searched in the metal drawers in order to find something to exit the facility. (Remembering that CBEAR has multiple exits. From what we can see in the other parts of SL game, the facility also has other entrances and exits as it is connected with FredBear and Afton house, other than the Circus Baby pizza world and also the entrance for normal people)

A bonus anticipation that we can also include is that Afton predicted that the facility after all this time wouldn't have electrical energy anymore because of the time that had passed since he left so because of this the elevator won't work because of the energy not present in the facility which will then lead to the final step as planned by Afton. It's important to note how If he didn't predict it then Rory would have escaped using the elevator.

The fifth step- Rory would have found out that the elevator doesn't work because the facility doesn't have electrical energy anymore so it's obvious that he didn't have any way to escape here and as Afton anticipated, he would have think about using the electricity generator inside the fake house as it is the only place where there is still energy(Rory doesn't know that there is a generator but because the house is the only place where there is electrical energy there should be a generator). We know that Rory will then not even think about the possibility of there being a generator which is when the contingency Afton had entered the game.

Afton left in case Rory would have not thought about trying to find the generator in the fake house, a contingency which was also to leave a radio again in the metal drawers in case Rory would have not been able to think about using the hypothetical house generator as he predicted Rory would have went to search again in the remaining drawers. Now, behind this there are two possible interpretations which can be used which are both pretty unrealistic and don't really make sense with the narration so I'll be using the most possible which is that Afton anticipated an entire conversation. So, the radio placed there wasn't actually a normal radio but rather a tape pre-registered by Afton anticipating the conversation with Rory acting as his friend Wade. Afton here predicted that Rory would have thought about using the radio to contact his friend Wade as he would have remembered about him having a Walki-Talki that he always used. To cover his identity, Afton created a false story about Wade being able to talk with Rory because his father hadn't change his old walki-talki with a new radio and that he wants to keep his Walki-Talki because it remembers him of him and when they were kids and also their friendship after Rory went missing. Afton here made an induction based on the previous knowledge he had about Wade and also Rory which is how he anticipated Rory would have tried contact Wade using the Walki-Talki Generalization of his reasoning would be like this:

1P; Rory has a close friend named Wade.

2P; Wade was his only friend when they were young.

3P; Wade and Rory created a place where girls aren't allowed to enter and only them can stay there.

C1; This means they both had great friendship when they were young.

4P; They both always used Walki-Talki to communicate with each other.

5P; In the fake reality I created there is still the presence of Wade.

C2; Rory should still remember about Wade because he's present in the fake reality I created.

C3; While he should also remember about the Walki-Talki they used when they were younger 6P; Rory knows that Wade was the only person who actually was real unlike the other person in the fake reality.

FINAL CONCLUSION

Rory will likely try to use the Walki-Talki to contact Wade as he will remember how they both used the Walki-Talki's when they were younger. It will be the first thing Rory will have in mind because of the strong relationship they had while also Wade was the only person Rory actually had as a friend.

In their talk, Afton/Wade was indeed telling Rory good things about his parents searching them ecc but the main point in that wasn't that as he wanted to make Rory think about the fact that if he would have went outside the facility/in the real world, he would have been much inferior to other people because he stayed inside the fake reality for 10 years while also adding the fact about having a sister would have made Rory being more under pressure and also what she would have think about him. While the unrealistic part in this is that Afton was able to anticipate the conversation years before it even happened and sadly there isn't any logical correlation or reasoning on how he was able to. While for example with LL there was a minimum logic behind the conversation with Schneizel, in this one there isn't while it's also much longer compared to Lelouch one. It's also impressive to note Afton acting skills in perfectly mimicking Wade's voice while also being able to assemble his behavior when Rory was still young.
On the other hand, due to the behaviour of the feat and context behind what the new novels introduce, it's possible the one there wasn't exactly Afton, but rather an artificial intelligence specifically designed to respond to Rory in determined ways, just so he would go back to the house, restoring the generator. Either assumption would work, considering the context behind Tales having Ai's introduced and Sister Location already having artificial intelligences with the FunTimes

Last step- Now after Afton/Wade said to Rory to try searching for the electrical generator in the fake house, Rory is determined that he will finally be able to exit that horrible place. Rory will then find the generator position behind the fridge as he would have heard strange sounds from there before. After finding the generator, a voice(this time the one of Afton and not the one of Wade that Afton was mimicking) manipulated Rory emotionally making him totally remember his past or better say the past Rory hated from when he escaped home. With different persuasive lines that Afton used to make Rory understand and remember his past life, on how horrible it was while manipulating him into believing the life he will have in the fake reality given to him will always be better than the one he will have in the real world. Making Rory remember about when he escaped home, how his parents treated him, his problems with girls etc when he acted as Wade he didn't mention as he was waiting for this moment when Rory would have been perfectly undecided between going out of the fake world or staying there. Afton here perfectly anticipated what Rory would have thought and also how his mind would have changed 10 years before. He did by reasoning what Rory would have thought about using his previous knowledge of him on a max level.

This is a generalization of his reasoning which is correlated with the reasoning he previously did to predict Rory leaving his home:

1P: “Based on my analysis, I know Rory's parents are rarely home, which implies that they didn’t spend much time with their son.
->
2P: Rory also has problems at school, particularly with girls, and his only comfort is his friend Wade, who has similar issues with girls.
->
3P: Wade and Rory also created a space where girls are not allowed, where only Wade and Rory can talk alone.
->
1C: Creating a space where girls aren’t allowed to enter further suggests that Rory really feels alone and that Wade is his only source of comfort.
->
4P: In addition to having problems with girls, Rory also struggles in school subjects and academics, especially in mathematics, where his only help comes from his friend Wade.
->
C2: Therefore, this leads me to believe that his parents' absence could probably have created a psychological trauma within Rory, as he was unable to confide his feelings to anyone other than Wade.
->
C3: This also leads me to believe that because Rory can't talk with his parents, his grades progressively are getting worse due to the lack of support from parental figures, further exacerbating his psychological situation.
->
5P: Rory's age makes this psychological situation even more difficult, as children around his age are still developing the logical thinking necessary to protect their mental and emotional well-being.

INITIAL CONCLUSION

This means that Rory will escape home because of the mental trauma of not being able to properly understand his own psychology which will lead him to escape from home because of his not feeling properly understood by normal persons and he only has Wade as his emotional anchor.

6P: After I kidnapped him, the hallucinogenic gas caused him to lose all his memories due to its effects.
->
7P: During the time he was under the hallucination, he lived a perfect life where he didn't have the problems he previously faced.
->
C4: This makes me deduce that if the gas stops, he will begin thinking more logically, and after hearing words related to his past, his memories will return, causing him to remember his trauma.
->
C5: Consequently, remembering his trauma will make him reflect on the fact that the fake life I created for him is better than the life he had as a child.
->
8P: Not to mention, he is now even more behind in terms of his age due to spending so much time in the hallucination, which would likely make him think that his life is now even worse than before.
->
9P: While his critical thinking should have developed as he aged, even though he was trapped in a fake reality where he didn't learn anything, his brain would still have developed naturally due to the normal progression of human development.
->
C6: Though there is a possibility that he might realize, despite being far behind in age, he could receive special instruction to reintegrate into society.
->
C6 Counter: However, this is unlikely because he will be focused on the main subject of our argumentation, or more accurately, on the main subject of what I say in the tapes. He will primarily be thinking about my words and remembering his past.
->
10P: It's also important to consider that he will still have cognitive difficulties due to the lack of mental stimulation during his time in the hallucination.
->

11P: Additionally, my voice will make him focus more on what I want him to think about, as it will make him feel comfortable with my words, causing him to concentrate more on what I'm saying.

Final Conclusion and Anticipation:

Rory will mainly think about his past when he was a child, remembering all the negative experiences in his life while also considering the major factors that could completely ruin his future. In such a short time span, he won't be able to consider multiple possible outcomes and will simply accept the fake reality I created for him. Due to the gas that causes him to forget what he previously did each time, he will always fall back under my manipulation, returning to the fake reality I created for him.

After hearing those information he forgot because of the gas from that majestic voice that made him feel warm and secure, Rory started thinking about all those negative facts I mentioned before, with the girls not linking him, his parents, the fact that he would have been much behind his age which was the last step to Afton manipulation to accomplish. It is important to also note how everything in Afton manipulation also requires logical manipulation as he manipulated the logic in Rory's way of thoughts regardless of what could happen if he actually left the facility and went into the real world.
After making him reactivate the gas via his manipulation, Rory would reactivate the gas using the toolbox Afton left there to repair the gas generator and make Rory go back to his imaginary world. This is also the AIM of the plan itself which is to in the end make Rory go to the generator to manipulate him using the cassette. After that, everything should continue to go normal as planned and Rory comes back to the fake reality until the next time the gas generator will break once again. It's pretty obvious that every time the generator breaks, the events of the story will repeat once again like I previously mentioned as the gas will make Rory forget the previous time he tried to escape making him unable to actually accomplish anything in any possibilities.

(VSI + VCI + FRI + Info Control + Misdirection + Fabrication + Concealment + Acting Skills + Indirect Manipulation + Direct Manipulation + Emotional Manipulation + Individual Manipulation + Logical Manipulation + Critical Thinking + Associative Thinking + Divergent Thinking + Lateral Thinking + Analytical Thinking + Convergent Thinking + Linear Thinking + Applicational Thinking + Abductive Reasoning + Deductive Reasoning + Inductive Reasoning + Abstract Reasoning + Social Skills + Social Awareness + Charisma + Emotional Facilitation + Emotional Understanding + Overall Planning + Overall Foresight + General Intelligence(Both types) + Hot Reading + Setting Traps + Observation + Data Analysis + Psychoanalysis)

GENERAL FEATS

Note- To further illustrate the effectiveness of Afton's fabrication with his fake reality, it is worth noting that Rory, even after learning about his false life, still chose to live in his fabricated home. This is shown in the scans below. While I will not delve into Afton's direct manipulation via the pre-recorded tape, it's important to mention that Afton emphasized Rory's troubles, using reverse psychology to reinforce his fabrications.

When Rory was calling for his mother multiple times as he couldn't find the exit from his house, he started hearing a "shhh" coming from the bathroom. This shhh as stated by Rory had rather a masculine voice rather than feminine but because he was really tired after trying to find the exit from home, he thought he was just hallucinating and just went to bed after that. This was already anticipated by Afton or better say he already anticipated that after the gas would have started to not work properly, Rory would have started calling his mother in the shower and knowing this he created a response to Rory which would have given him comfort and made him secure until the gas would have totally stopped. Again, Afton perfectly predicted Rory's thoughts like he always knows what he will do.
(Fabrication + Info Control + Concealment + Misdirection + Anticipation + Indirect Manipulation + Social Awareness + Emotional Understanding + Divergent Thinking

In order to create the fabricated map used to trick Rory and making him think that the only exit was the elevator Afton didn't only create an entire map of the entire complex of the bunker but with only the zone he wanted to show but he also had to visualize in his mind the bunker he had created to do so. It's possible to speculate that he already had created previous blueprints of the entire complex of the bunker as he's the one that designed it but this doesn't remove the fact that he had to still visualize the areas he wanted to be there in the map

(Fabrication + Concealment + Misdirection + VSI + VCI)

Afton, to make everything work properly work here, used an incredible quantitative of applicational thinking from the beginning to even the end itself of the story. All times Afton used applicational thinking in the story are:

- When he first predicted Rory would have escaped his house.
- Hallucinogenic Gas creation.
- Creation of the house complex to make the plan work
- Creation of both generators.
- Creation of the Mannequins, Trap Doors and rails.
- Creation of the food dispenser and application of food knowledge in order to give Rory nutrients.
- Voice mimicking ability.
- CBEAR fabricated map.
- General psychology utilization.
- Cassette and tapes utilization.
- Camera utilization.

(Applicational Thinking + Critical Thinking)

Important thing to also note is that even though Afton wasn't present for all those years, his plan should still have insane coverage as it covered all 10 years of a fake reality while also it's going to continue after Rory went back to the fake reality which would give him pretty much perfect coverage on everything while also it covered everything happened in the story as well even though it was a contingency.

(Overall Planning Coverage)

The entire contingency plan was done because of the possibility that Rory could have escaped the facility and go make a lot of troubles for Afton Robotics if he escaped. This also means that the entire plan was also based on info control regardless of the presence of a literal child experiment in the facility as in the company no one is aware of the events happening there. In fact Afton is able to control every info regardless of everything happening there. He was mostly able to control the info's regardless of Rory's presence thanks to the hidden position of the "house" in the facility which wasn't reachable normally and only Afton knew how to reach it. In a few words, he concealed the entire experiment to hundreds of employees and it was also never discovered. Arguably part of the coverage in the plan was also this regardless of the info control on the experiment while also predicting that because of the position of the house, they would have never found out about the plan and experiment.

(Info Control + Concealment + Logical Manipulation + Mass Manipulation + Lateral Thinking + Divergent Thinking + Logical Prediction)

Important to note how the story of Dittophobia and the events takes place in the same universe of the games which means that the events happen in the same exact facility of Sister Location without differences. This means that prior to the events of the story (which happens after Sister Location from what we can understand) Afton predicted that; first Michael would have not interfere with this plan, not touching or find anything that could have interfere the success of the plan and second that the gas would have not stop in the same time Michael was at Sister Location/while there was still staff working in the facility.
Even though it's more luck regardless of this part as we don't really know how Afton was able to predict no one would have ever messed with the contingency plan itself but it's still assumed that he somehow was able to not make anyone interfere. While for Michael it's possible to speculate that Afton gave him exact instruction on what he should have done which would make it more believable that Afton calculated the risk of any intromission. It's pretty much obvious why Michael would have followed strict instruction stated by his father seeing the position he was in and also the tone he uses when speaking of him in the final monologue in Sister Location referring to him with respect. While Michael is also seeking redemption from his father because of killing his little brother which would lead him to try to regain his honor lost by not making his father disappoint him which will obviously lead to doing anything he strictly instructs him.

(Risk Calculation + Info Control + Concealment + Mass Manipulation + Indirect Manipulation + Divergent Thinking + Applicational Thinking + Lateral Thinking + Critical Thinking + Leadership + Charisma + Overall Tactics + Overall Foresight + Emotional Understanding)

It's also possible to assume that the story wasn't only telling something that happened to only Rory but rather that many other children were brought into the facility by Afton and experimented on with various nightmares like Rory case. This would be even more incredible as Afton should have been able to control the info's regardless of all the children disappearances and the experiments to the employees working in the facility.

Made by Freddy Fivebear/Namelessman
If you could help with the doc, I would like to contact you on discord
Dc: franc0208_78591