After the collapse of the Soviet Union,an immense power vacuum was created. Voja wanted to fill it but knew that being conspicuous by doing too much too soon would result in snubbing from Mafias and Police. To overcome it,she found and took control of a church father who was corrupt and greedy. She puppeteered him to use the church as a front for illegal acts such as prostitution,theft and trade of drugs by children who are naturally inconspicuous. She had the children divided into three castes [Elite -> Middle -> Lower] to create division and completion with the higher ranked getting better treatment and empty promise and the lower receiving a harsh and cold life. She established herself as a member of the middle class . The church doubled as an easy money laundering scheme as donations usually come in small amounts without listing. To reap the fruits of her labour she had the father pay bribes to (what he thought) police and mafia when in it came to her. It served as a double layered shield :

1st. It's a normal church

2nd. It's a criminal organisation led by the Father

Voja's manipulation of her father,Lacy was an extremely key feat. She understood her father and other relatives differed greatly in justice. Her father's justice was in upholding the country and its laws while her mother and grandfather had protecting themselves as their justice. So,to control her father she exploited this. She furthermore understood some resentment was present due to her abandonment and their immorality. She knew that Lalo would kill her mother noticing her scheme but allow her father to live while guilting him about leaving her all alone and expounded that whether he left her on not it was her choice (Lalo also revealed that she would ask for kindness's like killing someone and if not given then would accomplish it herself and added it might have happened due to her mother attempting to kill her). It transpired as she had desired . She started by asking the death of her grandfather who she knew her father disliked. Eventually,her demands left that man with nothing and demolished his justice and he considered that very justice foolishness from someone living in comfort. Till,finally,lalo arrived to offer a safe haven in the underworld for Voja. Lacy followed suit becoming a pawn. This resulted in Lacy becoming a total pawn who took joy in killing due to being accustomed to it and reviled his justice .

She was abandoned by her grandfather and mother with her mother attempting to drown her. But she survived. But,she remembered that moment clearly down to the minutest detail due to her perfect memory. Furthermore,she could read the apathy and such emotions on her mother's eye despite no experience as that was her oldest conscious experience and the eye being notoriously hard to read and her being only a few weeks old

As you know Lacy took control of a smuggling enterprise. From a first glance it would appear that he is conducting perfectly legal shipping ,totally above ground. However,those smart or influential enough would recognise that it is a smuggling enterprise lead by Lacy. This is is self evident since Lacy is the captain and most prominent member with everyone listens to his order. However,a deeper truth would be that Voja was controlling Lacy which nobody would be able to realise since Lacy is ordering Voja around. Furthermore,this serves to erase all connections with Lalo as Lalo (mostly) contracts Voja. Thus it served as a three layered protection -

1st. It's a totally legal shipping business

2nd. It's smuggling conducted by Capt. Lacy

3d. It's smuggling masterminded by Voja

When kaji and Yokoi were investigating Jalloud in the harbour. Voja had them detained but not killed to draw out any ally or useful information. Voja noticed that Kaji had been looking around for anything to help him when he was detained

After detaining Yokoi,they found out through him that Gakuhito of the MoD was also investigating them. Voja couldn't just leave or let loose ends be,so she aimed to trap Gakuhito using Yokoi. She waited till Gakuhito called again and had Yokoi explain that Jalloud (smuggling ship) had already left but he found some witnesses with key information in a ship named Gallop. The reason this was effective was Yokoi was quite competent so him being detained would be unlikely and such a defeat is itself unimaginable or rather something that normal people don't want to imagine and there would be the idea that "I made the call" so it isn't an active trap. Voja had Gakuhito be watering the plants for a trick which would be important later

The timing of Voja's reasoning of the message trick is vague so I will explain both versions : A message was sent to Yokoi by Gakuhito while he was talking on the phone with Yokoi which is unusual thus this might have been a probe to see If Yokoi is detained because if he were then the captor would instinctively pull the phone away to check (Considering,Voja's lack of surprise at Gakuhito's calmness or rather knowledge of Yokoi's detainment) ;or,upon seeing Gakuhito's calmness Voja realised he knew that Yokoi was detained (and this wasn't calmness due to competence) which means the message was a prove to see If Yokoi is detained because if he were then the captor would instinctively pull the phone away to check (Considering Lacy's active dialogue and line of reasoning,but Lacy was a pawn and himself not surprised). Either way,Voja had Lacy explain this conjecture and on basis of it execute Ulanov (the one who was holding Gakuhito) as Ulanov had made the mistake of checking the message while ordering Voja to hold Ulanov. This served two things : 1. Lacy is the one in control and 2. Worsened Gakuhito's mental state to allow extraction of information about any allies or such easier.

Shortly before Ulanov's execution. Lacy ordered the containers of weapons loaded on the ship but a crewman hurried back explaining that the containers and 3d parry workers were gone.

This is the right time to mention that the name of the boat with it's font and font size was in such a way tang it could be switched from Jalloud->Gallop and back again with ease

After the execution of Ulanov, Gakuhito appeared to be terrified but acted like he wasn't . Voja correctly estimated this was a deception to make the captain torture him for information to buy time for backup which is logically what someone who had created that Message strategy would've done. (Kaji only explained Lacy reasoning such but that was what Kaji reasoned [Voja had fooled Kaji that Lacy was the boss] and Lacy is demonstrably inferior to Voja).

This resulted in a stalemate. Gakuhito is buying for time to get backup (it's questionable if backup will even arrive) but the captain knows this and so might leave and cut his loss which will be unsatisfactorily to both parties thus naturally a Kakerou match would be held. However,surprisingly,Kaji revealed all of this and proposed a Kakerou match between Gakuhito and Lacy. Lacy gave Gakuhito a pat down to check for weapons . Lacy explained the game's rules and even allowed Gakuhito to record it to give the image of transparency when his trick couldn't be realised from the rules alone . The touch screen trick was that the ships had to be touched not their cell so say if there was a ship on the topmost row which was barely reachable (Lacy could control the placement of the board with a remote and Lacy knew Gakuhito's height through the pat down) then the cell would be touched,it would say a ship wasn't there while a ship was hiding there.

Before Gakuhito chose the position of his ships he would obviously check for cameras. Voja had Lacy comment that plants don't lie when Gakuhito searched for a camera in a plant which would make Gakuhito tear off a petal of the plant to anger Lacy. This served Lacy's trick.

Another trick would be established by guiding Kaji and Yokoi. Voja advised Lacy to structure the guards such that Kaji and Yokoi can leave during the kakerou match when all eyes would be diverted and they could enter the detainment room where the laptop was located. Voja knew that Kaji would've noticed the laptop and would try to find it but would inevitably be caught but not before finding out the laptop shows the current camera feed of the match. After they were caught ,they would be bound up and would naturally watch the match. Now,one of the binds would be receptive to a radar possessed by Lacy.

Lacy would use the radar trick to win and when Gakuhito was undergoing huge stress as to why Lacy was winning. Lacy would explain that the plant who Gakuhito had torn the leaf of was communicating (backster effect). This was extraordinary and unimaginable but considering the stress Gakuhito could believe it due to Cognitive Release.

There was a Tri-Layered Deception to hide Lacy's stratagem

1. Lacy was playing normally

2. Lacy was winning using the radar to communicate with the plant

3. Lacy was winning due to radar which was reactive to the binds

Voja's superiority to Lacy provides a narrative feat,she can replicate or perform a better version of Lacy's Second Identity Reasoning where he concluded that the there was an ally of Gakuhito who was helping him (and Gackt contacted him when he said he was re-listening to the rules) from just Gakuhito was using the safe and sensible diagonal (striking in a diagonal) strategy to win , a crewman being found dead and Gakuhito also managed to sink the Cruiser which were on the borders despite their placing being illogical (if found can be easily destroyed) and then the destroyer (effected the same bias and more so when the other was found). (Same goes for the border placing of the ships which acts on bias of that being a bad move)

Voja located Kidou but reasoned that he wasn't the one who was Gakuhito's ally . Voja still found a use for him by exploiting his personality. She profiled that he repeatedly makes bad decision due to greed despite wanting and promising to be better and believes that he needs a large surplus of money to be able to become better,furthermore somewhere that bad life is the only one he can love or rather the only one he has learned he can love. Voja exploited this by acting like she accepted his words that he's not the enemy but Hal is (which any reasonable person would say) to help locate Hal. This proved to be simple since Hal had Kidou's phone.

She used one of the men to prevent him from escaping through the wing. Voja had truly outplayed Hal and had cornered him with superior strength and weapon (scythe) ,throwing him into the sea.

Her strategy had layers of concealment :

1. Nobody is trying to find and kill Hal and don't know about his procured weapons

2. Voja is trying to find and kill Hal on her own and don't know about his procured weapons

3. Voja is trying to find and kill Hal with Kidou and don't know about his procured weapons

But Hal adapted and pulled her down with wires . Voja correctly realised Hal was challenging her to who can hold their breath longer,the first to swim up would be open to attack (Furtrhmorr,during the 4 minutes she spent in the sea,she kept her eyes open in the dirty sea). But,what she didn't know was the welder with whose wire he had pulled her down,had air trapped in a container which Hal breathed from. Hal was a second faster and killed her (Voja also realised that nobody needed or wanted her [except Lacy and Lalo])

In her last moments,she performed a near impossible profile. She profiled that Hal makes others act while thinking they are acting out of their own freedom to feel important and their only difference is Hal is brilliant or in other words he bases his identity on a positive value such as perfection and like her this identity makes him think he doesn't need or want love but he does and this lack of belief causes hurt (keep in mind that even the best psychologist could realise only a part of this on kid Hal [Who had no reason to deceive and would be worse in it] with a machine which scanned brain waves). It is apparent that she realised that very self destructive pattern in herself
