Colosseum Arc

Pre Contradiction Game

Floyd has some unexplained but high ceiling narrative feats. He's a whistleblower who has revealed conspiracies such as how the Italian president sent a rival to jail on fabricated charges to win or how a pharmaceutical company created rumours of a virus to increase sales of medicine.

Floyd had watched the KY Declaration news and realised the panellist Takaji Kaomi had been controlling the whole place despite Baku,himself, trying to conceal that truth from anyone watching.

Floyd understands Lalo and his thought process,as displayed in him realising that Lalo had saved him from the FBI and brought him to Japan to get the Diamond Market Conspiracy and for the Ban Match was choosing not just IDEAL members or affiliates but anyone he deemed worthwhile.

Floyd formulated and applied a really clever idea. He knew that if two players from the same team (Azura or Tipa or Shoudo) fought then the aggressor would be penalised and thus could be used to win without risk (make a team of players of different sides). However,this was hard to apply since most players wouldn't join others (and the possibility of betray was prevalent(and a sound is produced when a player meets someone of a like or unlike faction . Floyd overcame the first by recruiting outlaws (who had no reason to betray) and making them wear vests and he countered the second through creating a loud noise. But the noise would be conspicuous so he masked it by creating the front of disguised prideful high tier players . This mask also served to make the enemy retaliate as quick as possible to gain an advantage against the high class players. Furthermore this acted as a probe for the personality and intellect of opposition.

Contradiction Game

Round 1

R1T1

Floyd (likely) reasoned that due to a taser being present,an iron and rubber shield should be present to make the gamble balanced. Alongside,he choose to make a low bet [10 Bios] to make Kaji be the one to attack to confirm that Kaji isn't a killer and to make Kaji use as much bios as possible .Floyd maintained his calm and could think properly after being hit by a high voltage and current taser (~60Th volts) [The wooden shield mitigated some of the effect but to all of it]

R1T2

Floyd knew that due to the loss of money in the first turn and an unknown fund possessed by Floyd,Kaji would be concerned and would make a lower bet despite wanting to win ,so he used a conservative (all things considered) 3,000 bios bid [It would also reinforce the image of weakness]. Floyd choose the Japanese sword Hagishri since despite the impressive feel it was the weakest weapon and an idea of a gun would be made more unimaginable (since why would someone not choose it two times and risk the other person using it and all the spears are countered by a particular shield) . Furthermore,Floyd could use it somewhat competently despite it being a hard weapon to use and it being his first time using. Floyd wounded the forearm to worsen future. grip of the shield. Later,Floyd allowed muscle tremors to make Kaji think that he had been totally weakened and couldn't use the spears or shields properly ,furthermore he will try to get the spear in every round to lessen risk of death. [Furthermore,Floyd anticipated that Kaji realising that a shield counters a corresponding spear (rubber shield counters taser and iron shield counters sword)]

R1T3

Floyd anticipated that Kaji would make the smallest bet of 1 Bios since in his mind the iron shield counters any weapon and with this he would be able to one-up Floyd by making him waste a lot of bios (his need for approval reinforces this path) which could be effectively countered using a 2 Bios Bet. This (worse grip and unpreparedness) will all serve to make him open to the gun. Floyd could properly use a Norincho Model 213 in the first try.

There might be a question in your mind, "Why not earlier ?" The answer is simple: In the first round it was chosen for him In the second round,Kaji would choose the rubber shield since he wants to use the spear so if Floyd uses the gun he could wound Kaji but not by much as Kaji would be prepared and healthy (furthermore,rubber stretches to distribute force).

Round 2

Floyd understood that under such a debilitating disadvantage,Kaji would shut off everything and focus on winning,achieving clarity to form a winning strategy. Floyd predicted that Kaji will chose the sword as using the trump card (gun) so early will be a waste and Taser would lead to a disadvantageous position unless the other person uses the iron shield (which is unlikely as it is a trump card). Floyd chose the iron shield and bet only 10 Bios to allow Kaji to take up the ineffective Hagihashi without wasting funds .(taking the spear wouldn't do any good). Floyd chose the iron shield to force a betting match over the gun where Kaji has the advantage.

R2T2

Floyd anticipated that Kaji would try to get the gun with surety so he'd try to make Floyd spend a sum of money equal to or greater than 7,500 in the second turn over the taser. Floyd soul follow through betting 8,000 Bios. Floyd thus would choose the wooden shield as the taser would have some effect and weaken kaji .

R2T3

Floyd anticipated that now Kaji would have more funds and Kaji would know this which would make him bet his all in the third turn to get the gun and win. Floyd would allow it,taking the rubber shield and Kaji take the gun. Floyd knew from his earlier check that Kaji would be unable to kill him and ask him to step out. Floyd would tell Kaji to shoot him which would further prevent Kaji from shooting and then blame Kaji's near guaranteed loss and death on his ineptitude destroying Kaji's mental state

It was a two layered deception :

1. Floyd is trying to win and play normally
2. Floyd is trying to remove the iron shield to make a betting war for the gun to win

Round 3

R3T1

Floyd heard that Kadokura had lent Kaji money so he checked for it by making a 1 Bio bet. Floyd chose the taser . The amounts bet were equal so the Bios bet had to be recast. Floyd allowed Kaji to take the weapon by spending only 2 Bios . Floyd had anticipated Kaji betting one Bio to confirm that he was checking him (and even if he took the shield it wouldn't harm him much) and would then proceed to take the weapon (which Kaji would conclude to be a Hagihashi,due to Floyd not wasting his gun and knowing a taser would not provide benefit and could weaken him) by betting his all. Floyd had countered this future reasoning by selecting the Taser which would be mitigated by the rubber shield.

Floyd maintained his calm and could function at a high enough level even with an additional ~60,000 volts of electricity following through him [Due to rubber shield being broken which he didn't notice]

R3T2

Floyd was in a dangerous situation where he had to choose the spear twice. Floyd knew that logically he couldn't choose the gun due to his bad situation ,nor could Kaji who knew this choose the iron shield,thus Kaji would try to use the Hagihashi to cut Floyd in this round (this would further make up for Kaji's past inability to use the sword). To counter it Floyd chose the gun and betted to win it. Even if Kaji choose iron shield,he would still be weakened due to it being a gun (which isn't effected by Floyd's weakness) and Kaji himself having a cut forearm and the in the third round he wouldn't be able to use the Hagihash and furthermore his personality would prohibit it.

However Kaji countered it by directing the bullet to a non vital and off hand

R3T3

As anticipated,Kaji couldn't kill him but he could force him out of the square and thus win. Floyd realised that since he had first seen Kaji ,he had been captivated by him.

Floyd reasoned that Hal conquered the fortress using kaji's vests for Shoudo,and that was his conspiracy. Conspiracy is just a person's karma meaning Floyd had reasoned that Hal was the royal leader and profiled that no matter what the rules of kakerou were most important for him and thus his overall scheme was to make either Lalo or Baku become Kaiser too early and place no Nobuko on the throne in the end .

Mogami Taeko [Referee 91 'Queen'] requested that Floyd Lee solve the conspiracy about the one who revealed the MOD's secrets and framed Oofuna. Floyd realised that this was done to make Oofuna return to being "alive" without danger and police would be allowed to catch him if he refused to solve the conspiracy. Floyd still used this disadvantaged hand to convince Mogami to allow him to work with Kaji for it.

Epilogue Arc

Floyd revealed the conspiracy behind who was revealing MOD's secret and had framed Oofuna

Floyd knew that Yokoi's request of more conspiracies will lead to those conspiracies being made news

After the death of Lalo,Floyd investigated him and discovered The Biggest Company. Vehizoma was in the surface a vice fund which invested in alcohol,tobacco,gambling and weapons and laundered the money through tax havens ,and at its centre was a Rhizome structure where each suborganisation does its part [The Vices are the major suborganisations]
