Izuru Kamukura Specific Details About His Achievements

This doc in particular would focus more on the points that aren't yet to be full in details in explanations sort of or anything related for Izuru Kamukura I would list every single thing that relates, shows Izuru within this doc.

I'll start with Influence, Izuru Kamukura and his influence ranges from World Wide Influence, yes exactly that his Influence would be continental in size but I'll begin explaining in detail why.

Izuru and his influence is both direct and indirect given on situations where he changes from an aggressive strategist to passive planner.

This should be enough said especially because he's literally the Ultimate Hope and the Danganronpa has many high respects on such titles as his.

He had indirect and direct influence on the Remnants of Despairs he can accurately manipulate, convince, control them as it will as long as the fact that Izuru is the mastermind remains in Danganronpa 2 and as long as this facts line up this conclusion won't be debunked.

1. Izuru is the mastermind of Danganronpa 2.
2. Izuru either convinced the remnants of despair or manipulated them.
3. It is a fact that the remnants of despair did go to the Neo World program just for Izuru to benefit completely.

As long as these facts line up conclusions like, 'Izuru had been controlling the remnants of despairs' Or 'He can control them as he wants indirect or via directly' is completely valid, and cannot be debunked otherwise a new interpretation would come forward that is far more logical than as before. A new interpretation had risen, information about Izuru letting Junko know that she should remove 'everyone's' memory about him. By that we can conclude that Izuru didn't convince them, rather he deceived, and manipulated them. I'll line up the current facts given.

I have overlooked this exact scan in here, and by this possibility.

1. The Remnants never knew Izuru therefore how would Izuru convince them?

2. Given the facts this would contradict the conclusion of Izuru trying to convince ‘them’ because they never knew Izuru to begin with why would they believe someone like Izuru?

Therefore the conclusion of Izuru manipulating, deceiving them is more logical, and an efficient interpretation and fact given on statements.
Remnants of Despair's influence are all over the world and Izuru, the one who controls them has the highest influence out of them as a whole.
Each remnant of despair has special abilities given to them by talents.
I don’t need to explain this right? It should be common sense at that point onwards within.
Anyways yes his influence is definitely large continental level definitely.
Source, https://danganronpa.fandom.com/wiki/Ultimate_Despair
And further scans that the remnants of despair, https://danganronpa.fandom.com/wiki/Ultimate_Despair/Image_Gallery?file=Danganronpa_2_CG_-_The_Tragedy_%281%29.png#DR2

While a lot of these are in there and all I would like to specifically state and explain something in here prior, in this set scan https://yugenanime.tv/watch/4605/danganronpa-3-the-end-of-kibougamine-gakuen-mirai-hen/3/ It starts from 11:47 at the point Makoto has flashbacks when meeting Izuru in the ‘classrom’ I got some few conclusions then and there how this interaction had went because in this moment Izuru himself was planning to plant ‘everyone’ that everyone is the remnants of despairs which he controlled, manipulated, and had led to at that point and to be added in the Neo World Program. Here comes the major problem with this:

what is their interaction exactly up to that point? Izuru looked like he's serious while Makoto stated something interesting 'There, I found the former students' Students? This is huge!!
I'll explain now in detail, those former 'students' that Makoto was speaking to are the remnants of despairs as he goes on this confirms specifically that Izuru at that point is already as stated before, either leading, manipulating, convinced them to come along with him to accomplish his plans and strategy that he laid out from the very beginning however the interaction we can put facts together first.

1. Izuru and the remnants of despairs did went to the Neo World Program
2. We get to confirm on their actions in Danganronpa 2 Game as explained

By this we can conclude on what Makoto did and Izuru did in their interaction

1. They either negotiated
2. Izuru manipulated, convinced, deceived Makoto

Considering who Izuru is and up to that point, he must have deceived, manipulated Makoto because as long as those two facts remain on the top and the conclusion of Izuru manipulating, deceiving the entire remnants of despair, why wouldn't he stop by just that? Further contradiction Makoto never knew Izuru's plan canceling the conclusion easily of negotiations as negotiations is something from both sides will no matter what benefit which Izuru withheld information at which cancels the conclusion 1 and 2 is more formidable and acceptable on given facts so far. However one might conclude that Izuru used deception in the negotiations to ensure his plan and strategy that he had in mind which he fully did as those two facts had remained and all.
Categories, Negotiations, Deception, Direct Deception, Direct Manipulation, Manipulation, Influence Building, Strategy Aim, Planning Aim

This set scan would prove that Junko did remove ‘their’ memories of Izuru as Izuru requested. Now this time is a pretty interesting rebuttal which is easy to debunk one of my friends who looked upon and pointed this cleary this simple point that can decimate the conclusion of Izuru manipulating, deceiving Nagito just Nagito since the other remnants weren’t able to On-Screen just like what Nagito interacted with.
‘Can you manipulate someone without ever meeting them?’ Well that can be easily excluded, if this event took place where Izuru was manipulating Nagito, after hand and beforehand, how exactly and why Nagito was with Izuru? it's as if a certain someone had ‘planned’ that the both of them will be together in the boat of course that said planner and strategist would be only Izuru the mastermind and further later on Junko affirms, clarifies that idea, everything that had happened can be concluded with a simple indirect Manipulation by Izuru as I have stated in the doc that his influence can be indirect and direct depending on the situational and given information so these conclusions we gather and more conclusions to come as we look and look onto the game, anime and the rest.
Further there is a huge contradiction to this conclusion, it's because Naegi himself confirms that ‘There, I found the former students’ why is this important? When he saw Izuru and had flashbacks, those 'students' are the Remnants of Despair.
Going further with this, this is where we can conclude that Makoto either happens to get deceived by Izuru or manipulated and that's where Izuru and his strategy laid out it's a simple plan laid by him for his end plan to succeed that he executes and had put the remnants of despairs to the Neo world program by using the Future Foundations and to further and satisfy his goals.
Now we arrive on a certain possibility, that’s why Izuru was certain of the outcome he laid out, that’s why he was well composed as seen in the interaction between Nagito and Izuru in the boat.

1. In the entire time of the conversation, Izuru laid out his plan two steps ahead of everybody including the Future Foundations, Remnants of Despairs and the rest of the cast that are mainly active in the Hope restoration plan which Izuru carefully used to his advantage.

2. By this we can conclude that everything that had happened even beforehand was planned by Izuru even then this was confirmed by Junko herself and the explanations that I did for the Planning and Strategy doc it further confirms that idea and interpretation and makes a very solid wall in between said interpretation.

This open conclusion was brought up and confirms the idea further of his Long-Term Planning which is straight up a success if looking at his abilities that he executed in between the Canon Animes of Danganronpa and Games. This were the categories set for this explanations, Long-Term Planning, Planning Execution, Planning Adaptability, Planning Aim, Two Steps Ahead, Control Over The Situation, Strategy Aim, Strategy Success Rate, Short-Term Strategy, Setting Traps, Trap Evasion, Direct Manipulation, Indirect Manipulation, Mass Manipulation, Cunning, Deception, Tactics

Due to the new information we had gotten there's a huge buff in Izuru's Planning, it's his plan of concealing and controlling the hope's peaks academy into his control and reviving himself as stated here. This project is the earnest wish of Izuru Kamukura, the founder of Hope's Peak Academy. From this document for more information about this and more on the point to be clear, Scans While this is out of the way this single statement alone we know that these things I'll line them right now.

1. We knew Izuru had the Hope's Peak Academy in his hands and the members of said school he's fully in control and he's the one who funded it.
2. We might conclude now that Izuru deceived, manipulated, convinced them since Izuru at that point knew he would get revived and get added to a 'certain' someone he predicted and anticipated this and pre planned the said event from the very start.
3. By this Izuru knew the factors of immortality that he'll get. It's also been stated by Izuru that he himself affirms 'To make way for me' quote and quote which means Izuru Kamukura the Founder is in fact inside of Hajime's body since there are no possibilities other than that it's also the perfect way to laid out and doesn't raises any questions further it further satisfy the said operation in the Izuru Kamukura Project as a whole, giving multiple reasons and gives valid answers as to why so.

While these 1-3 facts line up, at that point Izuru concealed his plans of reviving himself blatantly manipulating, deceiving onto someone's body.

Direct Manipulation, Indirect Manipulation, Mass Manipulation, Cunning, Deception, Leadership, Direct Deception, Concealment, Tactics, Acting Skills, Influence, Long-Term Planning, Planning Execution, Planning Aim, Control Over The Situation, Two Steps Ahead, Strategy Aim, Prediction, Anticipation, Setting Advantages, Strategic Deception, Strategic Thinking, Planning Coverage, Planning Contingency