Usoguitard - Red
KC - Blue

Initial claims:

Since Coyote wanted to debate, let's talk here so more people can see it and I can send more images. u/KitchenCoyote_The2nd

We'll be using your claim from 3 months ago about Baku "foreseeing all the events of protoporos during KY or earlier".

What you just sent is BY NO MEANS an implication of Baku foreseeing everything, it's a vague prediction that Kyara will die, at best that he'll die before he gets old (since he still has black hair) which is not impressive when you consider Kyara's lifestyle.

You don't need to know the exact details to make a prediction like that, you don't need to know where, when and how he'll die or who'll kill him.

It's the same way I can make a prediction that an excellent student in my class will score perfectly on the upcoming exam; I don't need to know the exact questions, I don't need to know what's going on in his private life or how much time he spends on studying. If my prediction turns out to be correct, then according to your logic I basically predicted everything leading up to the exam INCLUDING those things; this is just silly.

In the same thread I saw you make a claim that Baku "predicted the side of Kyara's face which was injured" and this is just untrue, it was the right side that was injured after the fight, not the left one; it's seen clearly in Ch.385 P.18 (not that it matters, this claim would be baseless regardless of the side).

I don't need to do that but whatever, I'll debunk your ridiculous claim even further by providing you a few examples of Baku being surprised during Protoporos, Baku analyzing something he learned and Baku gathering knowledge even though everything was supposedly foreseen by him. I'll start from image 4 onwards.

Keep in mind that these are not all the examples, just a few of them from before Kyara's death.

324.12

As Hal was setting up the Ban, Baku had no idea who Hal was speaking with.

.....ARE YOU NUTS?
DO YOU KNOW WHAT YOU'RE TALKING ABOUT?
BRING THIS CELLPHONE, AND NO WEAPONS.
IN 10 MINUTES.
BUT THE PREMISE IS WHETHER THIS IS REALLY A TRAP OR NOT.
WHO IS IT?
THERE'S NO MORE OBVIOUS TRAP THAN THIS...
NOBODY WILL BLAME YOU FOR THINKING LIKE THAT.
IT'S A REASONABLE JUDGEMENT.
AND IF YOU'RE ALSO IN A SITUATION WHERE YOU CAN BE AT THE ASSIGNED PLACE ON TIME, IT'LL BE A MIRACLE...
BUT,
I WANT TO HAVE A TALK WITH YOU AND MADARAME BAKU... I'LL GUARANTEE YOUR PERSONAL SAFETY.
IT WAS BECAUSE WE TURNED ON OUR PHONES SO COINCIDENTALLY THAT WE'RE ABLE TO TALK NOW.
THIS IS NOT A TRAP.

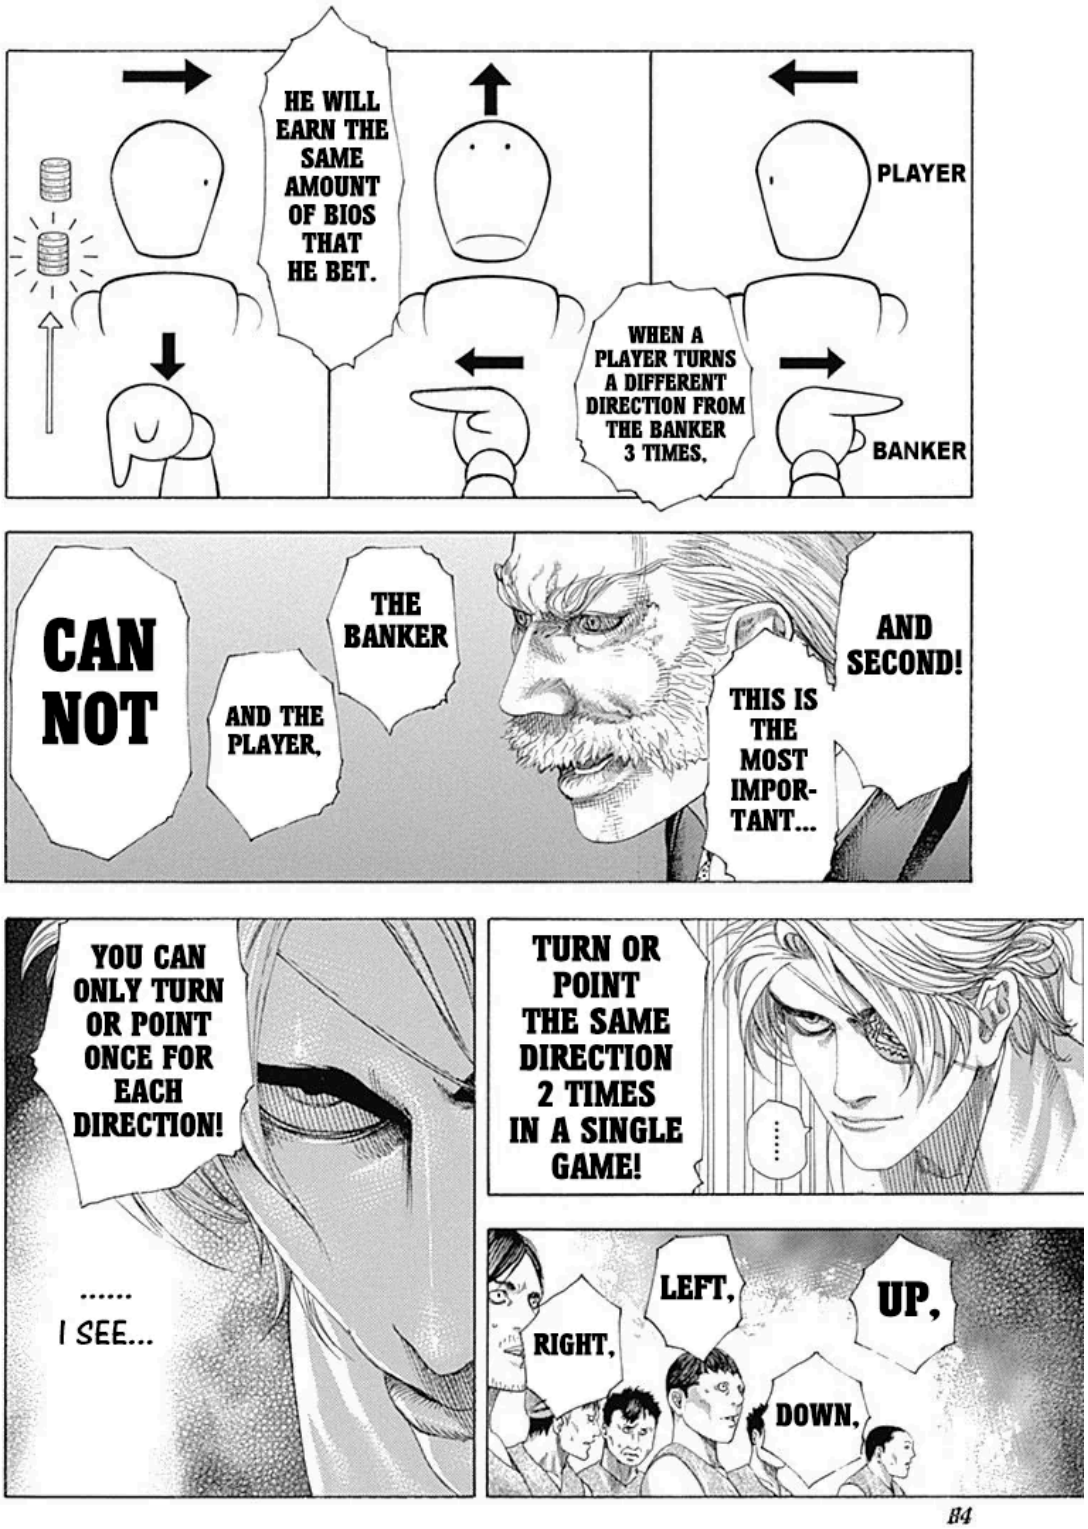

331.12

Baku is mildly surprised that the slaves are eager to play a game with him, indicated by him thinking "Oh?"

332.17

Baku is analyzing Encirclement of the 4 Gods game rules, indicated by him thinking "... I see..."

HE WILL EARN THE SAME AMOUNT OF BIOS THAT HE BET.
PLAYER
WHEN A PLAYER TURNS A DIFFERENT DIRECTION FROM THE BANKER 3 TIMES, BANKER
CAN NOT
AND THE PLAYER,
THE BANKER
THIS IS THE MOST IMPOR-TANT...
AND SECOND!
YOU CAN ONLY TURN OR POINT ONCE FOR EACH DIRECTION!
.....
I SEE...
TURN OR POINT THE SAME DIRECTION 2 TIMES IN A SINGLE GAME!
.....
RIGHT,
LEFT,
UP,
DOWN,

Baku is mildly surprised that Ryuusei came up with the safe strategy, indicated by him thinking "... Oh my..."

352.10

Baku sweats and is stressed about Veronica stabbing Kyara.

WHO IS THAT MAN!?
!
WASN'T KYARA!?
THE ONE WHO TOOK THE OPPOR-TUNITY
A BUNCH OF CREW MEMBERS FROM A FOREIGN FISHING BOAT, DRIFTED TO THIS ISLAND.
NOT LONG AFTER THE GAME ON THIS ISLAND STARTED,

375.12

Baku is shocked at the reveal that it was Shoudo that took the Azura fortress down, he goes to question Kaji about it.

535.14

Baku hadn't known the date of Hal's memory loss until TOK.

And provide proof of Baku planning for 2SD since you seem to have forgotten about it.

Koyote's first response:

Most =/= All

Baku predicted most of ToK-Protopors not all

343:12 . Deception,Baku always wanted a Ban Match to get Hal back

331:12. Baku was surprised by the atmosphere

332:18. You do realise it was a novel game created on the spot and doesn't much effect rest of his prediction

336:18. So?

535:14. The date of memory loss was around the one month mark (which Baku knew about due to his past with Hal),Baku knew it would happen not exactly when

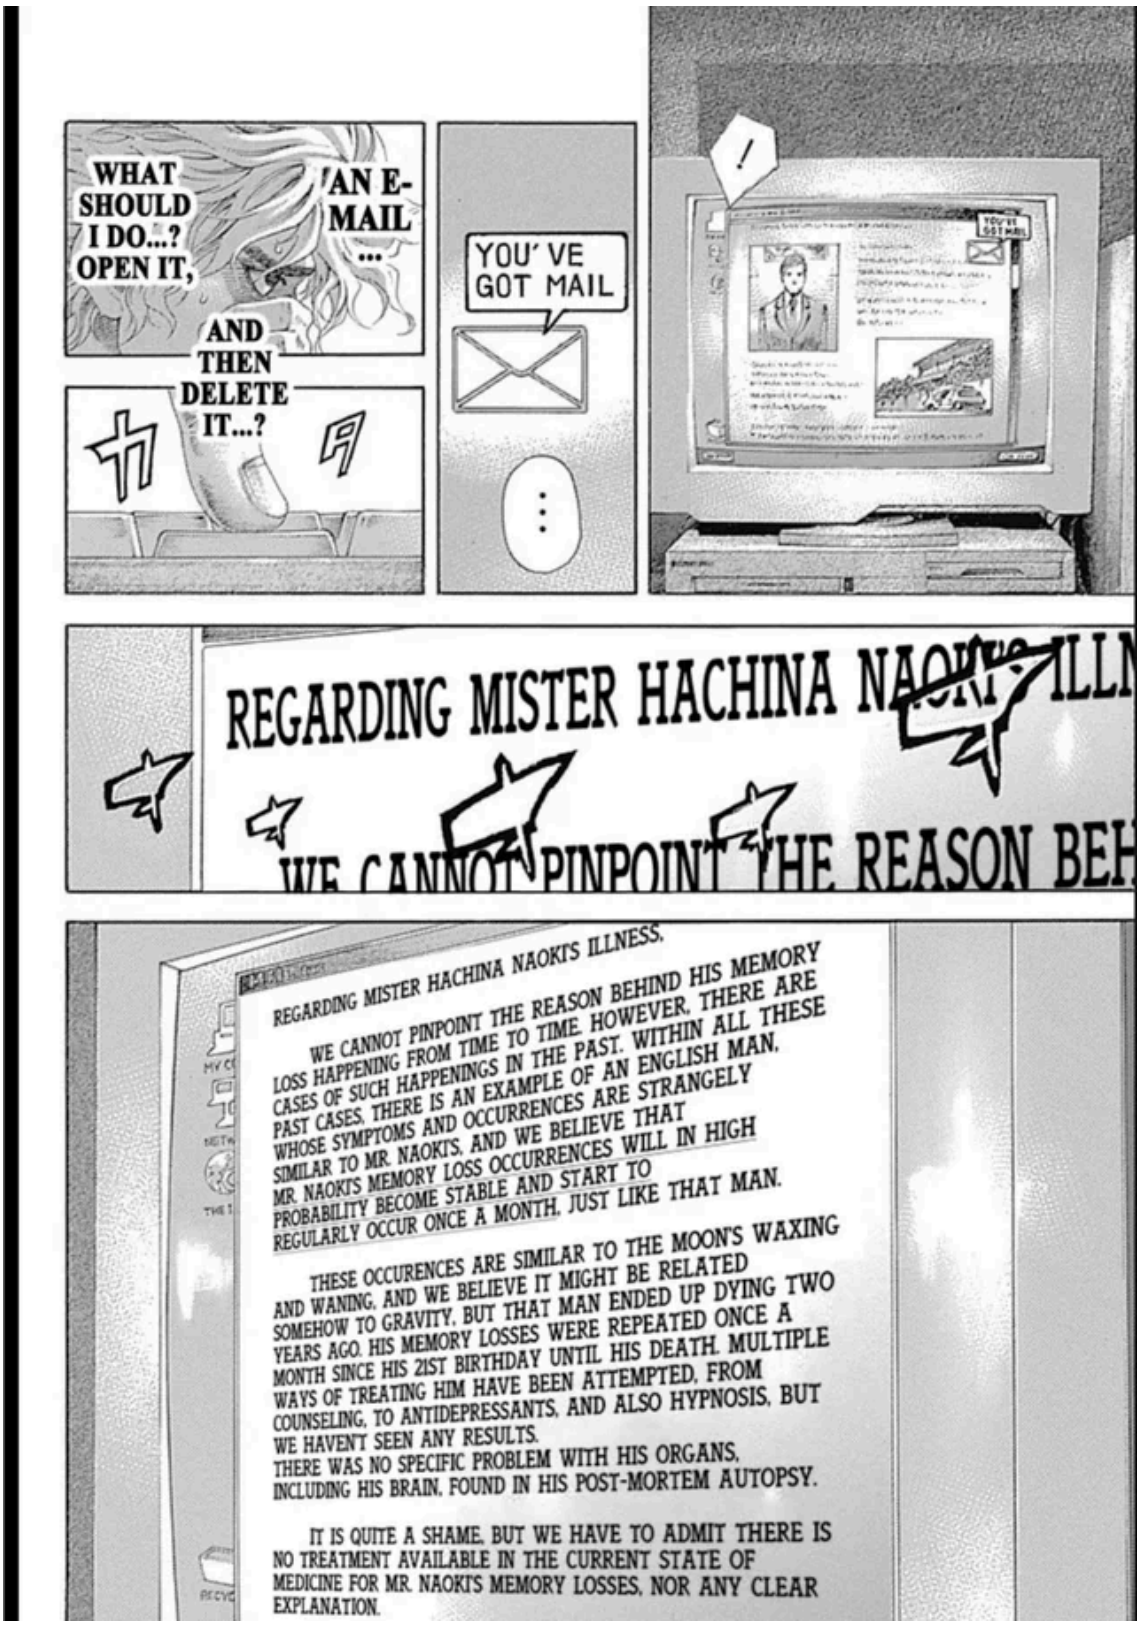

352:10. Fun fact,you can be worried about something you know

You still haven't refuted Baku predicting the exact damage of Kyara in Nightmare and the fact that it was due to guilt which only meant he planned Kyara dying to Jonglyo to win

Baku obviously knew Hal would loose his memories around end of ToK due to monthly cycle and it would be large due to Tatsuki but not exactly when

I can see your reasoning,but without a shadow of a doubt,Baku predicted and planned everything leading to Kyara's death due to the scan which included large parts of ToK-Protoporos

Proof Baku always wanted a ban match to get Hal back

ARE YOU OKAY?
BAKU-SAN, STAY WITH ME!
STEP ONTO A NEWLY PLACED CARPET." ONLY BY DOING THAT...
...KIRUMA SOUICHI...
YOU CAN BRING BACK
THE PEOPLE WHO LEFT,

Prots island belonged to the notorious sodomite,who was an enemy of teen Baku

My first response:

First Part of the response)
Can you read? Like can you actually comprehend YOUR OWN words?

You literally said "Baku foreseeing ALL THE EVENTS", it's not "most", it's literally "all".

You now claimed that he foresaw MOST of the events "Baku predicted most of ToK-Protopors not all" but that means you are conceding and admitting that your initial claim was wrong.

And then, at the end of this response, you went back to your initial claim and said: "Baku predicted and planned everything leading to Kyara's death."

Are you ragebaiting at this point? I can't believe a person like you really exists.

The panels were supposed to debunk your initial claim, and now you act confused, not knowing why I sent some of them? I explicitly said that they debunk your interpretation, your interpretation of "foreseen all".

Just a short recap of what is happening so that you can comprehend this because this is getting crazy.

1. You made a "foreseen all" claim.
2. I debunked your "foreseen all" claim.
3. You changed your claim into "foreseen most".
4. You acted confused as for why I sent examples debunking your "foreseen all" claim.
5. You went back to the "foreseen all" claim.

It's as if you made a claim 2+2=5, I debunked it, you admitted that 2+2=4 and was confused by my debunks, and afterwads went back to 2+2=5.

Now going to the case of Kyara:

First you claimed that he predicted the side of Kyara's head which was injured, I debunked it, you omitted this and claimed that he predicted the exact damage.

The problem is that he didn't, check 384.13 and 387.15; then compare it with your image.

Just so you can understand what's happening:

Your panel: Kyara is fully a skeleton, we see the left side of his face, his skull is intact.

Kyara's actual state: Has skin, ISN'T A SKELETON, the right side of his face is damaged and his skull was fractured around the eye socket.

"343:12 . Deception,Baku always wanted a Ban Match to get Hal back"

You can't even repeat the correct chapter, as I said- it's 324.12, not 343:12.

It's not deception. Baku is thinking that to himself and Hal can't read his thoughts. You're claiming that his thoughts are just unreliable narration, but you have no proof.

The panel you sent implies Baku planning to abuse Hal's recent memory loss. Baku does that by trying to replicate his first meeting with Hal, but due to the events of Battleships, Hal already heard about Baku, grew suspicious of him and decided to set up the Ban (against Baku's expectations).

For Baku to foresee this, he'd have to:

1. Know about Gakuto's future mission
2. Know about Hal's public identity and his connection to Gakuto
3. Foresee Hal losing a large chunk of memory during TOK, causing the referees to look for him
4. Foresee Hal and Gakuto meeting each other completely by chance, during the events of TOK
5. Foresee Hal deciding to help Gakuto

6. Know about Lalo's involvement behind the operation
7. Foresee Hal's contact with Lalo
8. Foresee Lalo bringing up Baku's name to Hal

If Baku had known in KY about Hal's "upcoming memory loss during TOK", he wouldn't have been so surprised during Tatsuki's resustication (since back in KY he already "knew" that Memory Loss would happen this day and it would cover a large chunk anyway- according to you) and he wouldn't have been so happy about a sign of an opportunity he had already foreseen.

With this many assumptions you should just stop embarrassing yourself and admit you're wrong.

I guess that according to you, the pages 13-14 of chapter 388 are also "deception", Baku hadn't just learned about Kyara's death, but knew it all along? So who was Baku deceiving?

If Baku had already known about Kyara's death, then why did he seem so content with the recent development in 387 p18, without any worry?

Second Part of the response)
For points 331:12, 332:17, 336:18, you are admitting that Baku hadn't foreseen them, again conceding on your initial claim.

"352:10"

Being worried about something he knows the exact outcome of? If Baku had foreseen everything until this point, and he's confident in his skills- being aware that Kyara will die later anyway, what would he worry about? Why would he pretend to be surprised when everything is going according to his expectations?

Your point about guilt is baseless. Baku is endangering his teammates just by having them partake in the gamble. Even Kaji's life was threatened in his gamble against Floyd. You're assuming that Baku can only feel "sorry" when he predicts the exact circumstances of his allies' harm, not considering the fact that he can feel guilty after they're already harmed.

If you're referring to Baku's guilt as the instance of him saying "Sorry" during his dream in TOK- that means absolutely nothing. Kyara had just IGNORED Baku and said that he has HIS OWN things to do, which contradicts him being influenced by Baku into doing so, and Baku apologising after Kyara's response of being busy is just common courtesy. You treating this as an implication is absurd, everything you claim follows circular reasoning.

Regardless of what instance you're claiming to be Baku's guilt, here are the explanations:

Guilt after Kyara's death -> Baku endangered him, this means he can feel guilty without planning his death

"Sorry" statement -> Not a sign of guilt, just common courtesy

"Sorry" statement -> Even if we consider it to be guilt, then AT MOST that'd indicate Baku foresaw Kyara will die because of him, there's absolutely no foresight related to the circumstances of death. You completely ignored my analogy about an "excellent student" and just repeated your false claim about Kyara's state in the dream.

"Prots island belonged to the notorious sodomite,who was an enemy of teen Baku"

Prove it

Koyote's second response:

I last said all months ago. Sorry,if I insinuated that .

You placed words in my ,outs the BakuplannedToKtoProtopros

The same side is damaged in the same way to reveal bones

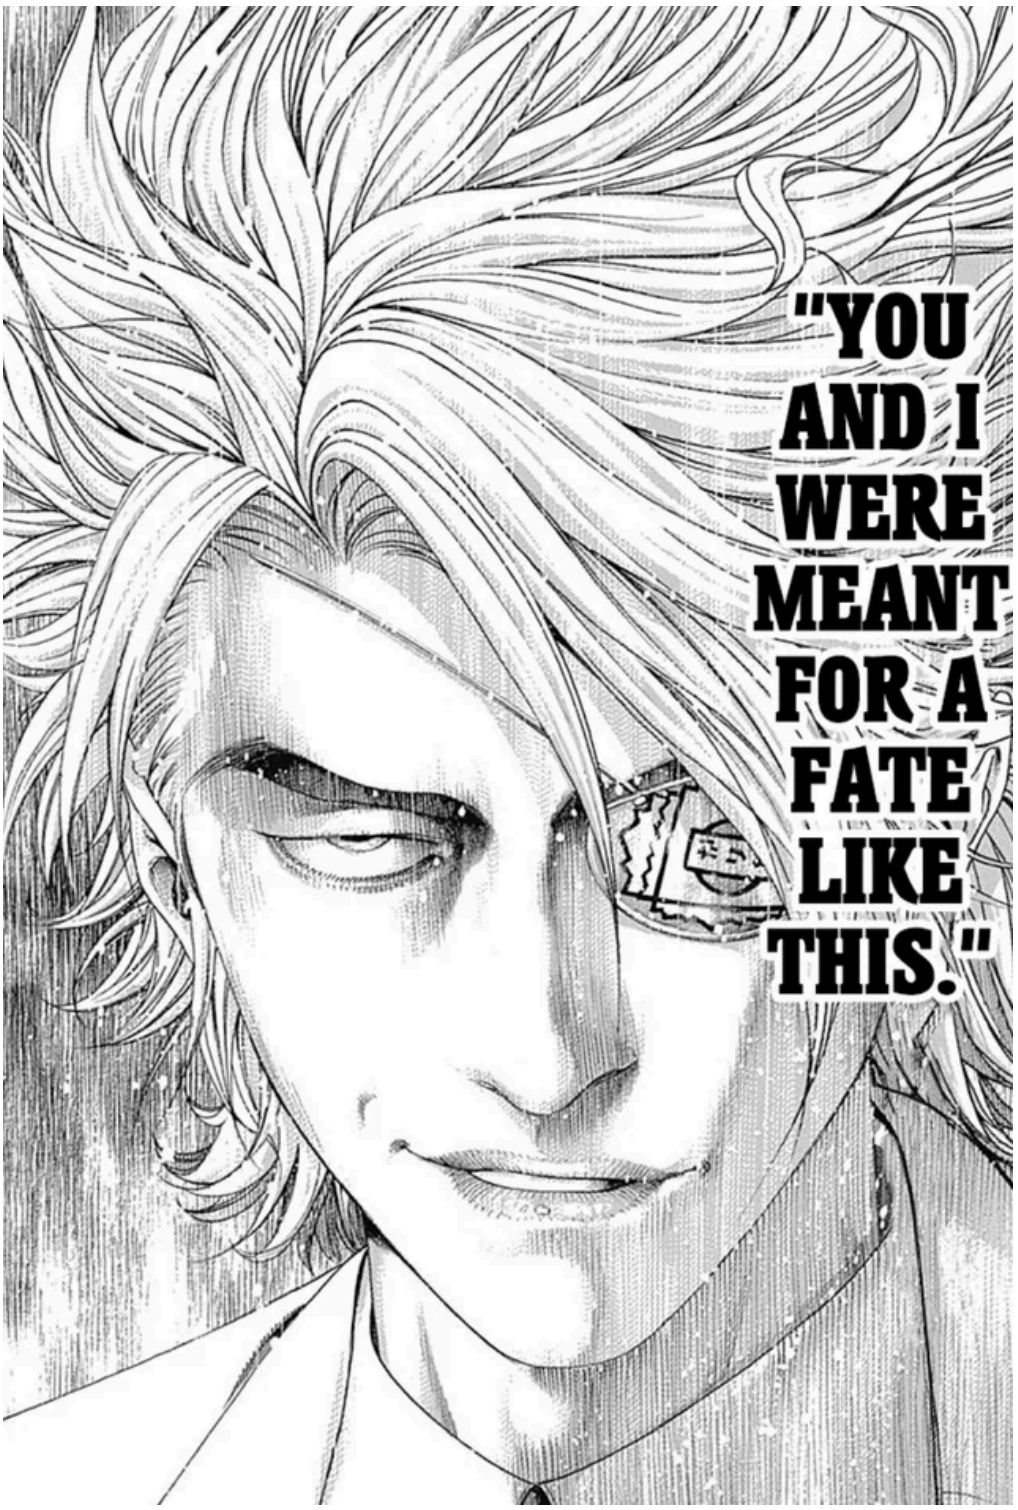

The major apparent detail was that both were damaged on the same side,revealing bones

Minute details differed but still

I’m talking about Baku’s surprising expression,Baku was wondering who about who was the person Hal was calling,as in was he the leader of IDEAL

The earlier scan made it obvious that Baku had set the post ToK events as a carpet to get Hal back

No ,lol. Baku never wanted to replicate their first meet and earlier relation. He wanted to create the prince bee relation.

It was obvious Gakuhito would find Hal due to both being responsible for founding ACIA and would try to save Yokoi

Bro,Hal's public identity of Hachina made the ACIA along sides Gakuhito due to Baku's actions in Hangman. Baku would obv know

I never said they'd meet in ToK exactly

Hal would follow Gakuhito as it offered freedom from Kiruma and Gakuhito's sense of justice

Hal would obv meet lalo as Voja had kidnapped Yokoi

Lalo himself said that Baku moved against his opearations after her stole the requirement money

Send scans,don't just list pages

Even if you know that -likely- you would win in a gamble,you would worry on the off chance

. Especially if everything you've worked for hung on the balance

Protopros Nightmare. Baku has guilt and visualised those he thought had killed. This was the sane type of hallucination as Kyara. Baku has guilt only over killing =/= Baku has guilt over killing.

Baku has never had guilt over kaji he endangered

Second doesn't work due to context . Baku has never expressed courtesy despite nearly killing people several times.

If Baku foresaw it,why hadn't he prevented it ? By your logic he foresaw and despite not wanting,didn't prevent

The fact it is Baku had guilt over killing Kyara same as with every other person in Nightmare,that is (one of the reasons) why he hallucinated him being a skeleton due to self-dehumanisation as grim reaper

The prots island was originally a military base of USA

It's too coincidental

Excellent argument tho

My second response:

Firstly, send your responses under one thread so that we can converse properly rather than dividing them into several threads.

Now, calm down and write more coherently, I can barely understand what you mean.

"I last said all months ago. Sorry,if I insinuated that . You placed words in my ,outs the BakuplannedToKtoProtopros"

What even is happening at this point? Are you now apologizing for insinuating that Baku foresaw everything and saying that I put this claim in your mouth?

This is insanity.

First, you made a claim few months ago (foresaw all).

Then I called you out and debunked it.

Then you backtracked and changed this claim (foresaw most) only to backtrack once again and change it back to the initial claim (foresaw all) IN THE SAME MESSAGE.

Then I called you out on what you are doing and continued debunking you.

And now you claim that I put words in your mouth? That the last time you made this claim was months ago?

Firstly, you never conceded, if you admit that this claim was wrong then just say it, secondly I didn't put any words in your mouth, thirdly, you made this claim even today.

Regarding Kyara:

Brother, are you living in your own reality? At this point you are either completely delusional and should seek mental help (unironically) or you are literally blatantly lying even though I've sent you the pages already.
Let me repeat myself: KYARA'S INJURY IS ON THE RIGHT SIDE OF HIS FACE, YOUR "PROOF" SHOWS THE LEFT SIDE OF HIS FACE, THEY ARE NOT THE SAME SIDE AT ALL. Here you have a scan, because you're incapable of utilizing the internet by yourself:

"I’m talking about Baku’s surprising expression,Baku was wondering who about who was the person Hal was calling,as in was he the leader of IDEAL"

No, that's not what he thought. He was simply wondering who Hal is talking to, not whether he's talking to Lalo specifically. You require PROOF for your claim and you're incapable of backing up your faulty assumptions

"No ,lol. Baku never wanted to replicate their first meet and earlier relation. He wanted to create the prince bee relation."

THEY represent prince bee (Hal) and rival prince (Baku)! Their relation began in the bookstore. Even Hal's phantom warns Baku that there's no guarantee their meeting will be the same as at that time along with it's aftermath, blatanly showing Baku hoped for the replication of their meeting (Ch316 P7-8).

"It was obvious Gakuhito would find Hal due to both being responsible for founding ACIA and would try to save Yokoi"

Ah yes, Gakuto is so competent that he will COINCIDENTALLY meet Hal as he's trying to escape from the referees.

How would Baku even know that Yokoi requires saving, back in KY?

"Bro,Hal's public identity of Hachina made the ACIA along sides Gakuhito due to Baku's actions in Hangman. Baku would obv know"

How do you know that Gakuto's involvement in creating ACIA was known to the public? Nice assumption.

"I never said they'd meet in ToK exactly"

If they hadn't met in TOK then Hal would come to the bookstore as quickly as possible. Hal's meetup with Gakuto was one of the vital factors that led to him speaking to Lalo, who coincidentally brought up Baku's name. Meaning that if Hal hadn't met up with Gakuto, then he wouldn't have heard about Baku and wouldn't try to set up the Ban Match.

"Hal would follow Gakuhito as it offered freedom from Kiruma and Gakuhito's sense of justice"

Baku knew about "the sense of justice" of someone he might have never even heard about? Nice assumption.

"Hal would obv meet lalo as Voja had kidnapped Yokoi"

And how would Baku know this?

"Lalo himself said that Baku moved against his opearations after her stole the requirement money"

That's what he assumed, because of Kaji's coincidental presence.

"Send scans,don't just list pages"

How shameless can you be? YOU DON'T EVEN LIST THE PAGES, you didn't even list the page of what you claimed about Lalo, so I had to find it myself (Ch311 P5). There's a limit of one image per response, so learn some culture, stop applying double standards and stop being so disconnected.

"Even if you know that -likely- you would win in a gamble,you would worry on the off chance"

Not if you're capable of casually foreseeing 50 events ahead where even the initial one depends on 8 baseless assumptions, and is fundamentally vital for the rest. Unless you really think that Baku's EM is so bad he can't manage himself despite knowing that something will happen all along. But then, this wouldn't make sense, would it? Why can't he manage himself when Kyara is fighting, but he's showing no negative emotions at the time he thinks Kyara is already dead, just to show negative emotions when his death is implied by someone else? Your fanfiction is pretty convoluted, isn't it?

You ignored just about all of my arguments, here are some from my previous reply that you blatanly omitted:
-I guess that according to you, the pages 13-14 of chapter 388 are also "deception", Baku hadn't just learned about Kyara's death, but knew it all along? So who was Baku deceiving?
-If Baku had already known about Kyara's death, then why did he seem so content with the recent development in 387 p18, without any worry?

"Protopros Nightmare. Baku has guilt and visualised those he thought had killed. This was the sane type of hallucination as Kyara. Baku has guilt only over killing =/= Baku has guilt over killing."

During Protoporos Nightmare Baku was surrounded by the phantoms of his OPPONENTS who died because of him. You can see Sadakuni, Mekama and gamblers he antagonized. He doesn't care about them and they're seeking his demise. That's the exact opposite of Kyara's phantom, who directly helped Usogui during Air Poker.

What are you going to "cook up" next, Baku feeling guilty over Lalo's death?

"Baku has never had guilt over kaji he endangered"
Negative reading comprehension. Baku is shown to feel guilty over the condition of both Kaji and Kyara who sacrificed themselves for him. This is explicitly shown in Ch 395 P6-9

"If Baku foresaw it,why hadn't he prevented it ? By your logic he foresaw and despite not wanting,didn't prevent"
I've stated that even in case of it being a prediction feat, it'd be a general one that abides with the analogy of an "excellent student", which once again, you never addressed. By your own logic, Baku foresaw exactly how Kyara's death will happen and it's circumstances, but he still didn't prevent it. Since your Baku didn't prevent Kyara's death despite foreseeing it exactly, that means he wanted it. Your own argument doesn't apply in my example, but in your own, get some self-awareness. You don't have any comprehension in the slightest, this is the worst Usogui "interpretation" I've ever seen, nobody went as far as to essentially claim that Baku wanted Kyara's death, nobody except you.

"The prots island was originally a military base of USA"
Send the scan.

You ignored the majority of my arguments from my previous reply. You're also constantly ignoring the fact that you have yet to send the proof for Baku "planning 2SD".

u/KitchenCoyote_The2nd Make sure to answer in this thread.

Koyote's third response:

Who he is talking about doesn't mean he doesn't have an idea,Hal suddenly called someone so he was unsure who,not that he had no idea Hal knew lalo himself and not some underling. The scan earlier proves Baku intended the ban match to bring Hal back which meant Hal would need to contact IDEAL which he did through Voja's phone (this didn't necessitate contacting lalo himself)

No , bro. Baku wanted to re start with Prince Bee so they'd fight again

Gakuhito would ask for help due to Yokoi's abduction not to mention he was called for ToK fiasco, he even was happy to meet Hal, and they'd obv meet since Hal would have the identity of hachina which he could easily learn. Hal was trying to hide from referees (so he'd use hachina identity) and Gakuhito wanted help for Yokoi kand the ToK disaster so they'd likely meet,Hal would try to know more about ToK.

Yokoi was abducted for a long time

You do know,Baku isn't exactly unknowing public and besides it needed clear support and why wouldn't the support be revealed if ACIA was a success

Hal couldn't just immediately go,and besides he'd take time to find meeting spot with EBay

Baku knew about the sense of justice of a prominent councilmen when he had knowledge on almost every due to L File and connections

Because he had kaji sent (indirectly) for same reason

Nobody lists the pages,nobody remembers. Bit to each their own IG.

Baku would obv be grieving despite foreknowledge and didn't notice sry

What happened,I don't remember what happens in every page

This is why I ask for scans,it's more convenient for everyone this way

Qtarou died due to Baku,but indirectly. Same as Kyara. Baku overcame his guilt in the nightmare arc so one the ghosts would behave different.

Not to the same degree,to hallucinate them

Wha? I don't understand your argument

AP. The whole plot was that the panopticon was a military base

I always meant most

My guy,Kyara was implied to be entirely skeletal,this doesn't change that In both cases his skin was gone to reveal bones and Baku had guilt over Kyara dying due to him

And you focused on ToKtoProtopors,,and started debating it which made me focus on it

My third response:

So am I meant to take it that you conceded to every argument I sent which you omitted? Formulate an actually coherent response, quote the parts you're responding to and back up your claims with scans.

You should give up on arguing about Usogui, you don't know the fundamental plot progression you're trying to debate for.

"Qtarou died due to Baku,but indirectly. Same as Kyara. Baku overcame his guilt in the nightmare arc so one the ghosts would behave different."

As I said, those were the phantoms of his ENEMIES which is why they sought his demise. You're claiming that these ghosts were no longer excited for Baku's death, but not only is that absolutely stupid (consdiering that these "Phantoms" are not something that Baku can change), but is contradicted by hoping for his death in 511.7-8

"Wha? I don’t understand your argument"

You claim you don't understand my 'argument' but I haven't sent just one argument. Almost everything I've said is something you've never responded to, so be precise with what argument you're referring to- learn how to quote what parts you're responding to.

"AP. The whole plot was that the panopticon was a military base"

Weird... It's almost like I told you to send me the scan... so why didn't you do it?

"The scan earlier proves Baku intended the ban match to bring Hal back which meant Hal would need to contact IDEAL which he did through Voja's phone (this didn't necessitate contacting lalo himself)"

I already responded to this, which you'd know if you were capable of READING. I covered this TWO RESPONSES AGO:
-It's not deception. Baku is thinking that to himself and Hal can't read his thoughts. You're claiming that his thoughts are just unreliable narration, but you have no proof.
-The panel you sent implies Baku planning to abuse Hal's recent memory loss. Baku does that by trying to replicate his first meeting with Hal, but due to the events of Battleships, Hal already heard about Baku, grew suspicious of him and decided to set up the Ban (against Baku's expectations).

And I already listed some of the faulty assumption you'd have to make for Baku to foresee this, which you NEVER responded to:

1.Know about Gakuto's future mission
2.Know about Hal's public identity and his connection to Gakuto
3. Foresee Hal losing a large chunk of memory during TOK, causing the referees to look for him
4. Foresee Hal and Gakuto meeting each other completely by chance, during the events of TOK
5. Foresee Hal deciding to help Gakuto
6. Know about Lalo's involvement behind the operation
7. Foresee Hal's contact with Lalo
8. Foresee Lalo bringing up Baku's name to Hal

I already called you out on your dishonest, circular reasoning, but you're doing it again and again. Actually, scratch that, you've never stopped BEING circular. That's all you did so far.

"No , bro. Baku wanted to re start with Prince Bee so they'd fight again"

You literally can't even comprehend the fact that both Baku and Hal are the Rival Prince and Prince Bee respectively- of course Baku wanted to challenge STL again, and he wanted to abuse his friendship with Hal to gain an advantage. I already explained what Baku's goal was. And your response? Absolutely no argument, merely a pathetic "nuh uh".

"Gakuhito would ask for help due to Yokoi's abduction not to mention he was called for Took fiasco"

Is Gakuhito also omniscient? Not only does he know where Hal is- despite Hal trying to escape the location, but he also foresees that Yokoi will be kidnapped?

"Hal was trying to hide from referees (so he'd use hachina identity) and Gakuhito wanted help for Yokoi kand the ToK disaster so they'd likely meet,Hal would try to know more about ToK."

Why are you acting like Hal's attempt to escape from the referees would make it difficult ONLY for the referees to find him and not anyone else? He literally tried to brush off Gakuto the moment he saw him, because he had no idea he's connected to his public identity at first.

"Yokoi was abducted for a long time"

False. Yokoi was abducted only after Hal and Gakuto met. This is shown in 272.11

Your Baku also foresaw that?

You don't want to click the mouse 5 times to open this chapter? Too difficult? Then stop disgracing Usogui with your fanfictions.

"Hal couldn't just immediately go,and besides he'd take time to find meeting spot with EBay"

Which would take shorter than if he tried to help Gakuto.

"Baku knew about the sense of justice of a prominent councilmen when he had knowledge on almost every due to L File and connections"

Are you hearing yourself? That's like making the argument politician "X" has very good sense of justice, because he wasn't in the Epstein-files.

"Because he had kaji sent (indirectly) for same reason"

Prove that this was his intent behind sending Kaji. Oh wait, you can't, because everything you say is circular and appeals to anything but the actual story and basic coherency.

"Nobody lists the pages,nobody remembers."

??????

Are you trolling? You can't memorize 5 digits, open the Manga, and click on the exact chapter and page? What are you doing in SCD if your cognition can't function even this much? Do you expect me to send 20 separate responses with 1 scan each, just because your ass is too lazy to find the exact chapter and page I tell you? You didn't even send me any scan I asked for, you didn't even send the exact chapter and page like I did.

"Baku would obv be grieving despite foreknowledge and didn’t notice sry"

What do you mean by 'didnt notice sry'?.

He clearly wasn't grieving at the time Kyara had already died. He only grieved after other characters implied to him that Kyara was dead... Hmmmm... Almost like he just learned it from those characters and no such "foreknowledge" existed?

"What happened,I don’t remember what happens in every page"

... are you trolling? Stop being lazy and open the exact pages I told you. You don't need to have all of Usogui memorized.

"My guy,Kyara was implied to be entirely skeletal,this doesn't change that In both cases his skin was gone to reveal bones and Baku had guilt over Kyara dying due to him"

So Kyara's condition wasn't the same as when he died and you're backtracking from your initial claim of: "Baku predicting the exact damage of Kyara in Nightmare". Kyara was NEVER shown to be "entirely skeletal", even when STL was about to take place, there was still flesh on him.
I already covered all the 3 ways you could possibly interpret this panel, it's on you for omitting them.

"I always meant most"
My guy, you have Alzheimer's:

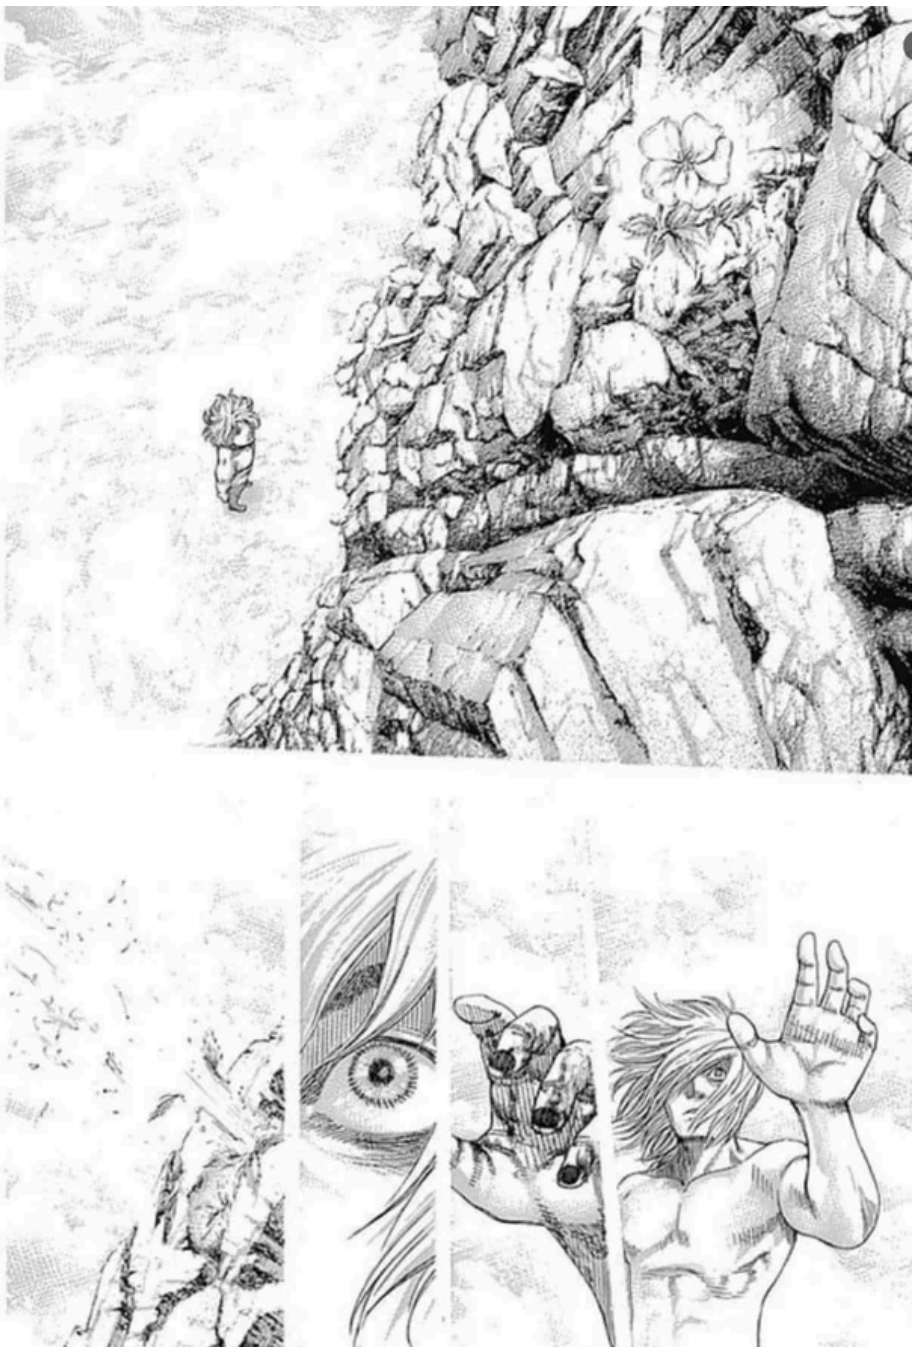

You omit over 90% of my arguments and respond to the rest like you can't understand them. All of your arguments aren't backed by the manga, but by your fanfictions based on a panel which doesn't imply anything you claim. You are regularly switching your stance between Baku foreseeing everything and foreseeing most, now you deny that you've ever claimed he foresaw everything

Koyote's fourth response

"As I said, those were the phantoms of his ENEMIES which is why they sought his demise. You're claiming that these ghosts were no longer excited for Baku's death, but not only is that absolutely stupid (consdiering that these "Phantoms" are not something that Baku can change), but is contradicted by hoping for his death in 511.7-8"

No,lol. The phantoms are created by his unconscious,they don't magically appear and are there due to his guilt at being a grim reaper who brings death so that's why they ask for his death.

“You claim you don't understand my 'argument' but I haven't sent just one argument. Almost everything I've said is something you've never responded to, so be precise with what argument you're referring to- learn how to quote what parts you're responding to.”

Look at the order of my argument,I’m referring to the one just below the one I answered

“AP. The whole plot was that the panopticon was a military base”

Because it’s obvious. 429:6-8

"The scan earlier proves Baku intended the ban match to bring Hal back which meant Hal would need to contact IDEAL which he did through Voja’s phone (this didn’t necessitate contacting Ialo himself)"

I already responded to this, which you'd know if you were capable of READING. I covered this TWO RESPONSES AGO

And I already responded to the related messages

“It's not deception. Baku is thinking that to himself and Hal can't read his thoughts. You're claiming that his thoughts are just unreliable narration, but you have no proof.”

How is this related unless you are talking about him calling Lalo,which I’ve already talked about

“The panel you sent implies Baku planning to abuse Hal's recent memory loss. Baku does that by trying to replicate his first meeting with Hal, but due to the events of Battleships, Hal already heard about Baku, grew suspicious of him and decided to set up the Ban (against Baku's expectations).”

Nope,Baku wanted to continue with the Prince Bee to have Hal grow stronger and then be challenged

“1.Know about Gakuto's future mission”

I explained that due to his position that he would obviously try to find Yokoi and be charged to look into ToK incident

“Know about Hal's public identity and his connection to Gakuto”

Once again,I’ve explained Baku has the L-File and extreme connections so why wouldn’t he know who founded a prevalent organisation like ACIA which there was no reason to conceal bit every reason to market to increase image

“Foresee Hal losing a large chunk of memory during TOK, causing the referees to look for him”

I’m sorry but wha? Several messages ago I explained the monthly cycle .

“Foresee Hal and Gakuto meeting each other completely by chance, during the events of TOK”

Alr explained this

“Foresee Hal deciding to help Gakuto”

Obviously,since as I said he would be attracted to Gakuhito’s sense of justice (which is illogical to think Baku didn’t know about regarding a prevalent official) and the escape from identity as leader and escape from referees

“Know about Lalo's involvement behind the operation”

As I’ve said,Lalo himself said he was surprised that Baku went after his diamond operation

“Foresee Hal's contact with Lalo”

Duh,since lalo’s man has abducted Voja

“Foresee Lalo bringing up Baku's name to Hal”

Never asked this but duh ,like is there a reason to explain something so obvious,Baku was moving against both of them and was extremely important and his ally was just there

“I already called you out on your dishonest, circular reasoning, but you're doing it again and again. Actually, scratch that, you've never stopped BEING circular. That's all you did so far.”

Bro,you’re the one going circular

“You literally can't even comprehend the fact that both Baku and Hal are the Rival Prince and Prince Bee respectively- of course Baku wanted to challenge

STL again, and he wanted to abuse his friendship with Hal to gain an advantage. I already explained what Baku's goal was. And your response? Absolutely no argument, merely a pathetic "nuh uh".”

No bro. Baku wanted Hal to be at his peak to challenge him to truly feel alive. And the friendship was used for the wedge strategy since it was said in the prince bee comic that friendship was used in 2ndSTL not before

“Is Gakuhito also omniscient? Not only does he know where Hal is- despite Hal trying to escape the location, but he also foresees that Yokoi will be kidnapped?”

Bro,my dear friend. I’ve explained how he would meet Hal messages ago. Besides,in the manga,he was the one to call Yokoi which lead to conclusion that he was kidnapped

“Why are you acting like Hal's attempt to escape from the referees would make it difficult ONLY for the referees to find him and not anyone else? He literally tried to brush off Gakuto the moment he saw him, because he had no idea he's connected to his public identity at first”

Because after he found who his public identity was then it would be useful to hide with an important government official like he did in the manga

“False. Yokoi was abducted only after Hal and Gakuto met. This is shown in 272.11”

Is there a different 272:11 that I should know abt

“You don’t want to click the mouse 5 times to open this chapter? Too difficult? Then stop disgracing Usogui with your fanfictions.”

It’s easier and more convenient to just send scans

“Which would take shorter than if he tried to help Gakuto.”

You’re ignoring my arg that in that time he’d meet Gakuhito in that time

“Are you hearing yourself? That's like making the argument politician "X" has very good sense of justice, because he wasn't in the Epstein-files.”

Are you hearing yourself? Those in L-File were effectively controlled by him not to mentioned his otherwise connection so he could easily find out through this influence about Gakuhito. Besides Gakuhito is a prevalent member behind ACIA.stuff like this would be common knowledge in higher circle.

“Are you trolling? You can't memorize 5 digits, open the Manga, and click on the exact chapter and page? What are you doing in SCD if your cognition can't function even this much? Do you expect me to send 20 separate responses with 1 scan each, just because your ass is too lazy to find the exact chapter and page I tell you? You didn't even send me any scan I asked for, you didn't even send the exact chapter and page like I did.”

It’s easier to send scans makes the process of debate smoother

“He clearly wasn't grieving at the time Kyara had already died. He only grieved after other characters implied to him that Kyara was dead... Hmmmm... Almost like he just learned it from those characters and no such "foreknowledge" existed?”

Wha ? When he stumbled upon Kyara in Nightmare,he was obv hurt. And do you mean that after learning someone you deeply care about has died then a few hours later you wouldn’t be hurt

“So Kyara's condition wasn't the same as when he died and you're backtracking from your initial claim of: "Baku predicting the exact damage of

Kyara in Nightmare". Kyara was NEVER shown to be "entirely skeletal", even when STL was about to take place, there was still flesh on him.”

In both instance his skin was gone,showing bones besides the fret stands he knew kyara would die and was guilt for it

“I already covered all the 3 ways you could possibly interpret this panel, it's on you for omitting them.”

TF,I’ve discussed and refuted them

“My guy, you have Alzheimer's:”

Bro,I mentioned everything leading to Kyara’s death ,but alr

OBJI’ve answered everything but alr

When are we talking about 2SD

This and the following scan imply that Yokoi's been kidnapped for a while

THEN,
THE REASON FOR YOKOI TO NOT BE HOLDING HIS PHONE WOULD BE?
IT WOULD BE...
BECAUSE HE IS BEING RESTRAINED AGAINST HIS WILL.

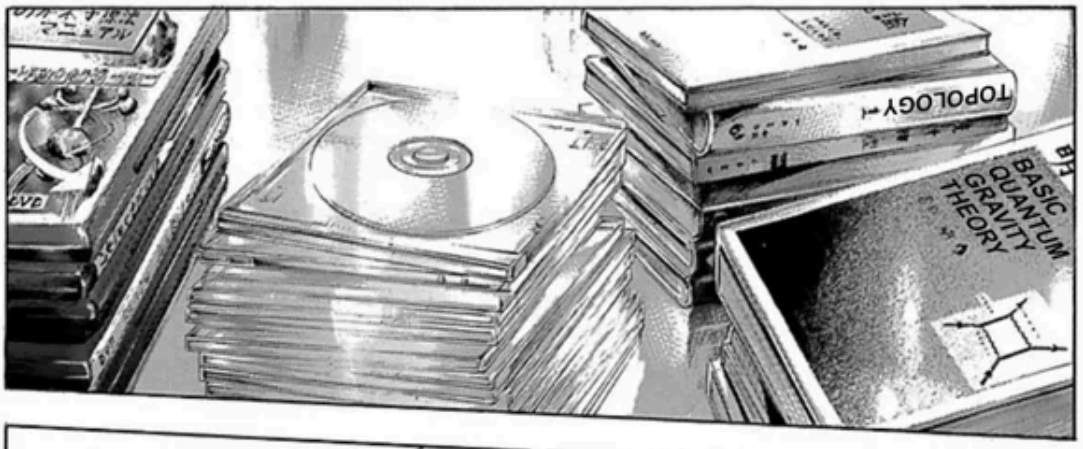

Btw Gakuhito always wanted to meet Hal due to the ToK incident and since Hal's public identity of hachina was in CIRO

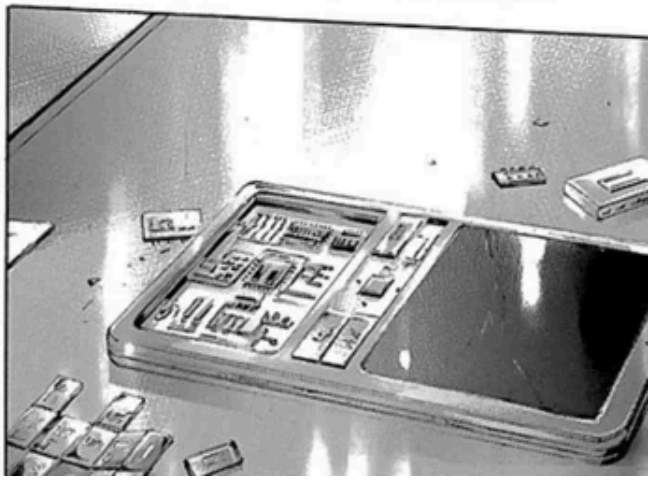

So for a multitude of reasons,they'd have met no matter when

The monthly cycle ensures the time for memory loss isn't weeks apart,just hours or at most a day

HACHINA-SAAAN~
YOU'RE STILL USING IT?
YOU LIKE THE COMPUTER THAT MUCH?
.....BY THE WAY, DON'T YOU NEED TO GO TO THE CIRO?
IT SHOULD BE FOR THREE DAYS AND NIGHTS...

TOPOLOGY
BASIC QUANTUM GRAVITY THEORY
DVD

THIS MONTH IS REALLY TIGHT.
YOU BOUGHT LOTS OF THINGS... YOU WILL GIVE THE MONEY BACK TO ME, RIGHT?
AND I HAVEN'T SENT MONEY TO MY PARENTS YET.

Another proof Hal would spend time with Gackt to use him which would naturally make him feel indebted to help Gackt besides the justice and escape provided in helping

My last response (currently)

“No,lol. The phantoms are created by his unconscious,they don’t magically appear and are there due to his guilt at being a grim reaper who brings death so that’s why they ask for his death.”

I never said they magically appear. I explained why the existence of phantoms such as Sadakuni or Mekama isn’t caused by his guilt. Baku deliberately made sure to make Sadakuni’s (and simultaneously) Mekama’s regret their deaths as much as possible. You’re just repeating your claim without acknowledging the obvious differences between the phantoms, as well as the contradiction in your prior claim about “the phantoms’ development” that you were unable to prove.
Your “interpretation” is contradictory, because you state that 1) these phantoms are formed by guilt, 2) Baku got past his guilt in Protoporos Nightmare, but 3) these phantoms still appear in STL, hoping for Baku’s demise.

Gotta love you sending an entirely independent panel which doesn’t support your claim for shit- Baku’s dream is meant to symbolize his pursuit of his ultimate goal as well as the price he pays to achieve it (Kaji’s harm, Kyara’s death). This panel opposes your argument, because it’s merely another instance that shows Baku’s regret when his allies are at risk.

”Because it’s obvious. 429:6-8”
It’s only your theory that it’s the same island, but let’s give you the benefit of the doubt and assume it is.
Now you have to prove that Baku, or even the gambler himself, learned anything about this island other than it being owned by the USA. Do you really think that the gambler would be told what’s going to happen there? You’ll just go circular by claiming “Baku must’ve learned more about this island because he planned everything so he must’ve known (despite it having seemingly no significance at that point in time)”

Even if we ignore the blatant narration and consider that Baku had actually foreseen the Ban-Match, he would have no way of knowing about its location unless he knew about the Protoporos Island, about Midara secretly being gamer who Protoporos, and about Midara being the one to set-up the Ban.

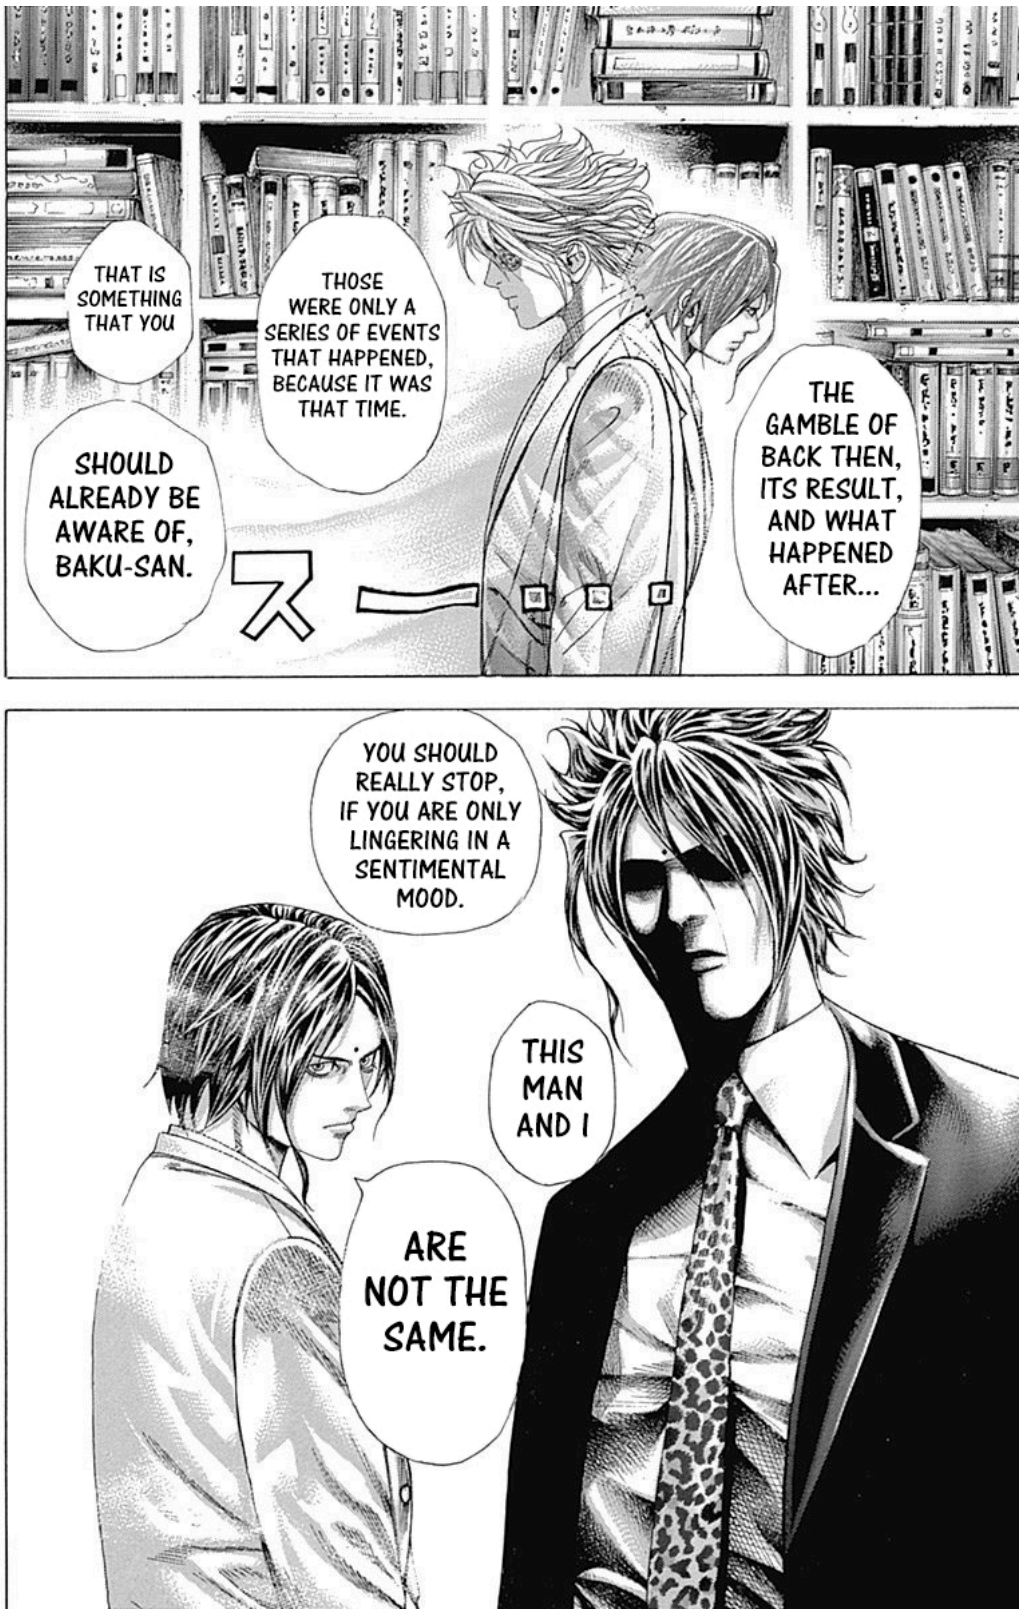

Then you claim you've already responded to several things- things you've actually never addressed.

"How is this related unless you are talking about him calling Lalo,which I've already talked about"
This is explicitly the part of Hal calling Lalo. I specifically quoted the part I'm responding to the first time I sent it. You ignored my argument against "Baku knowing Hal calls Lalo" and you continue to ignore it by saying you already talked about "Baku knows about Hal calling Lalo". Your sole argument was "scan earlier proves Baku intended the ban match", but I debunked that in my very first response:
The panel you sent implies Baku planning to abuse Hal's recent memory loss. Baku does that by trying to replicate his first meeting with Hal, but due to the events of Battleships, Hal already heard about Baku, grew suspicious of him and decided to set up the Ban (against Baku's expectations).

This is enough to debunk this panel as an "implication"- which is the fact that it implies NOTHING about the Ban-match. After this, I explained all of the extra assumptions you'd have to make for Baku to plan it anyway, only some of which you tried to respond to- which didn't end well.

You also ignored the entire argument from my first response:
Even Hal's phantom warns Baku that there's no guarantee their meeting will be the same as at that time along with it's aftermath, blatanly showing Baku hoped for the replication of their meeting (Ch316 P7-8).

THIS IS DANGEROUS,
BAKU-SAN.
of Ethics
.....
WHAT ARE YOU EXPECTING ...?
THERE'S NO GUARANTEE THAT THIS WILL GO LIKE THAT TIME.

”Nope,Baku wanted to continue with the Prince Bee to have Hal grow stronger and then be challenged”

Prove that he wanted Hal to grow stronger, despite intending to take advantage of their friendship to win. It's contradictory.

"I explained that due to his position that he would obviously try to find Yokoi and be charged to look into ToK incident"
Find Yokoi? They didn't even know that Yokoi was kidnapped until Hal reasoned it out. Yokoi was used to set up a trap. By the time Gakuto would've realized Yokoi was kidnapped, Hal would've already come for the Prince Bee. Once again, Baku would have to foresee that Yokoi will get kidnapped, because as I already proved, he wasn't kidnapped for a long period of time- he was kidnapped only after Coin Push took place. Considering this, Yokoi wouldn't have even gotten kidnapped until Hal already came for Prince Bee.

"Once again,I've explained Baku has the L-File and extreme connections so why wouldn't he know who founded a prevalent organisation like ACIA which there was no reason to conceal bit every reason to market to increase image"
You can't prove that he knew or didn't know about it, so I'll let this point pass.

You claim you've responded to the argument about the memory loss cycle. Here was your response:
"Baku obviously knew Hal would loose his memories around end of ToK due to monthly cycle and it would be large due to Tatsuki but not exactly when"
And here was mine:
"If Baku had known in KY about Hal's 'upcoming memory loss during TOK', he wouldn't have been so surprised during Tatsuki's resustication (since back in KY he already "knew" that Memory Loss would happen this day and it would cover a large chunk anyway- according to you) and he wouldn't have been so happy about a sign of an opportunity he had already foreseen."
You didn't address it and now you claim you "already explained it".

You claimed that "Hal would loose his memories around end of ToK", but you yourself agree that the time for Memory Loss can be hours apart from the usual pattern- it's just as likely for Hal to have lost his memory during the events of KY instead. Baku didn't even know Hal would lose his memory that day.

"Obviously,since as I said he would be attracted to Gakuhito's sense of justice (which is illogical to think Baku didn't know about regarding a prevalent official) and the escape from identity as leader and escape from referees"

He has no way of knowing it. The officials all try to present themselves as good people.

You claim you've already explained "foreseeing Hal and Gakuto meeting each other completely by chance". That's false, you only talked about WHY Gakuto would want to meet Hal, and you completely ignored my argument which makes it highly unlikely for them to have met:
"Why are you acting like Hal's attempt to escape from the referees would make it difficult ONLY for the referees to find him and not anyone else? He literally tried to brush off Gakuto the moment he saw him, because he had no idea he's connected to his public identity at first."

"As I've said,Lalo himself said he was surprised that Baku went after his diamond operation"
You completely ignored my argument:
"That's what he assumed, because of Kaji's coincidental presence."

"Foresee Hal's contact with Lalo"
Duh,since lalo's man has abducted Voja
Reread what you just said.
How would Baku know that Yokoi will be kidnapped? How would Baku know that Lalo will be behind it? You can't prove it and those claims have no basis. Yokoi was only kidnapped after Coin Push.

"Foresee Lalo bringing up Baku's name to Hal"
Never asked this but duh ,like is there a reason to explain something so obvious,Baku was moving against both of them and was extremely important and his ally was just there
You have to prove that Baku knew Kaji's mission would be related to Lalo and Hal would also be there. There's absolutely no implication and the panel that you claim to imply this has no such meaning.

No bro. Baku wanted Hal to be at his peak to challenge him to truly feel alive. And the friendship was used for the wedge strategy since it was said in the prince bee comic that friendship was used in 2ndSTL not before
This entire underlined part was featured in my response, I literally stated:
"Baku wanted to challenge STL again, and he wanted to abuse his friendship with Hal to gain an advantage", stop pretending that I didn't. I never stated it would be abused for anything other than winning 2nd STL.

You state that Baku wanted Hal to be at his peak, but this isn't to be found ANYWHERE in the manga. Why would Baku attempt to increase his chance at winning by taking advantage of their friendship, while also lowering it by causing Hal to grow way stronger? You're claiming he did it, and that he did it for the thrill, but you have no proof.
In STL it's clear that Hal's current capabilities are far above what Baku could've imagined, he doesn't look "thrilled" until he realizes what Hal's echolocation is- before getting outplayed anyway. Baku even questions whether it's him who caused Hal to be this way, which he wouldn't question if he actually intended this 516.2

”Bro,my dear friend. I’ve explained how he would meet Hal messages ago. Besides,in the manga,he was the one to call Yokoi which lead to conclusion that he was kidnapped”

Here is the BASIC plot progression that debunks your fanfiction:

1. Yokoyi was only kidnapped after the events of Coin Push, which Hal caused.

2. It was Hal who had to reason out that Yokoi was kidnapped. If it was just Gakuto who learned the location, he would also fall for the trap.

You claimed that Yokoi was kidnapped for a long time and this is how Baku "could" know about it, that's a fundamental misunderstanding of the story. The first pages of chapter 283 completely debunk it, showing he was kidnapped only after Coin Push.
You're too lazy to open this chapter? I don't care, but don't act surprised when nobody takes you seriously after you ignored most of my arguments.

"Because after he found who his public identity was then it would be useful to hide with an important government official like he did in the manga"
And Hal only learned that Gakuto knows about his public identity after they've already met, by coincidence, whilst Hal was trying to escape this location.

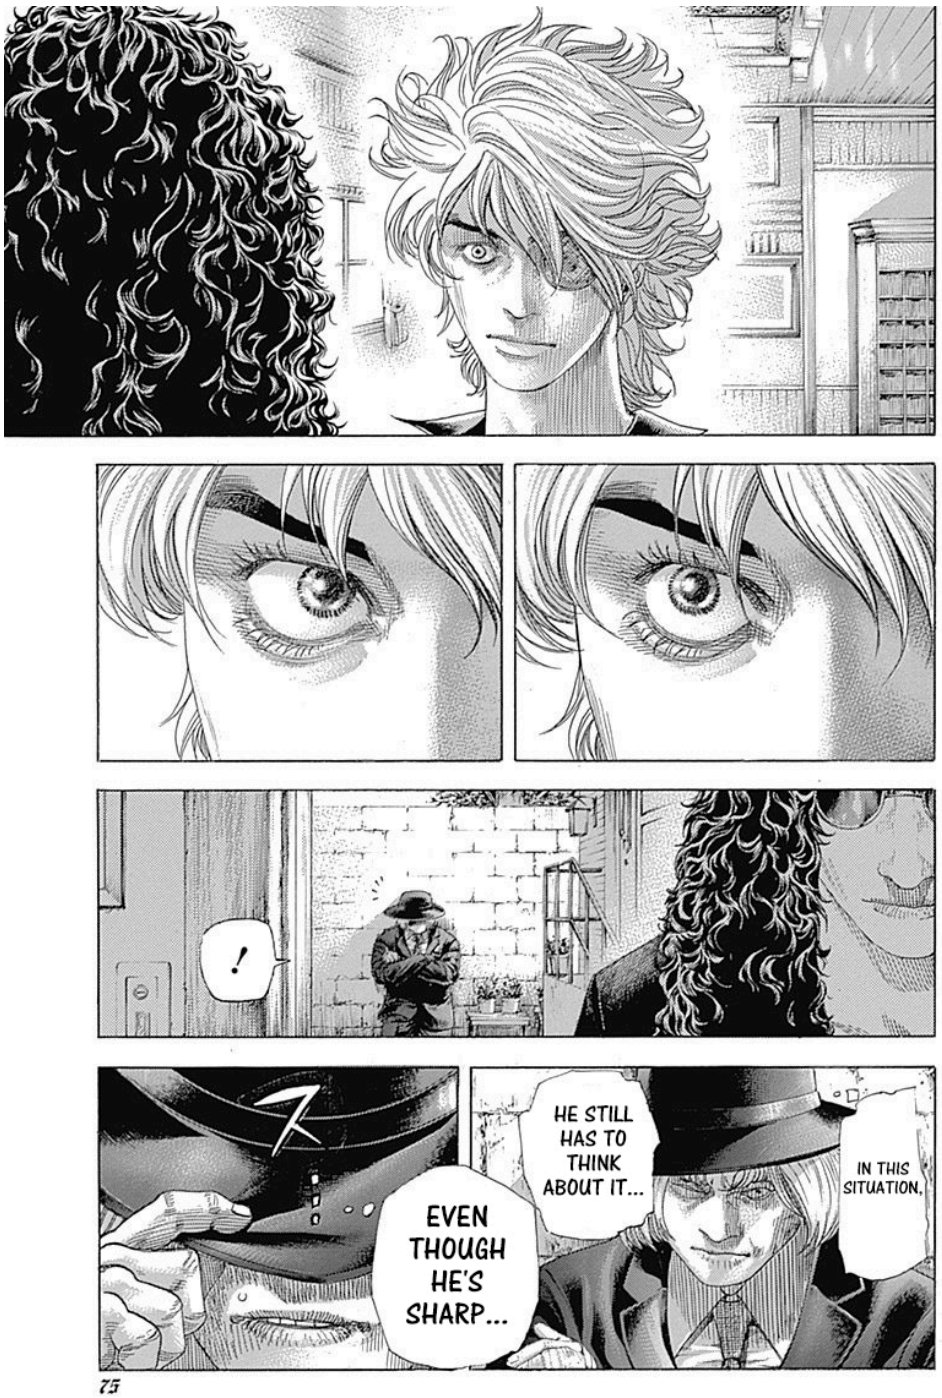

"You're ignoring my arg that in that time he'd meet Gakuhito in that time"
How would he meet Gakuto (if they hadn't met by accident) before locating Prince Bee if:
1) His main motivation was trying to locate Prince Bee, not helping Gakuto
2) He would likely destroy his phone to avoid being located

"Are you hearing yourself? Those in L-File were effectively controlled by him not to mentioned his otherwise connection so he could easily find out through this influence about Gakuhito."
Baku used the L-File to threaten it's users into accepting Karamete, initiating this in KY. He hadn't threatened anyone from the L-File before that, how could he? Do you really think these people would know Gakuto on a personal level? Even if Baku SOMEHOW threatened them to say their opinions on Gakuto, do you think they'd be an objective source for Baku to rely on? Do you really think that Baku would take such a mindless risk just to learn about the identity of someone, whose interaction with Hal:
1) Would have to happen after Hal suffers from a large Memory Loss during the events of TOK Arc- As I showed earlier, Baku didn't know about Hal's date of memory loss before he was able to infer it through the behavior of Kakerou subordinates (desperately wanting to resuscitate Tatsuki)
2) Would require Hal to meet up with Gakuto by pure coincidence, despite him trying to escape the location and being wary towards anyone who tries interacting with him

This is literally like abusing the Epstein-Files (before they were released, or when everyone's name was still redacted) to question immoral people about others' morals, do you really think they wouldn't want to paint that person as evil as well? If someone threatens you to comment on a specific person's moral compass, you'd usually assume that they want to find the dirt on that person.

"It's easier to send scans makes the process of debate smoother"
"Process of debate smoother" my ass. You literally split this debate into 6 different threads- it's literally unreadable and it forced me to make this into the document- that's without me even sending 1 response per each scan. You're a hypocrite.

"Wha ? When he stumbled upon Kyara in Nightmare,he was obv hurt. And do you mean that after learning someone you deeply care about has died then a few hours later you wouldn't be hurt"
You can't read. I've explicitly stated what chapters I'm referring to IN MY VERY FIRST RESPONSE:
-I guess that according to you, the pages 13-14 of chapter 388 are also "deception", Baku hadn't just learned about Kyara's death, but knew it all along? So who was Baku deceiving?

!
IN THIS SITUATION,
HE STILL HAS TO THINK ABOUT IT...
EVEN THOUGH HE'S SHARP...

Baku is shown to have just realized that Kyara is dead. This contradicts your interpretation where Baku had already planned it.

-If Baku had already known about Kyara's death, then why did he seem so content with the recent development in 387 p18, without any worry?

At that time Kyara was already dead, yet Baku is shown to not be worried at all. This is a direct contrast to his behavior after the other characters imply to him that Kyara died.

You've also stated that Baku was never guilty about endangering Kaji, which I've addressed:
"Negative reading comprehension. Baku is shown to feel guilty over the condition of both Kaji and Kyara who sacrificed themselves for him. This is explicitly shown in Ch 395 P6-9”

HE SAID...
HAL...
HE CHANGED MY "VEST" WITH SOMEONE ELSE'S.
I MESSED UP.

KYARA-SAN.
WE'LL START WITH "SHOUDO", KYARA-SAN, PLAN B.

KIRUMA SOUICHI'S OBJECTIVE IS ONE AND ONLY.

SO THAT'S HOW IT IS...
DIED.
KYARA-SAN

TO AVOID PLAYING "SURPASSING THE LEADER" BY HAVING NO ONE WIN THE 卍(BAN).
YOU UNDERSTAND IT TOO, RIGHT?

THIS IS WHY HE PUT THE STRONGEST PLAYER ON THE THRONE AND PLANNED TO DEFEAT US.
?
OR HE COULD BE PLOTTING TO AVOID THE BIRTH OF THE "KAISER".

TO THINK THAT YOU WOULD GET TRICKED
WHILE YOU COULD UNDERSTAND THAT MUCH... I AM A BIT DISAPPOINTED IN YOU.
…
KAJI-CHAN.

You've omitted these, amongst other arguments, this entire debate! You still have the nerve to expect me to write like 9 separate responses each time just to “send the scans”, because telling you the exact pages and chapters isn’t enough for you! Did you want us to have like 80 different threads by the end of this debate? Judging by your behavior it sure seems like it.

”In both instance his skin was gone,showing bones besides the fret stands he knew kyara would die and was guilt for it”
False. There was still flesh left on him even as STL took place. I already told you all of the interpretations of Baku’s dream in TOK, you omitted them.

“I already covered all the 3 ways you could possibly interpret this panel, it's on you for omitting them.”
TF,I’ve discussed and refuted them
Anyone can press Ctrl F, search for my argument of- “Regardless of what instance you're claiming to be Baku's guilt, here are the explanations:”
And they’ll see that you haven’t addressed it at all.

“My guy, you have Alzheimer's:”
Bro,I mentioned everything leading to Kyara’s death ,but alr
That’s exactly my point. You’re inconsistent with your stance and don’t admit that you are wrong about Baku planning everything. Besides, check your initial claim, you directly said that Baku planned ALL EVENTS of Protoporos.

“When are we talking about 2SD”
You haven’t sent any arguments for Baku planning 2SD. You’ve just sent a panel of Baku suspecting that Hal figured out Leap Second which, if anything, contradicts him having planned it. To me, that doesn’t seem like someone for whom everything is going as planned:
503.18

The burden of proof, both for Baku “planning everything until Kyara’s death” and “planning 2SD”, is on you.

”This and the following scan imply that Yokoi’s been kidnapped for a while”
They don’t imply anything like this, and you claiming such shit just shows how convoluted your fanfiction is. You see “implications” where there are none, you arrogantly omit my arguments, you split this debate into 6 different threads and STILL expect me to take you seriously.
Chapter 283 clearly shows that Yokoi was kidnapped after Coin Push.
Simple plot progression:
1. Hal plays Coin Push, learns about “JALLOUD”
2. Gakuto sends the information about it to Yokoi
3. Yokoi arrives at the destined place, asks about JALLOUD, gets kidnapped

Just admit you’re wrong, save some face and stop embarrassing yourself.

”So for a multitude of reasons,they’d have met no matter when”
I already explained why Gakuto would have difficulty meeting Hal and why Hal would focus on finding Eba’s meeting place instead.

”The monthly cycle ensures the time for memory loss isn’t weeks apart,just hours or at most a day”
1- Baku doesn’t know what time of the month Hal will lose his memory. He only learned about this in TOK, which is very implicit in 535, emphasizing Baku’s reaction

*CH.270
HOW ARE THE INJURIES?
THE ARTERY WAS HURT REALLY...
STOP THE BLEEDING
Dear Me
AHH...
LOST...
A HUGE AMOUNT OF MEMORY...?
THEY'RE IN SUCH A RUSH...
HURRY UP AND RESUSCI-TATE
REFEREE KIRUMA!!
HAL... KIRUMA SOUICHI
FOR EXAM-PLE...
MAYBE SOMETHING SUDDENLY HAPPENED, WHICH WOULD BECOME A PROBLEM IF THEY COULDN'T SAVE KIRUMA'S LIFE...?
AFTER SUCH A FIGHT, WHY WOULD THEY BE SO BOTHERED...?

2- You admit that Memory Loss can easily deviate by several hours, so it's highly likely that Hal could've lost his memory before TOK even began.

Baku planning this has no basis and you have no proof.

You ignored the memory loss argument.

You also ignored the fact that according to your “interpretation”, Baku wanted Kyara’s death, which is something you accused my interpretation of: ”If Baku foresaw it,why hadn’t he prevented it ? By your logic he foresaw and despite not wanting,didn’t prevent”

Some tips
1. Learn proper English
2. Stop creating 10 different threads under 1 comment
3. Stop disgracing Usogui
4. Learn how burden of proof and occam’s razor work
5. Realize that even if your fanfiction were correct, your Baku is fucking retarded and his feats rely on baseless assumptions and plot conveniences taken to the extreme. Just the factor of referee Midara being the one to preside over the Ban-Match has ~1% of it happening, and that’s not even the least likely variable your “interpretation” assumes.