BACKSTORY (OPT): Kira was born into a poor abusive family. When he was a toddler, government agents took him into an orphanage and killed his parents. During his time in the orphanage he learned that it was run by the government to experiment on children. He was under constant surveillance during his time there due to being the smartest of all the children there. This is where scientists taught him a lot of stuff such as manipulation and hand to hand combat. When he was 11 he was “adopted” by a rich man and a sickly woman hired by the government to see what would happen if he was exposed to parents. His adoptive father saw very odd behaviour from Kira. He saw that he was a violent emotionless person. So his adoptive father taught him how to hide those feelings by pretending to be someone else. When Kira was 13 his father sent three assassins to kill Kira’s mother. When Kira saw this happening in the hospital room he grabbed a scalpel and took the assassins by surprise, later killing them. The police ended the case in self defence. But Kira couldn’t forgive his father as his mother was the only thing that kept him truly smiling. During his time in education he was often hiding his academic abilities until he decided to enroll into Kireina High so in middle school he decided to stop holding back. So when he enrolled into Kireina they saw his grades and talents “Love? I never felt love in my life. The only thing that makes my heart skip a beat is my father.” Kira doesn’t think about love unless asked. He never felt that he was in love with someone as he was taught not to love anyone.

“I’m the only one who is there for you. You will be all alone without me.”

“You should just drop out. No one wants you here.”

“I’m Sorry. I promise I won’t do it agian.”

“You need me. You’re only broken because I wasn’t there.”
