Will’s Minnesota Shrike profiling

Feat starts at 1x1 5:47

By Slick_editzz on yt (corny name ik)

Basics of the case

P1: All of them were abducted on a friday
P2: Many people believe that you must wait at least 48 hours to report someone missing
C1: A constraint that is prevalent is that he must have weekend time to cover his tranks
P3: There is a 8th victim
P4: It doesn’t make logical sense to keep them all around
C2: 1-7 are dead and the 8th victim should be the only one that should be focused on P4: They all have the same characteristics
P5: One of these victims are important and the one true victim
P6: It isn’t the first or the last
C3: He had hidden how special she was

8th victim

P7: The 8th victim likes trains
P9: The 8th victim was supposed to feed the cat
P9: The parents didn’t see the cat acting strange
C4: What happened was that she took a train -> came home -> she feed the cat -> she went to bed -> she was taken at the house

Will was then able to fully predict that she was killed and that her body was returned to her room

Will then hot reads the scene in front of him and visualizes all that happened perfectly. He was able to figure out exactly what happened and what the killer and victim were feeling and doing

P10: Antler velvet was found in the wounds
P11: Antler velvet is rich in nutrients and promotes healing
C5: He may have put it there on purpose to heal her
P12: The killer wanted to undo as much as he could, given that he'd already killed her.
C6: Whatever he did to the others, he couldn't do it to her
P13: This isn't his main victim
C7: This is a apology as he couldn't honor her
P14: He couldn't show her he loved her
C8: P14 is the reason why the killer returned the corpse
P15: He truly loves one of these girls and by proxy the rest get a small form of that love
P16: There was no signs of semen or salavia
C9: This is not the form of love he would give them and wouldn't disrespect them that way, he doesn't want these girls to suffer
P17: The killer knows he's going to be caught one way or the other
C10: The next victim is going to be taken soon

8th victim's Autopsy

P18: There was a piece of metal on her clothes
C11: Plummers, steamfitters, and tool workers are who should be looked for P19: There are lots of piercings that look like they were caused by deer antlers
C12: She was mounted on them like hooks and may have been bled
P20: The liver was removed and then placed back
P21: There is something wrong with the meat
P22: She has liver cancer

C13: The killer is cannibalizing these girls

9th victim

P23: He wanted this body to be found
P24: There is a feeling of him mocking her or the police
C14: Whoever killed the 8th victim did not kill this one
P25: The lungs are taken
P26: She was most likely alive during this
C15: This is not the same killer
P27: The original cannibal does not want to destroy, but to consume these women to keep some part of them inside
P28: The 8th victim's killer had a place to do it and had no interest in a place of this nature

The original killer's profile

The 8th victim's killer has a house, or 2, or a cabin. Something with an antler room. He has a daughter with the same characteristics as the other girls. She's an only child and she is leaving home. He cannot stand the thought of losing her. She is the main girl.

The copycat's profile

He is an intelligent psychopath, particularly a sadist, is very hard to catch, no traceable motive, no patterns, he may never kill this way again so it will be close to impossible to catch him.

Accuracy

All conclusions and both profiles were shown to be fully 100% full proof and correct throughout the series

Where does it scale? (Opinionated)

I believe that this scales incredibly high in deductive and abductive reasoning, gapping people like Yokoya and Akiyama, nearly gapping Light and Joe, and is on the level of someone like PJ
