• Walter White (Heisenberg) scaling by OverlordThresh

- Achievements in the field of scientific knowledge: Walter White, together with his partners, founded the company «Gray Matter». The company's initial task was to monetize a major scientific discovery m`ade by Walter. The discovery was so large-scale that a Nobel Prize was awarded for it.
  But later Walter White leaves the company, the specific reason is not established. The Gray Matter company itself, thanks to Walter's discovery, has enriched itself and has a fortune of billions of dollars with a capital letter «M» + has gained enormous influence and an impeccable reputation throughout the country, and possibly around the world.

- Planning, adaptation, strategy, thinking skills (Feats): 1. Heisenberg planned the murders of more than 10 witnesses in three well-guarded prisons, which were located in different parts of the country, within two minutes. Walter's plan had no flaws, so no one could detect the murder algorithm (the murder methods differed from each other).

2. Planned a hidden robbery of a train that supplied resources from another country. The plan itself is a team effort of several people. One person stops the train with a request for help fixing the van. While other persons are pumping out methamphetamine with the help of a constructed device, and so that there is no evidence of a perfect robbery, dilute it with water. But the initial plan fails, as an outsider offers to help move the van off the rails and bring it to the center for repairing moving vehicles. As a result, Mike informs Walter about this and asks him to stop the process of filling the water. Heisenberg looks at the remaining amount of water that needs to be filled so that there is no difference in weight, calculates the time and speed of transfusion, Walter gives the command to continue. As a result, the calculations turn out to be correct and right before the train starts moving, Walter's team manages to completely pour water (dilute methamphetamine). The weight of the methamphetamine with diluted water must be exactly the same as the weight of the methamphetamine that was originally transported by the train in order to hide the evidence of a break-in.

3. Walter participated in the development of a tension magnet to eliminate evidence of illegal activity that was recorded on Gustavo's computer. Walter's team bypasses the defense and enters the military territory. The tension magnet's magnetic field strength easily destroys an armored building guarded by more than 15 military personnel. In addition, Walter timed it perfectly to accurately damage the laptop where the evidence was stored.

Подвиги FSIQ:

1. Heisenberg has a high level of VMI. According to the duration of the time, which is 2-3 seconds, Walter easily remembers the coordinates of the area from an eighteen-digit number and stores the information for a long time. The PSI-Walter reaches the peak of possibilities. Due to the high level of adaptability, Heisenberg instantly processes information received in extreme situations (under threat of life) and applies it to avoid conflicts and consequences. An example of this is the case with Mike, when Gustavo gave permission to eliminate Walter (action in the lab) because he posed a huge threat to business. Heisenberg guesses about further events and within a few seconds comes up with a plan that gives him an advantage in time. Or an episode with a train robbery that supplied resources from another country. When Walter's team thought that there was not enough time for a complete transfusion of the substance, Heisenberg calculated the time spent, thereby accurately confirming that they would have time to finish the work. Walter demonstrated a high level of logical thinking, fast verbal counting and adaptability. He planned the murder of more than 10 witnesses in different prisons, which were located on different borders of the United States, in less than two minutes. Showed a high level of problem solving, adaptability to any critical situation (critical thinking), deception skills, planning:

1. Misleads police officers by proving his wife's innocence in his illegal activities (although she laundered money for Walter). Talking on the phone, he was able to tell her that he would return Holly (Walter's daughter) and that she needed to follow the script to stay free and not go to jail. The recording of their conversation was tapped by the FBI, but no one except Skyler, no one could understand Walter's intentions, because Walter carefully masked the meanings of the words so that only Skyler (Walter's wife) could understand their meaning.

2. Walter White planned his release in the desert (episode «ozymandias»). Full analysis of the feat. Exploits of strategy (Despite the fact that Jesse managed to deceive Walter and lure him into a trap so that Heisenberg unknowingly revealed the location of the money he buried, Walter, with the help of his critical thinking, immediately after arriving in the desert, guesses about the trap and comes up with a plan to turn Jesse's trap against him, Walter hides behind one of the hills and uses the remaining time, before the arrival of the DEA staff to inform Jack by phone call about his location, using a piece of paper on which the coordinates of the location of the buried money were recorded) Walter had foreseen Jesse's possible betrayal in advance, so he remembered the coordinates of the area, only looking at them for a time lasting about 2-3 seconds, and was able to retain the information received (several hours) to rewrite it on a piece of paper, which indicates his excellent working and long-term memory.

VMI + PSI + GAI + VCI +PRI = 178+

Manipulation, deception, strategy, planning (feats) :

1. The series «Breaking Bad» has entered the history of cinema and television not only because of its entertainment and exciting plot, but also because of the insightful and subtle manipulations that Walter White, the main character of the series, uses to achieve his goals.

2. One of the most notable examples of this in the series is the moment with a cigarette and ricin, when Walter White sets up his assistant Jesse against Gustavo Fring. This example is a strong proof of how manipulation can affect other people and that even those who seem naive and weak can become tools in the hands of an experienced and cunning person.

Consider what kinds of manipulations Walter White used to set up Jesse against Gustavo Fring:

3. The first manipulation that Walter White used was incredibly cunning and sophisticated. He took a cigarette from Jesse and, taking advantage of the temporary turmoil, inserted a small ball of ricin into the filter. Walter knew that ricin was a deadly poison that would kill anyone if consumed in sufficient quantities, and that he could use this knowledge to force Jesse to follow his orders. The scene of Brock's poisoning in the TV series Breaking Bad is a perfect example of how Walter White uses his deception, manipulation, analytical abilities, observation and deduction to achieve his goals.

- Heisenberg wants Jesse to stop working with the group headed by Gustavo Fring, who violated the agreements, leaving Walter without earnings. Jesse, however, doesn't want to hear anything from Walter and continues to work for Fring.

Walter realizes that in order to get Jesse to stop working for Fring, he must prove to him that Gustavo is not an ideal employer. To do this, he decides to use Brock, who was dear to Jesse. Walter hatches a plan according to which he poisons Brock with cyclododextrin, which leads to Brock's hospitalization. White then makes Jesse believe that Fring poisoned Brock to frame Walter in Jesse's eyes. Heisenberg uses his powers of observation and analytical ability to conduct an actual analysis of how Brock was poisoned and conclude that it was cyclododextrin. He also uses his deduction skills to come up with a plan to poison Brock and show Jesse that only Fring could have done it.

Walter also uses his deception and manipulation skills to get Jesse to believe his story and stop working for Fring. Walter even convinces Jesse that Brock is dead, which turns out to be a lie.

This scene demonstrates how sophisticated Walter White is in his actions and how easily he can use manipulation and deception to achieve his goals.

4. As soon as Walter found out that Gustavo Fring was probably playing a dangerous game and sending assassins to him, he began to look for a way to attract Jesse to his side. He knew that Jesse had always depended on him, and used this dependence to make him work to achieve his goals. Walter decided that Jesse would do everything for his good, and bluntly told him that Gustavo Fring was going to kill them both. At first, Jesse did not believe Walter, but when he received confirmation from the killer, he was convinced and began to unite with Walter in the fight against Gustavo Fring.

Walter White uses his skills of deception, manipulation, planning, strategy and persuasion + critical thinking

This time Walter finds himself in a very dangerous situation. He realizes that Mike, Fring's hired killer, may kill him and Jesse in order to keep Gustavo's secret and ensure his safety. Heisenberg knows that Gale is the only person capable of replacing him and Jesse in Fring's lab. Therefore, in order to protect his life, Walter must kill Gale.
Heisenberg comes up with a plan to contact Jesse and give him the command to kill Gale. However, he can't just call him, as Mike is following Heisenberg's every action. Walter decides to use his ability to deceive and manipulate to convince Mike to let him call Jesse and make an appointment. This will allow Heisenberg to inform Jesse.

To give Jesse the command to kill Gale, Walter disguises the meaning of the words so that Mike cannot understand about Heisenberg's plan, and gives Jesse a couple of minutes of time to cover the distance, get closer and kill Gale. And when Mike already wanted to eliminate Walter for incomprehensible actions and asks: «What the hell just happened.» Walter gives Gale's address, thereby informing Mike of his plan and saying that Gustavo needs them, hinting at Gale's imminent death. This scene shows very well how White uses his skills of deception, manipulation, planning, strategy and persuasion to find a way out of a dangerous situation and achieve his goals.

5. Another manipulation that Walter White used to turn Jesse against Gustavo Fring was related to Mike Ehrmantraut. Walter knew that Mike respected him only for his professionalism, but he never trusted him enough to give him power on an equal footing. Walter used this to convince Jesse that Mike is an enemy, not a friend. Walter told Jesse that Mike was going to sell them both to Gustavo Fring to save his life, and that they had to act quickly to thwart his plans. This helped Walter make Jesse realize that Mike was against him, not for him, and made Jesse join his ideas.

6. To complete the manipulation, Walter decided to kill Mike to finally convince Jesse that he was the best choice for him. Walter understood that Mike had always been a problem, and eliminating him would help Jesse establish himself in his place, leaving Walter free to act in his affairs. Unfortunately, this time the manipulation did not go smoothly, and Mike's murder led to the fact that Walter and Jesse's relationship broke up, and this led to tragedies.

7. In conclusion, we can say that Walter White was an expert at manipulating other people. His ability to use manipulation for his own purposes was one of the key factors in his success in the fight against Gustavo Fring. Walter showed that even innocent people like Jesse can become tools in the hands of more experienced and cunning people, and that you should always remember this before sharing your firm beliefs with someone.

8. All of Walter's actions described above combine the advantages of long-term + short-term planning + long-term strategy.

Walter also has a high level of kinetic intelligence and outstanding deception skills:

-Jesus, what you got in there

-Half million in cash

-That's the spirit

Walter was able to mislead Hank without telling a single lie. The fact is that Heisenberg anticipated Hank's train of thought and was able to determine that he would take it as a joke. To make sure that Hank does not begin to suspect the truthfulness of Walter's words, he shows the irony of this situation with his face, pushing Hank to think in the direction that Walter himself wants.

We can see a similar case of using Walter's kinetic intelligence in a conversation scene with Hank.

Analytical skills, deduction, observation, deception (feats) :

Poisoning of Lydia: This moment occurred in the last episode of the fifth season, when Walter had already decided everything and was ready to eliminate those who threatened him and his loved ones. Lydia became one of those opponents for him because she was the last link in the chain of connections that helped him sell drugs in the Czech Republic.

Walter found out that Lydia usually orders her favorite brand of stevia at a certain cafe and that she always adds medicine there to suppress it because she had problems with her nervous system. Based on this fact, Walter, with the help of his accomplices, entered the cafe and replaced all the bags with the name of his favorite brand of stevia with the same bags, but with the poison «Ricin».

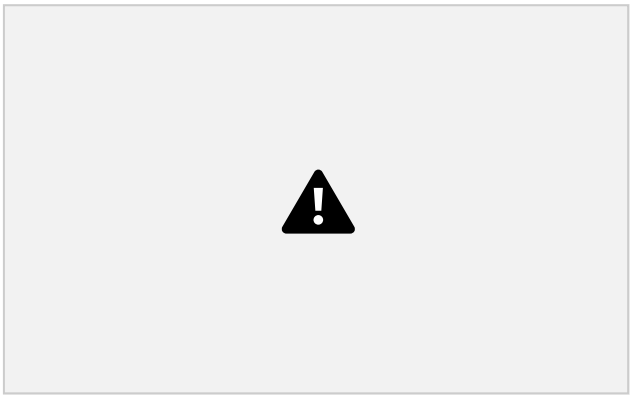

Lydia drank her usual drink while talking to Walter and Ted, where Heisenberg persuaded him to set up a meeting with Jack. And the next day she died suddenly and terribly. This happened because «Ricin» is an extremely poisonous and fast-acting chemical that causes a violation of the functions of very important organs and a quick but unnoticeable death

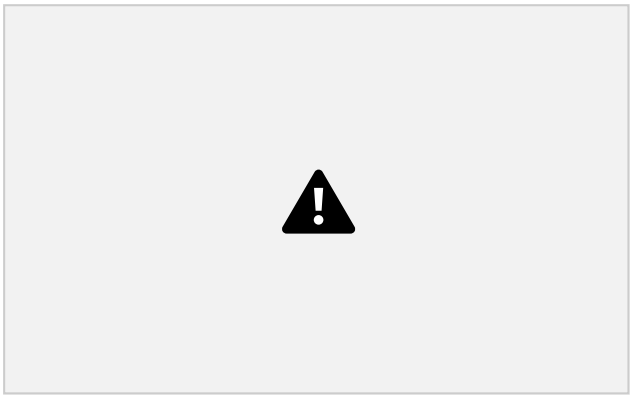

Thus, Walter White was able to poison Lydia by observing her habits and analyzing her personal life, and then attempted to trap her, which was entirely based on his deductive and analytical abilities.

Creative Thinking, Observation, Planning, Engineering Knowledge and Deception Skills (feats) :

Plan to eliminate Jack:

Walter planned Jack's murder and Jesse's release. With the help of engineering knowledge and creativity, Walter was able to modify the tower: change the direction of rotation of the tower and increase the radius of destruction, which he invented himself, creativity lies in the fact that none of those present would have guessed about the threat in the form of Walter's weapons, his observation helped to implement the Heisenberg plan (Walter watched Jack's gang and was able to predict them behavior, he knew that no one would stop him from parking the car on the side from which the turret would shoot, and he knew that no one would attempt to hide the keys, since this was not necessary, since the keys could not pose a danger individually, no one could assume that it would be an activator turrets, this is Walter's creative approach) + Walter focused the main attention of Jack's gang on Jesse, making it clear to Jack about his fake intention. Jack thought Heisenberg most likely came back for Jesse, since they shook hands in the desert (episode «Ozymandias»), he wasn't worried that Walter would try to kill him. What could be lying in the car to kill them all? I don't think Jack was even close to guessing about Turelli.

The turret was installed in a position that would provide shots in all directions to kill all opponents at the same time.

Feats of skills of intimidation, deception, creative thinking + persuasion:

Walter White, using his skills of deception, intimidation and negotiation, creates the illusion of threatening the lives of Elliots with laser pointers. A full analysis of this feat looks like this:

1. Deception skills:

Walter White very cleverly and confidently creates the illusion of a threat to the life of the Elliots. He uses laser pointers to convince that Elliot and his wife Gretchen are the targets of snipers. With the help of his persuasive words, Walter creates a detailed deception, claiming that he has hired two of the best killers who are ready to carry out his orders, although in fact they are ordinary laser pointers controlled by ordinary drug addicts (Badger and Pete) on Walter's orders. This proves his skill in deception and his ability to convince people of his story.

2. Intimidation skills:

Walter White uses his authority and reputation as a «Heisenberg» to intimidate the Elliots. He creates the impression of himself as a dangerous and ruthless person, ready to use any means to achieve his goals. By threatening the Elliots, Walter makes it clear to them that the consequences for them and their property will be serious if they do not comply with his demands. This creates an atmosphere of fear and uncertainty, forcing the Elliots to submit to his will. Walter is well versed in human psychology, he uses fear as a tool to turn off a person's critical thinking.

3. Negotiation skills:

Walter White shows his talent in negotiations, showing that he is well aware of the situation and the condition of the Elliots. He uses his charisma and observation to find weaknesses in their position and use them to his advantage. Walter demonstrates his willingness to break all boundaries to achieve his goal, and offers the Elliots a deal that they will find difficult to reject.

As a result, Walter White is able to create the illusion of a threat to life with the help of laser pointers, manages to intimidate the Elliots and use his skills of deception and negotiation to force them to fulfill his demands. This feat is a product of Walter's skills and determination, which help him capitalize on difficult situations and achieve his goals.

Walter has a high level of knowledge in the field of engineering, crystallography (more feats of walters in knowledge) :

Able to prepare poison from lily of the valley flowers and ricin (vegetable protein poison extracted from castor seeds).

Explosive mercury, which Walter disguised as methamphetamine (Walter managed to change the structure and properties of this mercury, so that it can destroy a huge building, but not cause any harm to the people inside the building, so the explosion did not cause any harm to Walter and all the people nearby) Hydrofluoric acid is an aqueous solution of hydrogen fluoride. The acid is able to quickly melt human flesh and bones, as well as ceramics, wood and some metals.

Phosphine gas is a colorless, highly toxic, odorless gas. This affects the nervous system and disrupts the metabolism in the body.
