

INTRO:

Hello Everyone. This doc will focus on who I think is one of the most underrated characters in the bat-family and especially in SCD. That person is.... JASON PETER TODD, better known as RED HOOD.
Jason was the second Robin after Dick Grayson left Batman's side. Jason was canonically taken in by the batman after he was trying to take the tires of the bat-mobile at around the age of 11.

In this doc I will be using the main canon comic book continuity version of Red Hood, It will NOT be a composite version.

I also want to point out that since this is a comic book character from DC, they tend to not explain every single intrinsic detail of a plan out loud and focus more so on the story/plot. That's why I will try my hardest to mention what is either explicitly stated, or the most logical conclusion or linear reasoning, to each feat. But for this doc/analysis I will keep it as dry and forward as I can while still showing how impressive Red Hood is.

"When the Red Hood comes knocking on your door, there's only ONE thing he's after… Death."

Now without further ado, let's go ahead and talk about THE GOAT, RED HOOD!

(Jaybin/Death In The Family Stuff)

While Training with Batman He was able to master Computer Science as a fifth-Grade dropout.
Jason was able to extrapolate a secret message that was sent from Two-Face, then later also deduced the Location of Two-Face's Base.
Jason, after having a hard time grieving his past trauma, starts to be a little more aggressive out on missions so Bruce and Alfred come to the conclusion to let Jason stay behind a little bit to get his head back in order. Jason doesn't like this and leaves Wayne manor and after taking a long walk ends up in his childhood apartment. While strolling in the area his old neighbor calls him up and gives him some of his family's old stuff, like old papers, pictures, documents in a box. Back at Wayne manor Jason goes through the stuff, and he gets to his birth certificate. While going through it he sees his name (Jason Peter Todd), his Fathers name (Willis Todd), and his mothers name was damaged with water so it couldn't be read fully, but it started with the letter "S". Which can't be possible because his mothers name was Catherine, so an "S" wouldn't make any sense. He then comes to the conclusion almost instantly that the woman he grew up with must not be her biological mother and her real mother could still be alive somewhere. He then decided to find her but doesn't know how.
Jason starts with going through the other items in the old box, knowing that it's better to start with documents from the same time period. He finds his fathers old address book. He then deduces 3 potential candidates that could be his mother, he then thinks to the bat-computer to do a deeper search on the 3. He then finds out where they all reside.

This entire part above was Jason at the age of 12-14.

(Red Hood: Lost Days)

After Jason got resurrected (The resurrecting part isn't that important in this context lmao) he was found by the League of Shadows in a mentally vegetative state. Down the line Talia takes Jason and puts him in the lazarus pit then throws him out in the wild with a mini survival kit.
Once Jason is able to grasp what was happening, he is able to notice people are following him (he did receive a tip but he was still able to notice it after not being clear minded) and is also able to infer that they most likely put (on his own) several tracking devices in the survival kit, at least 4. Jason was able to identify and get rid of the devices AND the agents who are Talia's people and Ra's people. Jason after losing the agents needed to leave the country without needing to use any identification and not leaving any tracks. He came to the conclusion the best way to do that was to get on a mercenary transport. With this, he doesn't need to use any ID, doesn't need to get checked, and doesn't get on any records. He also has the money from Talia he didn't use yet, which he used to get on the transport.
While on the transport he is able to make conversation with some of the passengers even though he's clearly a child(about 15-17yrs old), but he is still able to get info and easily blend in socially. (he needed this info for a plan that he is in the process of making).

Jason's Plan To Kill Batman Via Bat-Mobile Trap:
This is the plan that I mentioned above. The main concept of this plan is to literally draw out Bruce into staking out a high value arms deal by rigging his car with an explosive. He'll draw him out by setting up a deal he can't resist cracking down on.

The Entire Plan:

- ➔ Jason gets in contact with the supplier from the mercenaries on the transport he was on.
- ➔ Jason sets up an exchange on BOTH ends, the sellers and the buyers.
- ➔ Finds a big enough Buyer for Bruce to bite on, In this case, The Penguin.
- ➔ He then spreads the word around the streets that Penguin is the buyer so eventually the word would get to Batman through him just naturally interrogating people or otherwise getting information.
- ➔ Then when the day of the meeting between Penguin and the seller arrives, Jason waits until Batman is out and away from the bat-mobile and there he puts a bomb under the bat-mobile. This is the breakdown of getting to car lol:
    - ◆ The bat-mobile has several security measures in place, but Jason is one of the few people who knows exactly how to approach the car without sounding any alarms or breaking any systems.
    - ◆ Prior to coming that night he gets his hands on a high end wetsuit that navy seals use . This suit will be invisible to thermal sensors, and won't be clear if it's on video.
    - ◆ Now getting to the actual car is the hard part, he knows to get to the car he has to move 5 seconds per inch, so in total it would take over 3 HOURS to get down to the car, and back.
    - ◆ He should have time since he thought about this as well. Jason manipulated some info so the buyers have the times mixed-up and they would be late.
    - ◆ Knowing how big of a deal Job Jason orchestrated, he knows Bruce, and he knows unless something ABSOLUTELY urgent AND CRAZY is happening he will wait it out 100%.
    - ◆ Once Jason gets under the car he takes out the bomb and places it as close as he possibly can to the fuel tank without setting off any alarms.
- ➔ Jason then goes back in hiding and was able to successfully make it out before Bruce came back, with time to spare even.

Batman comes back and gets in his bat-mobile without realizing anything happened. It would've 100% succeeded. Jason tells Talia he didn't kill him there because refused to let Bruce get off this easily. He wants Bruce to know it is Jason on his revenge tour. Jason also stated that he used the methods that Bruce taught him, but just in different ways.

(Pretty much the entirety of issue #3 of Lost days)
Around 3-6 months after that night, In that time-frame: he trained with a Sniper who is an expert in guns for about a month, was with a chemist for about another 5 weeks, Now is training with Egon (german guy) in the more Deadly martial arts and techniques for about 3 weeks now. He seems to have mastered the previous 2 topics already.

When he is about to go home from training, he is strolling with another member of Egon's group. As they are strolling, Egon is sneaking up on them, but only Jason can tell, he can also tell that he isn't the target of the sneak attack so he doesn't do anything to prevent it. Egon attacks the guy next to Jason. As Egon is speaking to another member of his group in German, Jason is able to lip read what they are saying, and is also lying about not being able to speak German that well.
At this point Jason is able to conclude that something other than his training is happening due to these reasons:

1. He saw trucks on the way back to his place and he heard whimpering coming from them.
2. He doesn't have free rein on the compound, Egon gave him a reason but Jason didn't buy it.
3. Egon is a trained assassin so he shouldn't need this much muscle to back him up.
4. The muscle is also just some random thugs not trained.
5. And how Jason is being watched in secret.

These reasons lead Jason to investigate on his own.

That night his watcher was Leon, but Jason noticed that Leon has a habit of leaving his post around 2 AM to meet someone named Sofie. And from Leon's patterns Jason is able to come to the conclusion that he has about 2 hours before his absence is noticed.
He follows the roads back to the entrance and runs into a smell before the building even comes into view. They were burning leaves but Jason could smell the bodies. He looks through the window and instantly counts 42 kids who looked to be under 10 years old and not under malnourished. He then spots Egon's office and breaks in since there isn't any security in place.
Egon is keeping paper documents of details on what's happening, but they are all in code. Jason is able to swiftly decode the documents and knows that Egon is selling children. While he is there, he preemptively poisons an energy drink on Egons desk from the teachings of the chemist he received. A second later he hears a truck start and sees the kids are getting loaded up in the trucks. Jason estimates they need about 45 minutes to load and secure them all. Jason then notes he is 10 minutes from his current location to their makeshift motor pool. Jason then high-Jacks a truck and flips it in the middle of the road to stop the truck full of kids, He shoots the driver in the shoulder and forces the other dude to pick if he would listen to Jason or if he should just shoot them both dead (Jason is hiding his face during this interaction). It isn't specified which happened but he did drop the kids off at an embassy, then later returned to Egon's office waiting for him to drink the energy drink before confronting him.
Egon then attacks Jason and eventually dies from the poison.
After he killed Egon he burned down everything in the area to make sure it can't be traced back to Egon, or it being traced back and revealing Jason.

While he was training with an explosives expert named Shurik Ivanko, he invited Jason to drink with some of his friends. Jason was able to fit right in easily. Then another man walked in, Yuri Karanov, Ivanko excused himself, but Jason and no one other than Jason, not even Ivanko's friends could tell Ivanko was not happy to see that man. He was essentially able to see some anger in him and did a pretty good reading on him.

(Batman: Under The Red Hood)

Under The Red Hood Plan:
(Jason is roughly 19 years old here). The main premise of this plan is to essentially, be a better version of the batman, Take over Gotham and make it better, and do it more efficiently/better than Batman, even by killing those who deserve to be killed. While that is the END goal, Jason also has another goal in mind, find the joker and make batman decide on a final choice of whether or not to kill the joker. So this is a plan with several steps and multiple layers. So first a little context as well: At the time, Gotham's crime circuit was more or less run by Black Mask so he is gonna be featured in this part a lot.

- ➔ The first thing Jason does for this plan is secretly set up a meeting with the top 8 street dealers in Gotham, and makes them agree that Red Hood will be running the drug trade from now on. How does he do this? Well, prior to this meeting Jason killed and took the heads of all the 8's top lieutenants and put them in a bag. Then during the meeting Jason first threatens them via gunpoint (AK-47), then shows them the heads and says "That took me 2 hours, you wanna see what I can do in a whole evening?". The terms were as follows: Red Hood gets 40% of all earnings. In return Red Hood will protect them from both Black Mask and Batman. ALSO, They have to stay away from kids, Schools, school yards, things of that nature. He then fires off some shots in their general direction and a second later the 8 agree with the terms.
- ➔ The next thing Jason does is place an explosive on a shipment of black masks that is getting brought in. He also knew Batman would be, after Batman and Nightwing take out the guards they go to the main shipment crate and open it up, once they are in a safe distance Jason remotely detonates it while he was on a rooftop close enough to where the two of them would notice. He does this on purpose because he wants them to start chasing him, which they do. He then leads them to a separate location where Black Mask has an Amazo android that he was eventually going to let loose, and lets loose the android on Bats and Nightwing. He then leaves them to deal with the android while he goes back to the shipment yard and takes a 100 pound crate of kryptonite. This entire sequence accomplished a few things for Jason:

- Destroyed Black Masks shipment retrieval.
- Dealt with the Amazo Android that would've been trouble in the future by having Batman and Nightwing take care of it.
- Got the two of them to take out the guards at the shipping dock.
- Retrieved the 100 pound crate of Kryptonite for the next part of the plan.

➔ Jason calls Black Mask to tell him the only way he'll give back the Kryptonite is if he pays $50 million dollars. Black Mask eventually agrees with the deal and Jason sends him the location of the meet-up place. Black Mask obviously doesn't plan to give the money so he sends Mr. Freeze to take it back by force. Jason anticipates that Black Mask wouldn't take the deal, although he says he didn't expect to see Freeze. Regardless, Jason prior to them showing up had set up several turrets in hiding so when they would show up they would get shot dead. Batman and Nightwing would also arrive shortly after and the two, Jason, and Mr. Freeze would have a little scuffle and Jason leaves the Kryptonite with the duo since he doesn't have any use for it anymore.

➔ Up until this point Jason was simultaneously trying to track down the Joker, Which now he has accomplished that task and first gives him a near death beating then eventually takes him to a doctor to get him healed. We ain't gonna see Joker for a bit.

➔ Around 2 weeks go by, several of Black Masks high-end shipment deliveries keep getting destroyed. Jason is slowly breaking down and stripping Black Masks resources. Jason is gaining influence and slowly turning into the real crime lord of Gotham.

➔ The next thing he takes care of is another group of drug dealers but mainly a person who Batman lets do vigilante work in Gotham occasionally, her name is Onyx. Before showing up right behind her hiding above the group of dealers, he sets up guns outside to use later. He then sneaks up on Onyx and they make conversation on who those guys are and how they are all human scum. Then they both jump down and deal with the original group who are in that room, several more show up and Red Hood eventually suggests to Onyx they should head for the exit door. She follows his suggestion, once he gets out to the goons and starts to follow, he gets his machine gun he hid beforehand and starts spraying and kills the goons. While She is arguing with him on what he just did, Jason stabs her in the shoulder. Why specifically the shoulder? While they were both fighting (mind you half the time they were fighting in smoke against several other opponents) he was able to analyze and cold read that her left shoulder was injured.

- ➔ Batman then arrives and they start to scuffle, (Jason is holding his own and actually draws blood from Bruce. While their fighting seems to end and Batman's cowl gets removed in the fight, leading to Jason revealing his identity. Bruce of course doesn't believe it. Jason then cuts a little bit of DNA from the back of his head to give Bruce some DNA to test to see if it's really Jason. Bruce says, "This won't make me believe". But Jason responds with, "No, it will. You are a creature of Science and Logic". He knows Bruce will believe it, that's who he is as a person.
- ➔ As of now, Jason wants to expand his territory, so he sets up a bomb in a building located in Black Masks territory where they are making drugs. Batman arrives and reveals the bomb and the dudes in the building leave. Leaving Batman to somehow disarm the bomb, Jason then reveals he has a camera set up in the building and tells Batman he is doing this not for the sole purpose of killing those guys who were just in the building, but for putting fear in other people from doing the same. Batman is unable to disarm the bomb and then is forced to flee and let the building explode. Jason successfully starts to expand in Black Masks and even other gang areas.
- ➔ While Jason is slowly expanding his control of the underworld, figures out the location of Black Mask's main office and goes to blow it up via a rocket launcher.
- ➔ Black mask makes a deal with Deathstroke and he gets some villains to kill Red Hood, the 3 are: Captain nazi (yes that's his name), Hyena, and Count Vertigo. Long story short Jason knows that they are after him and stalls for Bruce to come and help, and they eventually beat the 3 and Jason kills the Captain Nazi. He then leaves.
- ➔ To start this Phase, the phase that leads into Jason, Bruce, and Joker reuniting again. Jason starts by sending a strand of Joker's hair to Wayne Manor so it can be examined and proven that Jason does have Joker in his possession. He puts an address on a card with the hair, so once Batman can get proof that it's really Joker he can go to the address on the Card. Currently at that same location, Black Mask has grouped up with his top lieutenants. The reason he made them meet with him is to, in short, kill them all. Which he does because he made a deal with Red Hood, which then once everyone is shot Jason sends a fake Red Hood but is talking with a mic through the helmet (but no one can tell) and tells Black mask he rejects the deal now. Black Mask and the imposter Red Hood start to tussle, and eventually Batman arrives and Black Mask stabs imposter Red Hood. A small explosion goes off and Bats picks up on the clues Jason left on where the last location will be.

➔ Currently at that location, Jason has Joker tied up and is waiting for Bruce to show up. Before Bruce gets there Jason talks with Joker and is able to kinda psychologically break him down, at least to the point where he stopped laughing or even smiling. Bruce gets there and Jason shows up behind him. The building across from them (the building where Joker is) is armed with explosives, they start to fight and eventually end up in the building Joker is in (There is a good chance that Jason was fighting and actually made bat's maneuver into this building). Jason kicks the door down revealing a tied up Joker to Bruce, he starts to go off on him about why he hasn't killed the scum that is the Joker. Batman starts yapping BS and Jason forces Bruce to make a choice.

This entire Feat is insane because he literally is moving and manipulating everyone into doing what he wants and following his lead. He breaks down Black Masks criminal underworld, he controls batman into pretty much doing whatever he wants, and adapts and has contingencies for several of his moves. (PSI, WMI, PRI, FRI, CPI, Seeing Through People, Observation, Analysis, Multi-Tasking, Info Gathering, Linear Thinking, Focused Thinking, Lateral Thinking, Fast Thinking, Conventional Thinking, Holistic Thinking, Systemic Thinking, Application Thinking, Strategic Thinking, Logical Reasoning, Deductive Reasoning, Fluid Intelligence, Indirect Manipulation, Emotional Manipulation, Logical Manipulation, Psychological Manipulation, Verbal Deception, Mass Deception, Strategic Deception, Threats, Fear Inducement, Extortion, Psychological Insight, Psychological Analysis, Psychological Warfare, Cold Reading, Hot Reading, Strategy Fortitude, Strategy Building, Strategy Logistics, Strategy Orchestration, Strategy Control, Strategy shielding, Strategy Efficiency, Strategy Foresight, Planning Intricacies, Jason Lured Green Arrow to a small room since a bow and arrow isn't as useful. Knew the next thing he would do is Shoot at the pipes to make it rain water, Then both took out swords and started to fight again. Then Jason loses on purpose and drops his knife knowing G.A. will pick it up, the sword had an explosive inside that made G.A. have to drop it and go for cover. In the mean-time he made a deal with Brick to fight Batman. So both are stalling Batman and G.A. while Jason's goons kidnapped Speedy (G.A.'s sidekick). Once he kidnaps her, he brings her to her old high-school. There he kinda just lets her attack him and they spar while he really isn't trying. He is more so just trying to psychologically break her down and question if her partner is a rich guy who really doesn't care about her. It kinda works for 1 issue then it gets forgotten about lmao. But the plan to kidnap her and while he distracts Batman and G.A. is still a feat.

During BFTC, Jason disguises himself in a new suit but calls himself Batman when Bruce is dead (story for another time lmao). He made a makeshift bat-cave and was operating from it, and Tim Drake was able to track down the cave. But Jason was prepared and predicted they would; find it eventually and he was prepped a few speakers in advance just in case he needed an edge in the fight. Which he then used to get the upper hand and beat Tim.

(New 52 Era: Red Hood and the Outlaws)

Jason's Friend and future ⅓ of the "Outlaws" Roy Harper is in a middle eastern nation of Qurac in a prison.
Jason is able to completely disguise himself as a Pastor from the International Agency of Amnesty and infiltrate the prison to meet with Roy face to face. The mercenaries bring out Roy and the pastor (Jason) asks to talk with his client privately. The merc's turn around and Jason was able to sneak in Roy Harper's bow. Jason reveals himself, then he and Roy start to fight their way out of the prison.

Jason was able to disguise himself perfectly and convince the prison that he was a Pastor and infiltrate the prison with professional mercenaries.

- ➔ Found an alternative way to punish Crux.
- ➔ Made a bunch of fabricated paperwork look believable.

While intercepting a message of help from Alfred during the night the Court Of Owls attack 12 targets in Gotham, Jason decides to help protect 1 of the 12 and during it all he eventually starts fighting with a talon (Court of Owls trained assassin that came back to life... Long story but it doesn't matter here).
While he is fighting with the Talon, the Talon starts to run away into an empty lot, Jason follows him, then is able to deduce that The Talon is an Acrobat from the same circus as Dick Grayson. He deduces this from these reasons:

1. By the way The talon maneuvers through the alleys (Pro acrobatic level)
2. How the talon passed by a "Haley's circus" faded billboard, instead of going easier routes.
3. The lot that the talon unconsciously led Jason too was the same lot that the Circus most likely pitched their tent at.

Jason then says to the talon: "Let me guess you ran away and joined the circus because you believed the lines they fed every ten year old, that it's all magic and sawdust and unicorn poop where all things are possible. What Happened Talon? What did the court do to you here? What made a young circus performer sign away their body and soul to the court of owls?"

The Talon admits that he did in fact sign away his body but never his soul. Jason emphasizes with the Talon since he himself understands what it's like to leave and return to life. Jason makes the Talon feel understood and takes off his mask and tells Jason his name, then says that this second time that he dies he wants a say in his execution, pretty much telling Jason to kill him. Jason then reveals his face and kills the talon.

In Gotham someone was trying to poison the mayor with a Techno-Organic Virus, and someone tried to blow-up Jason's old boarding school Bruce sent him too where the headmistress was a criminal, then went to jail, then came out just recently, and was going to go back into the crime world. Jason saves Mama Gunn, and she tells him that Black met her and is plotting.
Jason even before this heard that Black Mask has been plotting. He decided to infiltrate Black Masks ranks and make him open up and figure out what the Virus is and how it connects to Black Mask.
Heads Up—>he doesn't actually plan ahead anything more than the fact that he is going to join Black Mask. Also, Black Mask is expecting him and knows who red hood is so this really isn't a deception feat either. The main Feats I'll put in Bold.

- ➔ Starts to research as much as he possibly can find on Black mask to get ready for any future actions. Jason, in one night is able to find out:
  - His name is Roman Sionis.
  - He was born into a powerful Crime Family
  - He murdered his own parents.
  - He has been a low level black marketer for years up until very recently.
  - Just recently started to get better at hiding his operations and cutting down on his competition.

He then thinks up the plan to directly contact Black.
The next day Jason starts blasting the car that Black is in and enters it and holds the 4 people inside (including Black Mask) hostage. Black Mask agrees to talk to Red Hood.
Black Mask approves of Jason working for him and tasks Jason with helping him steal cargo from a private train at midnight. They get a surprise out of the train...

Artemis (an amazonian) gets out and bodies a few of Black's men and then starts to beat up Jason pretty badly. And was going to kill him if he didn't delay her by asking her a question about what was in the train's cargo. He then tasers her with his body taser.
They figure out the container there after is a Clone of Superman. A little later down the story, the superman clone turns into Bizarro, which is kinda like an emotionally explosive monster. Black Mask is trying to control it and he might even use the virus on it. Jason doesn't want Black Mask to have a Superman clone under his control so he tells Black that he wants to try something, Black allows it. Jason tries first to bring Bizarro a superman doll, and explain how he shouldn't try to be someone else. Artemis being in the the cell across from Bizarro out loud tells Jason that Bizarro is a monster then he freaks out and starts to attack Jason and tries to kill him. Bizarro throws Jason into the floor, then Artemis tries to retrieve her Axe to kill Bizarro. Jason in the midst of seeing them about to start a bigger brawl stops both of them by shouting and that gives Jason a few seconds to think of a way to calm Bizzaro down. Since Bizzaro says he doesn't want to talk to him directly, Jason grabs the superman doll and tells Bizzaro to talk to it instead. Bizzaro starts talking to it and says how he is sad and lonely, Jason then states that he isn't alone, and that he has him and Artemis.
Jason is also under the watchful eye of Black Mask so he can't screw up. He keeps talking to Bizzaro through the superman doll and is treating it like therapy. He understands that sometimes if you don't want to talk to the person in front of you, you can talk to something else. Jason was able to completely calm down and emotionally understand and control Bizzaro without using any force.
While Black Mask and Jason are walking to what seems to be a garage with a bunch of crates, Artemis is following them to see if what she is after is also there. Jason is able to tell that she is there and asks Black Mask questions to try and reveal where the item could be. He successfully made Black Mask leak that info to Artemis by the questions he asked.

Prince of Gotham Plan:

Some background: The penguin set up Jason's dad and got him in prison and presumably killed (this was when Jason was a child). Jason himself says he came up with the plan right before he “shot” Penguin. He planned AT LEAST around a few weeks ahead.

Goal/End Result needed: Jason wanted to dismantle the Penguins operations and take revenge on him for what he did setting up his dad. Jason says: “Taking away everything he cared about was always the goal”

The plan Breakdown:

- ➔ Jason attacks Penguin while he was having a new opening of his Boardwalk, the “Ice Patch”. He then shoots the penguin in the head at POINT BLANK, with a blank. Jason does NOT want to kill the penguin, that’s why he aimed his blank round at penguins monocle, the shards of glass would enter his brain and knock him out for a while, but he still wants to make it believable enough to trick everyone. During this time Batman tells him to not come back to Gotham or he will arrest him and take him in. So Jason leaves Gotham for a little while to take care of other stuff.
- ➔ After he finishes up his other matter outside of Gotham, He returns and becomes the new owner of the Iceberg Lounge, formally in the ownership of the penguin, Jason acquires it under his “Jason Todd Persona”. Jason was leading the penguin into hiding, he wanted to get Penguin in a position where he was immovable. Jason knows the Iceberg Lounge is a BIG part of penguins life and he cares for it more than most other things, So he deduced that he would most likely be there, And be there he was, Jason Successfully ran Penguin into a corner. He trapped the penguin in his own Panic Room he built himself that he thought no one knew about.
- ➔ The reason Jason took ownership of the club under his real name was actually as a contingency/defense against Batman. Since Bruce told him that if he came back he would be arrested or dealt with. But Jason was able to completely shut down and make himself untouchable against Batman by saying: “It was Red Hood who shot Cobblepot in the face. But I guess you’ll have a perfectly reasonable explanation why you’re dragging one of your foster sons to the Gotham city police, and charging him with attempted murder.” This made Bruce lay off Jason entirely.
- ➔ Before he officially became the owner of the Club, Jason knew he would need some allies around the Lounge just in case Penguin could do something. So he got Suzie Sue and her sister, Bunker (metahuman), and Wingman (his dad, long story but it doesn't matter). Low and behold Penguin had a contingency if he was off the grid for a while and the 5 Aces attacked, but Jason and his allies were ready.

➔ He then goes to Paris, Jason Todd as new owner of Iceberg Lounge set up a meeting there in private with the Heads of 5 biggest crime families in all of Europe. But Red Hood shows up deceiving them about how Jason is just another person and public face, while Red Hood is the true owner of the IB Lounge. The 5 want to know where the penguin is and when he will return and make good on his responsibilities to them. Jason says he doesn't know where The Penguin is, and then further lies that he was also deceived by him and at how many debts he had when he bought it from under the Penguin (He does this to make sure they target Penguin in the future and not The Lounge itself). Then when the 5 head's demand Payment from Red hood and point guns at him. Red Hood gets a call from Wingman, He tells Red Hood that he is ready to set an aim and blow up the entire board meeting. Jason had Wing-Man in the sky ready before he even got in the meeting as a precaution if, or when they would disagree. They then agree that they won't have any involvement with the Iceberg Lounge and Red Hood Leaves victorious.

➔ Once he is back in Gotham, at least 2 days have passed, he goes to the Iceberg Lounge and deals with another issue that has been planning on for a little bit. The All-Caste, Specifically Essence, has come and she is trying to kill him. They start fighting and in the middle of the fight Jason wants to beat her but doesn't want to kill her, So his Strategy is this:

- Firstly, I need to explain what the weapon that Essense is using. She is using the Blood Blade, it is a weapon possessed by the All-caste and they granted them to her, Jason has a weapon as well but it's irrelevant at this time. The blades itself come with the pact, She can kill but only those who are not innocent, If she kills someone who is innocent she will get trapped in the sword.
- During this Fight Jason's plan from the start was to get her upset enough and angry enough for her to want to kill Jason and stab him with the Blood Blades.
- Throughout this short fight, he says things that would make her mad and infuriated, Dissing her teacher, The All-Caste as a whole, even a little bit her.

- Eventually she does get angry enough to actually stab Jason with the Blood Blades.
- She gets trapped within the sword. Jason knows that the sword will kill those who are evil and will punish Essence if she stabs someone who isn't evil.
- Jason's understanding of himself is so deep and well that he knew that the swords wouldn't consider him evil. He himself says that he is neither Evil, Nor Good, he's Just "Practical as hell".

➔ He then goes up to his office after dealing with Essence, and while he was away, Penguin had manipulated Bunker to free him. Bunker freeing Penguin was not something that Jason expected since Jason knows Bunker understands that there are evil people, so Him just freeing Penguin is very illogical and out of Character for him.

➔ Regardless Jason is able to take the gun away from Penguin and have him at gunpoint, until Bunker actually shows up and explains pretty much what i just said. While Bunker and Jason are talking Penguin manages to get away, Wingman comes down from the roof and asks if he should follow him, Jason replies no since he completed his task of making Penguin's life miserable and taking away everything from Penguin.

Jason's plan to dry penguin out was a complete success, he managed to do that while also thinking about a way to deal with essence and deal with other issues in another city. This whole plan probably lasted a couple weeks. He hospitalized Penguin to send him into hiding, then took over the hiding place and kept him there to ensure that the rest of his plan would succeed.

(Batman: Urban Legends)

It wasn't specified but as of right now Jason has been awake for "Days" as mentioned by Oracle and has been searching for a missing Batman.
He arrives at a scientist's home, where Red Hood and Batman actually talked to her a few days ago but couldn't get any real info out of her and Jason was being kind of a dick.
He now visits her as Jason instead of Red Hood. He does this so he can say he is sorry and show that by revealing himself to get her to open up and trust him. It worked, she invited him in. He notices pictures of her and a man who he deduces to be her husband, he also is able to deduce that they are at least still together by the men's shoes in front entrance. He asks to use the bathroom, while he is in there he notices that one toothbrush is missing and deduces that he might be away. He opens the bathroom cabinet and sees a bunch of medication for her husband, he is confused because why would someone take their toothbrush and not their antidepressants? He also notices the mix of medication isn't good, no doctor would prescribe them. He then goes back out and realizes that this situation could be a good thread to pull for information.
Jason goes back out and subtly asks if she is the only one to live in this house. She explains how she lives with her husband but they are going through a rough patch, she is getting emotional about it. Jason tries to comfort her and advise to talk to him since from his own experience talking to strangers could help.
After a bit she gave up a lot of info and Jason was able to maintain progress in Finding Batman. This Info gets him to realize that her husband is the one that is the key to finding the drug leader and Batman himself.

(A short story taken place RIGHT before Task Force: Z)

Jason is trying to get a journalist (Deb) to work on a story that would benefit him, the disappearance of a body in a morgue.
Jason follows Deb on a train and intentionally gets two strangers to start fighting each other to get the train to empty and while Deb and her coworker are distracted he puts a note in her jacket. It said something along the lines of “Where did the dead body go?”. He made it like that specifically so it could be more intriguing to her and more mysterious (which it worked).

When Deb isn’t interested anymore and is about to leave the conversation Jason, to bring her attention back, talks about he’ll just go to another reporter all together. He says he likes her writing a lot better than the other one in a way to manipulate her to stay (she admitted it worked and stayed).
Turns out during that scene in the subway Jason also tapped her phone to make sure she is trustworthy.
So he was able to get Deb to look into the missing dead body, then make her stay on the case, while also knowing when she would be lying by secretly tapping her phone without her knowing.

Bloom Plan:
To keep it short, they are trying to take down Bloom lol.
Jason Plan is this:

- ➔ Recruit as many suicide squad members possible so they can have some chance against the big army bloom has.
- ➔ Once they recruit a few more members, Jason has 2-face meet with Geri Powers and tell her to make a decision, either turn over bloom to them and shut down her entire operation regarding the lazarus resin, OR ,when he gives the signal a his team will come up here and start attacking everyone. Then when the feds get here and find out what she was doing, the public won’t favor her.
- ➔ Unfortunately Mr.Freeze stole the remaining resin. BUT, Jason first stole some for himself and gave it to Batman.

Resin Retrieval Strategy

- Jason sends 3 of his teammates to cause a distraction in the middle of Gotham to lure Batman outside of the batcave.

- Once Batman leaves Jason will infiltrate the cave and retrieve the resin.
- Barbara is there, which was unexpected. So Jason makes small talk and lies saying that he only came cuz he broke his communicator. She believes him and goes to get one, while she goes Jason takes the resin
- He then leaves and says that it's fine and that he'll be back when Bruce is around. While he is leaving he runs into Nightwing, Tim Drake and Cassandra Cain. They know Jason took the resin and are fighting him to get him in custody.
- Meanwhile Batman is fighting with the distraction team currently.
- During The mini Bat-fam's fight with Jason, Jason gets thrown into some "stranger" and they help her up and apologize. Turns out that Jason set that up, so while he was helping her up, he ditched off the resin to her. Then he continued to fight the bat-fam to stall as much as possible.

➔ The next part of the plan was to fake 2-face and Jason's fight. Jason knew Bloom had a hidden camera so he decided to make it look like the 2 were working separately.

➔ Then Red Hood would distract Bloom by entering Geri Powers' building and starts a fight with Bloom's crew, while 2-face and the squad go underground.

➔ They get captured by bloom unfortunately.

While Bloom captured both 2-face and Jason. Jason, as a contingency, put an explosive in his suit cuz he knew if he were to be caught Bloom would want to experiment on him. So he led the conversation to how there is a transmitter and the justice league could be listening in. And that made a minion of Bloom's to activate an explosive in the suit. Then the squad was able to help them escape and eventually the entire building collapsed.

After the building was completely blown up and the fight moved to the ground in the debris, Jason was getting thrown around by Gotham. While he was fighting him, he was able to completely convince and emotionally get Gotham to fight bloom and to not hurt Jason himself.

(Batman: Legends of Gotham)

Revenge on Bane:
(this whole story is kinda weird, and the writer goes even further out of his way to NOT explain how Jason planned some things... So I'm going to try to explain it pretty broadly.

Jason wants to get revenge on Bane for killing Alfred, so he visits one of the batcave's around the city to search for the possible location of Bane. Once he tries to use the batcomputer Black Lightning and katana show up, they question why he's there. Jason first tells a sarcastic lie about how he left his bike there and wants it back. That obviously doesn't work, so the second real lie he tells is how he's been taking down Killer Crocs operation in the hill and he heard a rumor about an info Cache and that's why he came. He used the first clear lie to make the second real lie more believable. This also works because it was able to convince Black Lightning to use the batcomputer and unlock it.
(VCI, Misdirection, Fabrication, Verbal Deception, Concealment, Indirect Manipulation, Verbal Manipulation, Social Manipulation)
This is where I'm just going to have to do some REAL guess work lol.
Basically, Once Black Lighting uses the batcomputer to find the Info caches location, it marks a VIP club called "The Myriad" located on "Gamorra Island", and this is where an auction will be held for the Info cache. So the duo ask Jason to tag along.

Pictures of some of the club's members come up on screen including the pics of: Killer Croc, Bane, Condiment king, etc.
Now the only thing we know is that he used Killer Croc to enter the VIP club, but it was never mentioned when Jason contacted Croc... So it was either right after this, when he saw the pics, OR way before he even went into the batcave.... I'm assuming it was after he saw Croc was a member then he secretly contacted Croc asking him to go to Gamorra island to help him, in exchange he will get Croc a literature book that he wanted...
Jason and the duo are in their ship flying to Gamorra island, and they explain to Jason that he has to come up with a plan to enter, he lies and tells them this is a crazy plan, but at this point he already has a strategy to enter using Croc.
They land on the island and Jason is going to the entrance/Bouncers. This is his:
Sneak In Myriad Strategy:

- ➔ As he talks to the Bouncers(his name isn't on the guestlist), he stalls them long enough to make sure Croc gets near the club.
- ➔ Croc gets in view and was prior told by Jason to act like he has beef with him and start a scuffle.
- ➔ They fight Jason and make sure to shoot Croc where his hide will block the bullets, and eventually they get stopped by the bouncer.
- ➔ The bouncer tells them no fights on the premises are allowed. Croc states how he's in a hurry for the auction. So he starts dragging Jason through the doors and tells the bouncers to make Red Hood his +1, and that he'll deal with him later.

Jason has now successfully entered the Myriad without suspicion from Black Lighting and Katana, and the staff there at the myriad.
(Associative Thinking, Quick Thinking, Strategic Thinking, Non-Verbal Deception, Strategic Deception, Strategy Building, Strategy Efficiency, Strategy Alignment)

He has a few deception related feats right after but the story just gets so bleak and it just loses the plot so bad it's honestly not worth mentioning.

Ending Notes:

I was going to wait until at least the first volume of the new Red Hood Run (no matter how bad it was, it was supposedly going to make red hood more Detective-esque). But now that it has been cancelled.... There's no point in waiting to "release this.
There's also supposed to be DC K.O. That's coming out soon but I figured DC hates Jason enough and I'd doubt they'd let him do anything cool. BUT, if something does come out I'm going to include it, and update it here.
