Money Coercion Challenge (MCC)

This challenge required each row of participants to select 1 person to be their leader. Once each leader had been selected, they were then Coerced by Mr beast to take an ever-increasing sum of money increasing by a random amount each round, however if a captain was to rake this money, their entire row would be eliminated.

(Fixed Situation)

Pre challenge – 42 offered himself to be the leader, but not outwardly, showing that he was already cautious of what Mr Beast had planned but chose to the responsibility either way (Leadership)

$1000 Round – 42 Assures his row that he won't "eliminate my entire row for $1000", hyping up his team (as shown by 41's reaction to his words) with confidence and Charisma (Expression, Charisma, Engagement, Skills)

$5000 Round – Upon receiving pleads from his team to not take the money, he Assures them again "don't expect me to go anywhere for a while". This reassures his team that they are safe (Regulation, Charisma, Expression, skills)

$100,000 Round – As the sum gets more extravagant, 42 becomes aware of the backlash he'd receive if he went for the money "I'm gonna be hated on so bad" he resists the urge to take the money and holds on for his team, winning them over as 30 takes the money (Awareness, perception, Understanding, Regulation, Charisma)

Throughout the challenge and beyond, 42 displayed great leadership skills as well as a composed and expressive mindset, leading his team by example

(EM, EE)

42 understood the usage of his words, social dynamics and people as well as his self to show himself as a reliable, trustworthy and charismatic leader for his row as well as the 40s alliance later on

(Social, Verbal, Interpersonal, Intrapersonal)

Post Round – Forms an alliance of all the remaining 40s to protect each other from elimination as he takes a Leadership role in the alliance (Leadership, Influence)

Spin the wheel elimination challenge (STW elim)

A wheel with all the remaining numbers is spun (all eliminated spits are replaced with feastables) when the first spins, the player number it lands on becomes the "eliminator" and wheel is spun again. The eliminator then chooses whether to eliminate that player from the game, or let them survive, if the latter is chosen, the saved player becomes the eliminator and the game continues. 16 players are to be eliminated in this challenge.

Fully understood the underlying concept of the challenges and the loopholes he could utilise before anybody else did (PSI, FRI, EFI)

After a couple eliminations, 43 was given the role of eliminator after 47 chose bot to eliminate her after the alliance was created (primarily frontrunned by 42) – (Indirect Leadership, Influence)

When 43 is selected, 42 speaks up saying "Now you're in charge" this forces 43 to compose herself for the challenge ahead as he anticipates the mental struggle this will have on her due to some of the younger participants still in the challenge as well her more caring personality

(Anticipation/ Social awareness/ Social Perception/ Cold Reading / EP / EU

When the wheel lands on a member of the 40s alliance, that player must eliminate all players the wheel lands on other than another 40s member, if this occurs, power is converted to the other 40s member. This gives perfect cover for the entire alliance and eliminates 16 other players, drastically increasing their chances of winning on the long run. This plan was also formulated very quickly and under heavy pressure

(Coverage, Long term, short term, Formulation)

When 66 is spun, her speech breaks 43 to some extent, 42 then says "if you let her stay, she gets control" this forces her to evaluate her options as she may be eliminated as a result of her losing control. This is also Blackmail as it forces 43 to eliminate someone against her moral compass due to the her own safety being on the line if she doesn't cooperate with 42. This is crucial as 43 eliminating others follows the full proof plan he formulated

– (Direct, Individual, Emotional, Psychological, Strategic, Event, Persuasion, Blackmail, Coercion)

After 66 is eliminated, 42 says to 43 “I’m so proud of you” this is to put 43 at better Psychological and emotional ease as well make her feel more inclined to follow 42 and begin letting go of her previous moral compass due to his praise as seen by what she said to 42 afterwards “we gotta keep control or else we’ll be eliminated.” 42 then responds to thus by saying “we’re at war”. This further gaslights 43 into believing that what she’s doing is right and coercing her to keep eliminating non 40s. This allows his plan to be utilised more efficiently

(Direct, Individual, Strategic, Emotional, Psychological, Love Bombing, Flattery, Gaslighting, Coercion)

After a few more eliminations on the behalf of 43. 11 is spun who is a young boy who begins crying and pleading not to be eliminated. Despite this, after some hesitation, 43 eliminates him despite he morality being strained. During this round, 43 says “Now is not the time to develop a heart” this downplays on 43 emotions but due to his Charisma, he has a complete grip on her emotions. This left everyone in shock and truly demonstrated how powerful the 40s were. This further extended to 16s elimination were he spoke of his ill great grandmother and yet was still eliminated with little hesitation from 43

(Direct, Individual, Complete control, Emotional, Indirect fear inducement)

42 continues his praise for 43 “I’m so proud of you” this continues to subdue her growing moral strain over the course of the round

(Direct, Individual, Emotional, Flattery, Love Bombing, Gaslighting, Coercion)

-note- one mistake 42 made was to make sarcastic remarks to 62 when she was eliminated, she proceeded to bite back calling him “cruel” and a “villain”. These words from her put focus on 42 as the puppet master and away from 43 as the eliminator. This would have long term consequences for his safety in the future. This goes hand in hand with the only weakness in his STW elim plan where the 40s are seen as ruthless and the biggest danger and therefore can be targeted in future challenges

(anti feat in Prediction/ Self Regulation/ Social Awareness/ Deception)

When 41 was spun, 43 passed Control onto her, following 42s plan. Without 42 even manipulating her directly, she delivered the final elimination to 100, who was a crowd favourite with no hesitation

(Indirect, Mass)

42’s Manipulation of 43 was against the human moral code and involved him pampering her with praise, suppressing her emotions and morality, all to make her as efficient as possible

(Direct, Immoral)

All of 42’s Manipulation attempts were verbal, displaying the wise usage of his words to control his teammates

(VCI, VECI)

42 was great at controlling and suppressing the emotions and morals of his teammates through his Manipulation, showing strong perception and understanding of others emotions and how best to utilise them

(EP, EU)

Anonymous “all or nothing” challenge (AAN)

In this challenge, a second $250,000 is presented and all remaining contestants have their cubes blacked out by curtains. During a time limit of 10 minutes, if 1 player steps out their cube, they win the second $250,000 but if 2 or more step out then they are all eliminated and win nothing. (Fixed situation)

Before the AAN started, 42 stated that he couldn’t win if it came down to popularity to decide the winner which he predicted to be how the challenge would be decided also being aware of how his actions interpreted how others perceived him, and how their emotional bias against him would lead to him being grouped on and eliminated. this way he decided to play it big in order to win when he had the best opportunity to do so

(Metacognition, Prediction, Preception/ Awareness, Perception, Understanding/ EP, EU)

Once the challenge starts, 42 shouts out “just letting you know, I will be stepping out” this forces all participants to evaluate their own actions. If they step out, then they could eliminate 42 but that would also eliminate themselves, this forces them to weigh their own arrogance and motivation against a moral action that could benefit others

(Direct, Mass, Emotional, strategic)

42's statement is also a deceptive ploy, as others may overthink the situation and whether he is lying or not due to the "puppet master" portrayal he created during the STW elim. This clouded everyone else's decision making, allowing him to be one step ahead

(Verbal, Direct, Strategic, Short Term)

He would step out of his box, shouting that he would do so before hand, his aim being for nobody else to step out due to them not wanted to also be eliminated and losing out on their chance to win the money.

(Aim, foresight, versatility, short term)

Anticipating that everyone's ego and arrogance would stop them from also stepping out due to them wanting to earn the 250k for themselves.

(Anticipation, Mind Reading, Cold Reading)

Understood how his words would emotionally effect the others and how they would respond.

(EU, EP)

Using his influence to place fear into the other contestants and knowing how his ruthlessness and cunning could outsmart them if they go with a certain option. He also blackmailed them with his plan by where if they step out, they will lose, attempting to force their hand, using their arrogance to his advantage

(Direct, Mass, Psychological, fear inducement, Coercion, Gaslighting, blackmail)

42s plan would've worked perfectly, and his perception and Anticipation of the contestants' emotions was perfect as seen by a conversion between 61 and 64 where 64 was going to leave but 61 said "if you go and 42 goes, you get nothing" and this made her back down, proving 42 correct. However, with 2 seconds left, 58 stepped out, destroying 42s plan in an instant and eliminating him

(Anti feat in Planning coverage/ Risk calculation)
