Haxes related to intelligence :

1- Territory Creation(Not My Doc)

[PSI - WMI - General Knowledge]

2- Noble Phantasm [Elementary My Dear] : Even if the enigma that is being opposed is truly an unresolvable mystery, the route and the clues that will finally arrive at the truth of it will "appear" without exception. For example, even if the key to a treasure chest is lost, the key will end up "not being lost", and it appears that it can be definitely discovered somewhere in the world. (However, as one would expect, it does not suddenly appear in the middle of one's hand, and wherever it is, Holmes and his collaborators must discover it.)
Originally a continuously active-type Noble Phantasm, it has the release of its True Name performed in Fate/Grand Order. At the moment of its True Name release, an unidentifiable "sphere" appears, and it releases a dazzling light to the surrounding areas. The enemy formation is weakened and the allies formation is strengthened. Even if the opponent is supposed to be unbeatable, Holmes will find a way to defeat them.

[Overall Reasoning - Overall Counteraction - Strategy Foreseen]

3- Empty House : allows Holmes to disguise himself as another person, even another Heroic Spirit, though his disguised Parameters cannot exceed his own and he cannot use any Skills or Noble Phantasms that the individual possesses.

[Disguise - Acting Skills]

4- Becoming a servant gives you two things :

1- Great enchantment for your body and stronger mental capacity.

[Kinaesthetic Control - Bodily Kinae Intelligence - Overall AC]

2- Whenever a servant is summoned they get an immediate knowledge of the current era to help them survive there.

This version of Sherlock Holmes is the Novel Sherlock Holmes himself, every feat that happened in the novels count as this version's.
Think of this version as a continuation of the original novels.

—----------

Let's Start :

—-

{Sixth Singularity : Camelot} [Game]

[Section 14]

Holmes immediately deduced the identity of three servants [Plus Ritsuka and Mash(But he heard of them so it is nothing special)] by just looking at them for one time, sadly the process wasn't explained but I will try to explain it by myself :

1- Tawara Touta = By a single look, anyone could deduce multiple things :

[1] He is an Archer due to the fact he carries a bow
[2] He is a Japanese heroic spirit due to his clothes, plus by the look of his clothes you could guess the era where he came from which is the Heian period.

By this you can immediately lower the possibilities of his identity, but it remains a mystery how he deduced it through multiple possibilities, therefore hear my simple reasoning :

He said that he knew about what they were doing in the mountains with Hassan Al-Sabbah, meaning he most likely got a look on their fighting styles, and since Tawara's style replicates his historical story it would be easy to deduce his identity.

[Touta's design]

2- Xuanzang Sanzang = Sanzang wears clothes similar(sort of) to a traveling Chinese monks noted in the book “Journey to the West”, in the book it was described that Xuanzang liked helping others even non-Buddhists which sums up to what she is doing.

To note important detail, Xuanzang was confirmed as a male in “Journey to the west” so Holmes guessed her true name by the fact that it is in fact possible for male historical figures to show up as females after seeing that king Arthur is a female.

This alone is enough to guess her identity, the only possible explanation I have is her beauty, in “Journey to the west” Xuanzang was described as a beautiful Monk. (Not that I am saying a male can’t be beautiful)

3- Bedivere = throughout the Singularity most of the great knights of the round table all had been shown except for a few ones, which means if any other knight were to show up he would be one of them too.

In the stories of king Arthur, Bedivere was described as a handsome knight that fights with a one-hand style that the fate version showed perfectly.

(There is also just the possibility that he simply heard their names somewhere along the lines and acted as if he deduced all of this I am not gonna lie)

Holmes explained that in London [The Fourth Singularity], he was the one that left the information for Chaldea in London at the mage association which gave Chaldea priceless help in the Fourth singularity, and to make sure that Makiri Zouken (One of the villains of that arc) doesn't realize the documents contains information about them, Holmes made sure they don't look very easy to recognize making sure Makiri doesn't notice and Andresson was able to recognize them and read them.

[Section 10 in The Game] - [Chapter 19 in The Manga]

Sherlock identified the shop owner Mr Kaburagi while he acting like a yakuza to scare people, saying that he recognize all the patterns of every different people inside the singularity and noticed the way he talked is not like the other yakuza or the police inside the singularity therefore he knew he was just acting.

[Section 11 in The Game] - [Chapter 20.1-20.2 in The Manga]

After a long discussion with the team, and using the information that Holmes gathered, they figured out evil Moriarty's plan which is to cut off this singularity from the world and destroy it using a magical bullet(An asteroid)[I am not going to explain magical shit]

[Section 12 in The Game] - [Chapter 20.2-23.4 in The Manga]

Next course of action to solve the singularity is to get rid of Assassin of Shinjuku, after getting information that Assassin is making a big party that will have a lot of guests where Assassin will try to rob all the guests in the middle of the party, therefore they decided to put a plan to make him drop his guard and kill him, the plan went like this :
- Artoria & Jeanne & Fujimaru (Disguised as Female to trick Assassin) will enter the party in a separate room from Holmes & Moriarty to reduce the suspicion of being in a team with a plan, this way Assassin will think he can kill Artoria and Jeanne by himself.

- After that, Jeanne will start to burn the place to make all the guests go out reducing the number of the people that Assassin would try to disguise as, and Holmes & Moriarty will help people get out the place faster while memorizing their faces to know who left and stayed.

- Now, since Assassin was disguising as Artoria herself, the main team will go face to face with him to do as much damage to him as possible, after the fight Assassin ordered his soldiers to shoot at the main team where he disguised as one of the soldiers himself to trick Artoria and the team.

- Now, comes the purpose of making Fujimaru disguise as a female where he stood in front of the soldiers and took off his disguise which made Assassin drop his guard for a moment letting Artoria slash his chest and giving him a big injury.

WHAT THE HELL ARE YOU DO-
THE MOMENT THE ASSASSIN OF SHINJUKU WILL LET DOWN HIS GUARD IS...
SPSHH...

- And finally comes the reason of why they split the whole team into 2 groups [Main = Jeanne & Artoria & Fujimaru / Secondary = Holmes & Moriarty], after Assassin ran away, Moriarty and Holmes who were outside of the building checked the crowds who were running in all directions and between all the people they immediately knew which one of them was Assassin even tho he was disguising and they shot him leading to his death and the success of the plan.

[Section 14 in the Game] - [Yet to be drawn in the manga]

Holmes is capable of reading the thoughts of animals using a technique called “Animal Whispering” that he said he got from training to understand animals.

While the term "animal whisperer" is often used in popular culture, the scientific basis for this type of communication is not definitively proven. Some believe that animal whisperers utilize intuition, empathy, and observation to understand animal behavior and build strong connections with them.

How animal whisperers might connect with animals:

Empathy and Intuition:

Animal whisperers are believed to be able to connect with animals on an emotional level, understanding their feelings and needs without relying solely on verbal communication.

Observational Skills:

They pay close attention to an animal's body language, vocalizations, and other behaviors to gain insights into their thoughts and feelings.

Building Trust:

By understanding an animal's needs and communicating effectively, animal whisperers aim to build a strong bond of trust and mutual respect.

Important points to consider:

No Scientific Proof:

While many people believe in animal whisperers and their abilities, there is no scientific evidence to support the claim of telepathic communication with animals.

[Section 14 in The Game] - [Yet to be drawn in the manga]

Using Artoria’s dog -Cavall II- they decided to put a trap to stop Hessien Lobo from moving for a minute so that they could kill him, they realized that -Cavall II- looks a lot like Hessien Lobo’s wife Blanca, and in our history and exactly in the book that was written by Mr Seton that witnessed Hessien Lobo in real life, it was stated that they used a similar wolf resembling Hessien’s wife to trap Hessien and they successfully killed him after Hessien believed the wolf(Dog) was his wife even tho he was driven by hatred and couldn’t think correctly.

Moriarty and Holmes used -Cavall II- as Blanca’s copy since he looked the same as her, where they lured Hessien to Cavall’s location using Artoria Alter as a Bait to follow and the plan turned out to be successful since the moment Hessien saw Cavall he immediately stopped leaving a lot of holes to attack him and with that they successfully fatally injured him leading to his slow death.

{Epic of Remnant : Agartha}

[Chapter 29-31]

Holmes was able to deduce that the real demon god pillar is not Columbus but rather Scheherzade by saying that she made the three queens in the singularity obey their own desires which led to what happened to them, the same thing she did to Columbus

Holmes explained that the reason he didn’t say anything on the matter was the fact that there were still two obstacles to get rid off before revealing the truth about Scheherzade and Columbus which could have complicated the situation.

Holmes noticed the fact that Megalos didn't attack any servant except for the three queens but for some reason he attacked Ritsuka's team twice which is most likely not a coincidence.

And even with this, it doesn't automatically make Scheherzade 100% the demon god pillar, and now Holmes explained his full reasoning as to why he is sure she is the demon god.

"Normally, heroic spirits are summoned by the holy grail, and they will be given knowledge by the land"

"But this unusual case, Penthesila lacked knowledge about human reproduction, Wu Zetian on the other hand was completely unaware of the outside world"

Meaning that the holy grail that summons servants doesn't recognize the singularity (Agartha) as a modern day Central Asia, so it's a separate magical space.

And from the records, creating a space of this size from scratch is impossible, UNLESS, it is created through the usage of a story-telling noble phantasm, and there is only one servant that could use such a noble phantasm.

Holmes described Agartha as a world where dictatorship is common, and the people are ruled by tyrannical leaders.

Meaning it replicated Scheherzade historical story -Thousand and one nights- the other way around where instead of men dominating women, here women dominated men.

Everything that happened in this singularity is the opposite of Scheherzade's story, and Scheherzade said that he is right after hearing his reasoning and called him a Wise-Man.

After Mash and Ritsuka asked him about if he actually did exist in our history, Holmes showed a great amount of knowledge about a lot of heroes through our history and made an explanation that, even if he didn't exist, there is no difference between him and our heroes from history because he left a remarkable change to our world but all of that was a simple misdirection from him to change topics since talking about his existence will lead to unwanted complications that he doesn't want Mash and Ritsuka to think about.

[General Knowledge - Overall Reasoning - Misdirection - Sophistry(Pointed out by Moriarty)]
—----------

Holmes asked both Mash and Ritsuka for help on something in the system of Chaldea and exactly in the simulator that they use for training saying that it contained "a curious mass of data" within the mainframe's internal memory, but his choice of words was a simple misdirection because he knew for a fact who is those "curious mass of data" was and all he wanted was for Mash and Ritsuka to help him defeat the entities inside the simulator without telling them directly since he also deduced by intuition who was the one that hacked the system [It was Moriarty] and he wanted to have his way with him later.

{The Rematch and The Truth}

[Section 21]

Holmes and young Moriarty face each other in one-on-one fight where Holmes goal is to gather as much information from Moriarty as he can to know how to defeat him.

Holmes was able to deduce the identity of the divine spirits inside Moriarty after his first hit missed completely which was a complete nullification and not invincibility, which means the divine spirits must be related to destiny/fate authority.

Moriarty proceeds to use his power to put Holmes and Fujimaru into a dream to miss with Holmes' head.

Moriarty asks Holmes who is the one who summoned him back in the 4th Singularity, the reason for that is that he knows Holmes' secret that Holmes himself forgot, he was himself an Alien Apostle just like young Moriarty.

Holmes has sealed away his memories of being Alien Apostle to betray his own principles and not even to help Chaldea, even then the new Holmes in fact knew he wasn't summoned normally by any means but every time Holmes tried to deduce the truth after his summoning he stopped himself so that he doesn't become a traitor and ends up being the reason Chaldea loses.

The alien god summoned Holmes to spy on them in the fight against the king of mages in Part 1 of Fate/Grand Order.

[Explained in Chapter 5 in the Final Chapter] The reason why Holmes accepted the Alien God summoning was that he wanted that because he is the “revealer”.

Holmes	To reiterate, why did Sherlock Holmes follow Caldeas?
Holmes	What reason would a detective who lacks not only the three basic desires but also the desire for control and power, have to submit to others? Navi 靡
Holmes	If you get down to the bottom of it, the answer is obvious. Sherlock Holmes is the "revealer."
Holmes	Those who have dedicated their souls to the pursuit and unraveling of truth . Mystery 不 明
Holmes	Therefore, there is only one thing he must follow: 'Aru', the one that will unravel all mysteries . Reason 理
Holmes	As someone who reveals the truth, I cannot resist those who possess that truth. I must not resist.
Holmes	Because it will be about your own life, your soul . So what is the principle behind that? insult 侮辱

Realizing the truth about himself, Holmes regained all his memories back and forgot a little bit of the new ones he had.

Holmes realized he can't keep himself alive or else he will betray Chaldea but he also has to get rid of Moriarty.

Ever since I was summoned, other things have filled in for what I was missing.

This allowed me to see many truths, see through them, and arrive at the correct answer.

But right now, that's not what matters.

I now know what Moriarty is after. I know what his goal is in this Singularity.

It's Chaldea.

But then, maybe that's not a problem.

This man looking down at me is young, wild, and deliberate, but he's also arrogant and conceited.

So he is all but certain to reveal his objective to the others.

So all I have to do is tell them what sort of power this Moriarty possesses.

...I see. Even now, I still ——

Holmes deduced that the divine spirits inside Moriarty are the Norns- the three goddesses of fate, that's why they weren't able to touch him and told that to Chaldea.

Then Holmes jumped of the river to his death distracting Moriarty form a crucial thing that he knows that this version of Moriarty will overlook.

With that Holmes died.

Turns out that once Holmes revealed that Moriarty is using fate’s power, Kadoc who has Anastasia's help to destroy the lines of fate can in fact cut through Moriarty's lines of fate destroying his authority and marking Chaldea’s win.

The reason for Moriarty not to notice that is the fact he wanted Kadoc to be his Master and won't expect anyone to have such an ability to destroy concepts.

Holmes predicted both Kadoc and Moriarty's actions after he died that's why he was sure that they would win.

He reveals that CHALDEAS is a reflection of the universe, a copy of the Root also known as “Vortix of The Void”.

By revealing CHALDEAS true identity, it became possible to kill her because now they know what it is, and with that Chaldea went on a full war against CHALDEAS and successfully defeated her thanks to Holmes.

First, he failed to account for the existence of another talented sorcerer, even if they may not have been quite on his level.
And his second, ultimately fatal mistake...
...was failing to account for the world's greatest detective paying him a visit.

[Fate Sherlock Holmes No Diff CTW L according to this video, and No Diff Kanade according to this video]

Nope, not even with statements, it's far closer than people believe.

==========
[Fate Sherlock is just Novel Sherlock but buffed 10 times]

Insanely incorrect, in reality they almost scale to the same level.

[Fate Sherlock is just Sherlock Holmes but with Sora(NGNL) level of feats]

Also no, I only watched the anime of NGNL, but given that I heard that Sora in the anime doesn't come close to his LN version, I could easily say that Sora outscales Fate Sherlock since his anime feats were very impressive.

==========
[Fate Sherlock outscales the whole SCD in Reasoning]

Only to some degree, people like Ranpo or BSD duo (Dazai & Fyodor) actually outscales him, Fate Sherlock is a very logical character and gives a lot of reasonable explanations for situations, he doesn't go around saying some bullshit without proof.

So within the realistic realm, he should be on top of everyone, but if you consider the unrealistic realm, then no, there are characters that would go above him.

==========
[Fate Sherlock is carried by Haxes]

His first hax only gives him General Knowledge and nothing that helps in general outsmarting.

His second Hax gives him hints to solve a case and fight powerful enemies and not smart enemies, this only helps him in Cat & Mouse situations.

His third Hax, useful for deception but he only used it once showing that it is mostly useless in a lot of cases.

His fourth Hax, [1] just body enchantment, he still feels pain and stress like anyone. [2] Completely useless outside of Nasuverse, and it is only usable once and then he will forget his memories in another summoning.
