Kenjaku 's Gojo sealing short analysis

Anime only

Ah , a curse you see is like an assumed Axion if we place it on any being/state. And axions don't need to be all true to work but acceptable - mr jujustu to mr kaizen during the 3 vector board game match.

Gojo's soliloquy

A curse, in its simplest form, is an untempted conceptual desire we force on each other. The strength of the curse is directly related to that bond of desire. In some ways, Yaga's theory that curse techniques are just binding vows, and binding vows are just self-aware desires, makes more sense these days.

At times, when I am ruminating on all the consequences of my decisions and actions I made in jujutsu society and High, I get the conclusion that even though many things have changed, things just remain the same and idle.

Accelerations to improve the current status quo only make the status quo freeze more, incoming efforts to change it becoming drawn towards it like my Limitless cursed technique.

The last person who put in the effort to change the current status quo was my now-deceased friend, Geto. Baka, he was manic and had gone mad in his ideal world; however, I sympathized with him on the core idea that jujutsu society is rotten.

After all, his downfall and my ascension were due to the loss of Rika in Tengen dungeon.

After that day, the distance in my relations towards my friends Shoko, Geto, and jujutsu society as a whole kept on increasing, and my cursed technique infinity kept on getting better and better until there was no one in this world who could ever come close to me if I didn't purposely allow it.

There I was The strongest — Satoru Gojo/Gojo Satoru.

The investigation report that Suguru Gojo had killed the entire village and his own parents and had branched off from jujutsu society completely and was sentenced to death .And my reaction to it, I remember vividly on first hearing it. That my friend, who cared about people and non-sorcerers more than I could, was behind the massacre. I couldn't believe it. So I took it upon myself to confront him directly.

During the confrontation with Suguru about the massacre, I realized the person who was my dear friend had lost himself completely. But the most devastating thing I heard from Geto was that he believed his cause of pointless killing of non-sorcerers would be achieved faster if he were the strongest like me, and that I was foolish to think I wasn't capable of doing the same, but I didn't , so he had to do the job himself.

And left question to my title ;

Are you the strongest cuz you're gojo satoru or are you gojo Satoru because you're the Strongest.

Apparently , being the strongest wasn't good enough.

Additional info

Disaster curse spirits are special-grade cursed spirits that desire to rid the Earth of humanity for various personal reasons:

- Mahito — A cursed spirit born from human hatred and indifference. He can transfigure anything he touches into any form he desires and reshape himself to escape situations. Mahito believes humans have no value and supports the eradication of humanity.
- Jogo — A cursed spirit born from the fear of volcanoes. He possesses fire- and volcano-based cursed techniques. Jogo believes cursed spirits are the true humans and desires a world where they dominate the Earth.
- Dagon — A cursed spirit born from the fear of the ocean. Initially underdeveloped, he evolves significantly during the Shibuya Incident.
- Hanami — A cursed spirit born from the fear of land-based natural disasters. Hanami can control plants and nature and seeks to eliminate humanity due to their destruction of the environment.

All of these cursed spirits possess Domain Expansion, which creates a territory reflecting their inner nature (e.g., Dagon's ocean-like domain).A Domain Expansion guarantees a sure-hit attack on targets inside it and acts as a barrier that traps opponents with little to no chance of escape.

Domain amplification- A barrier that wraps the user in a thin domain layer, neutralizing cursed techniques on contact but preventing the user from using their own

Commission curtain/veil - A large-scale barrier with custom conditions (entry/exit rules, visibility control, targeting specific people)

Under the everyone's vision

Before even the events of the start of Jujutsu Kaisen, Yuji eating Sukuna's finger; Sukuna possessing him, MegumIFushiguro summoning Mahoraga, etc., Kenjaku was always the man behind the curtain in major events of the series and orchestrating the events to his desired outcome without anyone knowing or noticing {planning, manipulation(mass -indirect),Deception (Concealment) , Foresight, Subversion }.

Kenjaku was the true mastermind behind the death of Riko Amanai, the star plasma vessel for Tengen. He hired Toji to kill Riko Amanai to stop the ritual of Tengen body transfer, which helps Tengen to maintain a human form; otherwise, Tengen's own cursed technique would transform Tengen into something beyond human, which is exactly what Kenjaku wanted and accomplished {planning, concealment}. Even after Riko's assassination, nobody had any idea who was truly behind the plan to kill Riko Amanai with the help of Toji.

short summary of hidden inventory/riko'assisantion

The aftermath of Riko's assassination and death changed jujutsu society as a whole forever. It was a snowball fall turned into an avalanche. It caused Gojo's separation, Geto's downfall, jujutsu status quo strengthening around Gojo Satoru, Geto's demise against Yuta, and his death.{Psychology }

Geto's descent caused him to develop the worldview of seeing every non-sorcerer/human as below sorcerers and view them as "monkeys" in comparison. It gave him an irrational hatred towards every human, as he felt only sorcerers are superior humans.

This caused the events of Jujutsu Kaisen 0 movie, where Geto orchestrated the Night of 1000 Cursed Spirits event in Shinjuku and Kyoto to kill every non-sorcerer while he infiltrated Jujutsu High to search for Yuta for the goal of killing him and obtaining the Rika cursed spirit (the most powerful cursed spirit in the series) for his eradication of non-sorcerers grand scheme.

In the end, Geto got defeated by Yuta and survived, barely alive, making a run to retreat, but Gojo caught him for the last time. In his last moments, Geto told Gojo he couldn't live happily in this rotten world and reminisced about his time with Gojo back then before Riko Amanai's death, and in the end, he wished Gojo to hit him with curses one last time as a goodbye.

Satoru Gojo never disposed of his friend's body, which led Kenjaku to get his hands on Suguru Geto's body, a body with the cursed technique: Cursed Spirit Manipulation. Kenjaku used his CT and took over Geto's body, which made his tasks much easier to operate in the future.

At that time, Kenjaku also got his hands on the Prison Realm for his future scheme of getting rid of Gojo Satoru {Planning (Applicability) , Resourcefulness}.

All of this stuff happened as an aftermath of Riko's death, giving optimal conditions and an easier environment for Kenjaku to operate his plan in the future and gather a lot of new material for future plans, like understanding Gojo's psychology and psyche, the current Six Eyes and Limitless user, without anyone knowing about the existence of Kenjaku around that time {concealment}.

The start of Jujutsu Kaisen was influenced by Kenjaku. Yuji eating Sukuna, getting possessed by Sukuna, and becoming a pseudo-vessel to contain Sukuna was orchestrated by Kenjaku by giving one Sukuna finger to Yuji's friends in the Occult Club of the school {manipulation, planning, anticipation}, which led to the events of episode one of JJK season 1.{Planning{setup},Psychology }

Kenjaku was able to convince and join the group of disaster cursed spirits, Jogo, Dagon, Hanami, and Mahito, who had the agenda of eradicating humanity and making cursed spirits the sole rulers of the world, to join his cause of getting rid of Gojo from the world, and he understood every driving/motivating factor for these curses without them knowing and used them as disposable pawns in his plan, while at the same time gaining their trust as a trustworthy leader/ally {long-term indirect manipulation, charisma,Psychology (Profiling), Leadership, Acting}.

He convinced and nudged them into becoming stronger, using their techniques in full potential while secretly grooming them as his pawn and waiting for the right moment they would be at their weakest and extract them using geto's CT. As he never believed in disaster's agenda of eradicating humanity as he believes in utilizing the cursed energy by everyone by any means and believe himself to above the disaster curse spirits in general {Planning , Manipulation, EQ, mulitasking }

During his time with the disaster group, Kenjaku made contact with a high jujutsu student who had a Heavenly Restriction which gave him a fragile body but immense cursed energy and range control for his CT: Puppet Manipulation, named Kokichi Muta

Kenjaku struck a deal with him for sharing insider information and spying in Jujutsu High in exchange for healing his body by one of his allies, Mahito, who has a CT that can transfigure soul and body, thus bypassing the Heavenly Restriction.

He made a binding vow as a guarantee, which ensured the delivery of the agreement and no violence from him and his ally Mahito during the period of the agreement/deal, while Muta would leak his ties with Kenjaku.

It ensured two-way contact between Kenjaku and Muta, ensuring neither side could betray each other, showing Kenjaku's brilliant profiling and SQ quotient .(info control, contingency/leverage, resourcefulness)

With Kokichi Muta's spying and information, Kenjaku and the disaster cursed spirits influenced and caused these arcs in season 1:

Jumping on Mahito Arc, where Yuji and Nanami were trapped with Mahito to fight in a veil cast by Kenjaku.

Kyoto Goodwill Event Arc, in which the disaster cursed spirit Hanami attacked the Kyoto vs Tokyo jujutsu event for Mahito to secretly steal 12 Sukuna fingers and Death Painting special grade cursed items from Jujutsu High.

Death Painting Arc, where Mahito reincarnated cursed womb Death Paintings, Choso, Eso, and Kechizu, and convinced them to join their side, and shared the location of Nobara and Yuji on the mission to engage Eso and Kechizu. This led to Eso and Kechizu dying by Yuji and Nobara, and Choso sensing his brothers' deaths and aligning with the disaster curses for their cause and his personal vendetta of killing Yuji himself.

Thus, Kenjaku gained one more pawn in his scheme without even trying.

Preparations & Pacts

october 31st shibuya was foreshadowed all along

Now, after the Death Painting Womb Arc, the preparation phase of Kenjaku's Gojo sealing scheme started.

Where Kenjaku discusses his plans of sealing Gojo in detail with the disaster cursed spirits and new member Choso in detail. Kenjaku planned the sealing of Gojo in Shibuya on October 31 as ideal, utilizing the crowd both defensively and offensively against Gojo Satoru in their plan.{tacties framing}

Kenjaku also discussed various possibilities and worst-case scenarios in their plan that could happen way before the preparation, profiling Sukuna, Yuji, and Megumi as sensitive to their plan. This shows the feat of profiling Megumi, Sukuna, and Yuji in the Shibuya Incident before even the preparations were started {profiling, theory of mind}.

On October 17, Kenjaku met up with Kokichi Muta to fulfill his pact of healing his body in exchange for spying for Kenjaku in Jujutsu High. After getting healed by Mahito's CT, Muta shows no amusement in his newly healed body, which even Mahito comments on, saying he's so boring and lame.
Muta replies saying he will show excitement after he finishes Mahito here. Mahito excitedly accepts the fight proposal, and Muta attacks him with his puppets.

While Mahito was dealing with the puppets, Kenjaku asks him if he needs a hand; Mahito declines his suggestion for help. During that, Muta makes an escape, activates his Absolute Mecha, and collapses the whole building Mahito and Kenjaku were in, and threatens both Kenjaku and Mahito.

Despite the enormous scale of the mecha of Mechamaru/Muta, Kenjaku was quite unfazed by his remarks and plan. In fact, he was excited to see if Mahito could defeat Mechamaru on his own {AC, Thinking}.

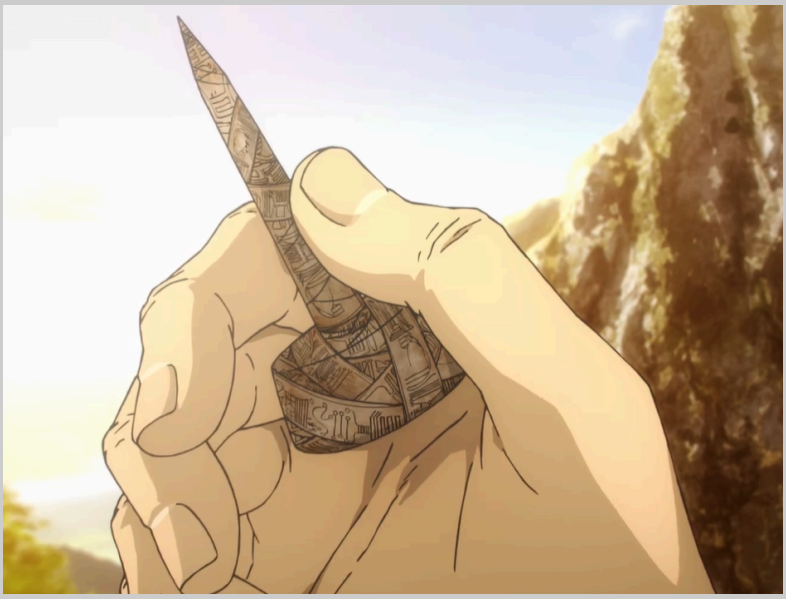

Kenjaku cast a barrier around Muta so Muta couldn't get out and couldn't send signals to Jujutsu High and Gojo about the Shibuya plan and Kenjaku {Thinking}.

This fight between Mechamaru and Mahito also serves Kenjaku's purpose of developing Mahito as a curse for Shibuya.

The fight ends with Mahito killing Mechamaru in surprise.

Best part, Kenjaku predicted the fight would happen between Mahito and Muta. That's why he placed preparation for commissioned curtains (this pin below) earlier for trapping {foresight, trapping}.

And planned to use these pins/Commissioned Curtains for his plans.

In the preparation phase, Kenjaku gathered many rogue sorcerers and cursed spirits like Jiro Awasaka, Granny Ogami and her grandson, Haruta, Geto's adopted daughters, and the grasshopper cursed spirit, etc., in the mission for Gojo sealing, in exchange for making a binding vow to be placed in obvious locations and strengthening the multi-layer barrier around Shibuya.
Kenjaku also taught domain amplification techniques jogo and hanami for the plan

Kenjaku also utilized many commissioned curtains.

To know a man's weakness is to own his mind - mr jujus to mr kaizen after finishing game by converting horse to octopus and killing all marshals of kaisen in 3 vector board

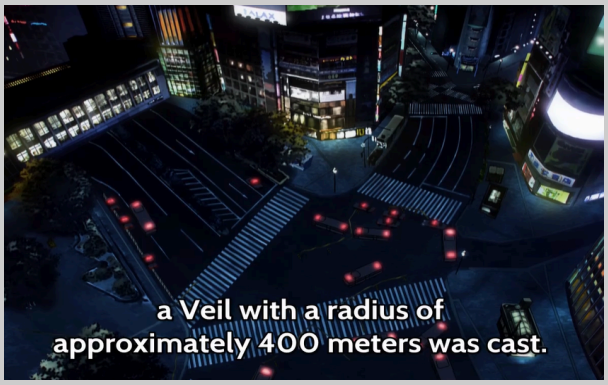

Shibuya station is open till

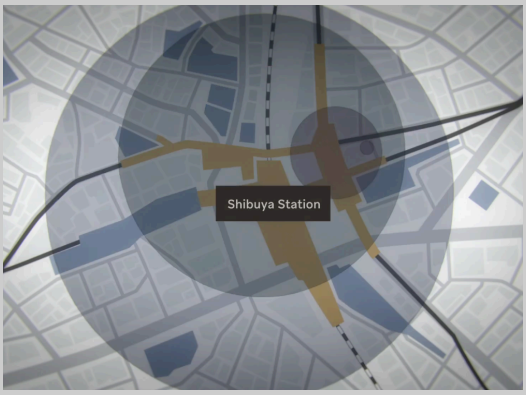

Gojo sealing plan:

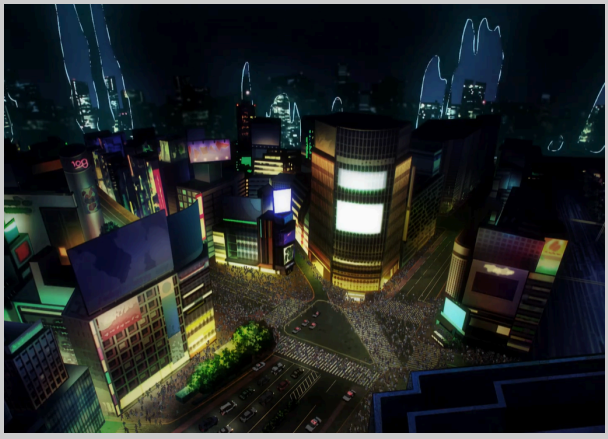

1. First, cast three special-condition veils out of four in the plan.
First veil: to trap every citizen in Shibuya.
Second veil: around Shibuya Station, stopping sorcerers from entering except Gojo Satoru. This second veil covers the whole base of operations for Gojo sealing.
Third veil: around inner stations to capture all passengers (smallest one in the image).

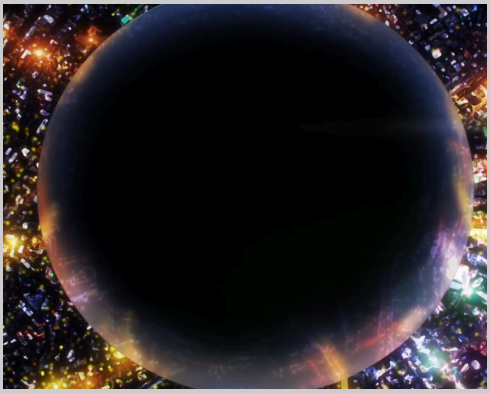

* The fourth curtain/veil will be cast after Gojo Satoru enters (second smallest one in the image).
Ref — JJK Season 2, Episode 10, at 6:50 min.

This shows the planning scope and scale Kenjaku had in mind for a long time and its execution (shielding. Scope, scalability).

2. Kenjaku commands the dragon to suck all citizens underground, creating a crowded environment inside the station platforms. Here Mahito comes into play. Mahito, using CT: Idle Transfiguration, transforms all citizens sucked by the dragon, using them as material and deploying them around the station and among the crowd.

He also blocks exits outside by placing transfigured humans and semi–grade one cursed spirits for passengers.

Then Kenjaku commands Mahito to target the metro and transform all 1000 passengers into transfigured humans.

3. Spread the message to citizens still present outside Shibuya and stations to "bring Gojo Satoru," to get the attention of Jujutsu society.

4. At 8:31 PM, Gojo enters the underground station.
Gojo reaches the station at 8:38 PM and assesses the situation, realizing two things:

- This is done by the same group who attacked Jujutsu High during the Goodwill Festival
- This is a trap

Ref — JJK Season 2, Episode 8, 00:50.

There, Gojo confronts Jogo, Choso, and Hanami.

At the same time, the fourth curtain is cast by Kenjaku with conditions to trap Gojo Satoru. This curtain covers almost the whole station, ensuring no way out for Gojo if things go wrong.

Hanami uses her CT to block off entrances, trapping people inside with the cursed spirits and Gojo.

Then the barrier/guideline or whatever is it's called is opened, making many non-sorcerers fall onto the rails where Gojo is.

This surrounds Gojo with civilians, forcing him to prioritize protection of non-sorcerers in the fight

Jogo, Choso, and Hanami begin targeting civilians to destabilize him.

Choso uses Blood Manipulation to obscure Gojo's vision, allowing Jogo and Hanami to attack using Domain Amplification to bypass Infinity like kenjaku said.

This causes gojo to use his limitless meticulously against jogo and hanami due domain amplification attacks by jogo and hanami.

Ep 8 [18;00]
Blue can't be used since it can harm non-sorcerers around Gojo; the same goes for using Red. The efficiency of Infinity is reduced due to Domain Amplification, and Gojo is also not able to use Blue for quick steps due to the crowd of weaker non-sorcerers.

What bout Hollow Purple? Grok translation —> what about using a pocket nuke against three composite Megumis in this matter ?

In one move, Kenjaku disarms all of Gojo's cursed techniques in this situation, forcing him into a defensive stance against disaster cursed spirits.

Kenjaku's thoughts:
{Using it without harming non-sorcerers would be next to impossible}
{He won't be able to use Blue at an output that is effective against you either (you — Jogo)}
{High-speed movement using Blue would be difficult as well}
{For non-sorcerers, it's instant death if he bumps into them}

{In a situation like that, Gojo Satoru will be forced on the defensive}

5.Now, Jogo, Hanami, and Choso have to use hit-and-run tactics against Gojo and use non-sorcerers as shields. Since even without any effective CT usage, Gojo Satoru is still arguably the most dangerous sorcerer, they have to hold Gojo Satoru for 20 minutes in the station for reasons that will be clear soon and continue to build tension. However, the disaster cursed spirits have to be careful, since if they kill non-sorcerers without paying attention, it could create an opening for Gojo Satoru to attack them freely.

Now it's a matter of throwing hands and jumping between Jogo and Gojo, also Hanami.

Kenjaku's scheme also renders Gojo unable to use Unlimited Void, since it would cause non-sorcerers to be crushed to death by the veil cast by Kenjaku. Though Kenjaku is sure there is a 99% chance Gojo won't use Domain Expansion anyway for the safety of non-sorcerers, since UV can render anyone except Gojo Satoru into a trance and fry their brains due to the sheer amount of information.

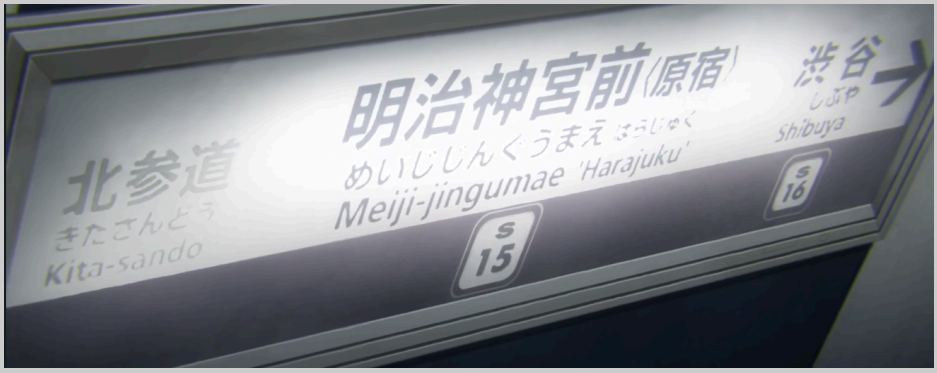

Not even 5 minutes in, Hanami dies, with Gojo baiting Jogo and Hanami into turning off Domain Amplification for safety, successfully gaslighting them on how Limitless works.

Jogo panics and runs away amid the crowd to cover himself, even throwing non-sorcerers at Gojo while keeping Domain Amplification on at all times. Jogo now has to focus entirely on hit-and-run tactics against Gojo Satoru. This also gives a disadvantage to Jogo, since non-sorcerers start avoiding Gojo Satoru and make space around him.

This allows Gojo a chance to use his CT against Jogo. This also increases his composure in this situation, which Kenjaku comments on.

Ep 9, 9:00 min

Jogo is able to hold back Gojo using hit-and-run tactics for 20 minutes, enough time for the train to arrive at Shibuya from Meiji-Jingumae (almost 20 minutes) at 9:14 PM, carrying Mahito's 1000 transfigured humans and releasing them among non-sorcerers, causing more chaos and confusing Gojo further.

Carrying Mahito's 1000 transfigured humans and releasing them among non-sorcerers, causing more chaos and confusion to Gojo. But that wasn't the end for Gojo Satoru's confusion; another crowd fell from the upper department, mixing with transfigured humans, causing even more chaos for Gojo to handle - exactly what Kenjaku wants. Now Gojo Satoru has been rendered completely helpless and is not able to use any CT or any quick movements.

This makes things even worse for Gojo when Mahito, Jogo, and Choso start killing non-sorcerers freely due to the new crowd, while Mahito's transfigured humans attack non-sorcerers at the same time. And all Gojo can do is watch helplessly, unable to protect anyone.

(The purple circle is the veil to trap Gojo Satoru, the yellow circle is the veil trapping non-sorcerers, and the red circle is congested the crowd above.)

Anyone with good morality like Gojo Satoru would be under extreme analysis paralysis or even make the wrong choice — anyone but not Gojo Satoru. Gojo Satoru is capable of cold logic in extreme situations.

A Domain Expansion. A brief one — only for 0.2 seconds.

A calculated risk by Gojo. By opening Domain Expansion for only 0.2 seconds, he ensures only half a year's worth of information is given, leaving everyone unconscious while standing. Gojo quickly enters the trance and kills all 1000 transfigured humans without wasting any time, since there is a chance a transfigured human or disaster curse could wake up at any moment.

Gojo kills all 1000 transfigured humans in 299 seconds.

This unimaginable move, which even Kenjaku couldn't predict, leaves Gojo Satoru extremely exhausted and tired.

Despite the big setback in the plan, Kenjaku quickly finds an opportunity, showing how his plan is flexible and versatile.

Dropping the Prison Realm near Gojo and opening it by incarnation. A moment later, Gojo realizes the Prison Realm is opened on him and decides to run away.
Kenjaku shows up, replicating the same mannerisms of Suguru Geto, even calling Gojo by his real name (a Japanese cultural thing). He is able to briefly mislead Gojo Satoru and cause him to remember the past, satisfying the conditions of the Prison Realm (1 minute in the target's mind). Thus, he is able to capture him.

Some talking happens between Gojo and Kenjaku, and at last Kenjaku closes the Prison Realm, saying: “Gate Close.”
